Lake Maranacook House Destroyed at an Early Hour.

The Four Score Guests Had a Nar- row Escape From Death.

Readfield, Me., Aug. 26.—Three persons lost their lives early today in a fire which destroyed the Maranacook hotel at Lake Maranacook.

Five other persons were burned or otherwise injured.

The hotel management believe the bodies are those of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Martin and child of Boston, for the reason that all the other guests have been located and the bodies correspond with theirs.

More than four score guests and employees escaped in night attire many of them leaping from the windows. That there has been loss of life, was not known until a search of the ruins during the forenoon revealed the charred bodies.

MORE CAPITALISTS INDICTED FOR LAND FRAUDS IN OREGON

Portland, Or., Aug. 26.—The federal grand jury investigating the Oregon land frauds has returned true bills against Claude F. Thayer, the Tillamook capitalist, son of former Governor Thayer, of this state, and several other operators indicted with him. The significance of this action is emphasized by the fact that when the indictment was returned there remained but six hours until the law would have been powerless to reach the crime.

COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED TO NEGOTIATE DISSOLUTION

Stockholm, Aug. 26.—The commissioners appointed to negotiate with regard to the dissolution of the union of Sweden and Norway were today announced as follows:

ANARCHICAL CHARACTER

To the Disturbances In the Baltic Provinces of Late.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 26.—The police department has drawn up a review of the disturbances among the Letts, in the Baltic provinces, which of late, according to the report, have assumed an anarchical character.

Within four months, in towns in the provinces of Courland and Livonia, there have been four attempts on the lives of officials, four attacks on private persons, six attempts against the lives of police officers, three attacks on Cossack patrols, and two cases in which bombs were thrown.

At Riga, an attempt was made to set fire to the powder store in a carting factory. The report says that "in the Lutheran churches demonstrations were begun and repeated every Sunday in May and June," and that the agitation of the peasants with arms, of which they obviously possessed an extensive supply.

In Mitau the rioters in one day destroyed the archives in nine districts, throwing the documents, the seals and portraits of the emperor into the streets. Attempts to damage the railroad, the report says, have been numerous of late.

PRESIDENT UNABLE TO BRING THE BELLIGERENTS TOGETHER

PRIEST LURED TO ROOM BY WOMAN AND ROBBED

Pretended She Was Ill and Needed Spiritual Consolation.

Clergyman Held Captive Twenty-Four Hours Without Food.

Forced to Sign Checks— Released After Money Was Obtained.

Cleveland, Aug. 26.—On the statement made to the police by Rev. Benedict Rosinski, a Catholic priest of St. Stanislaus church that he had been held prisoner for twenty-four hours without food and forced to sign two notes for $500 each and two checks for like amounts, which have been since cashed, besides being robbed of $30 and some jewelry, two men and a woman were arrested today. The woman is said to have lured the priest to her room in Cedar avenue by pretending to be ill and in need of spiritual consolation, and the men are said to have rushed in on them and held Rev. Rosinski prisoner until he had satisfied their demands. Rev. Rosinski says that he received two telephone messages on Thursday urging him to call on Jennie Oleski of 389 Cedar avenue. He had been there but a few moments when Julian Tuszynski rushed in and declaring himself to be the woman's fiancé, demanded that the priest give up $400 for alienating her affections. With Tuszynski was Leo Czechowski, both of whom, according to Rev. Rosinski's story, started at once to beat him and tear him and his clothes from his back when he refused to give them any money. His jewelry was taken from him, as well as $30, and he was detained as a prisoner for twenty-four hours without food or drink until he consented to sign the checks and notes. These checks were cashed by Tuszynski and the woman. It is said. Upon his return to the room with the money the priest says he was released.

Rev. Rosinski notified the police and the trio were arrested. The two notes and $319 were found under a carpet in the room. They are charged with robbery and were bound over to the grand jury.

THIRTEEN LIVES KNOWN TO HAVE BEEN LOST.

Trinidad, Col., Aug. 26.—Thirteen lives are known to have been lost in the flood caused by the cloudburst near Techo and Berwind in the canyon north of this city, and the list of dead may be increased. Reports are still current that more than thirty persons are missing. They are mainly foreigners who were employed in the coal mines. Twenty-nine houses were washed away at Tobasco, twenty-two of which were occupied by Italians and eight by Americans.

CHINESE BOYCOTT Has Completely Paralyzed the Flour Trade.

Seattle, Aug. 26.—Advice received by a large milling company of this city from its agent in Hong Kong, state that the Chinese boycott of American goods has completely paralyzed the flour trade between Pacific coast ports and China. No sales have been made since July 15, and all orders for September shipment have been cancelled.

MASTER PRINTERS BEGIN FIGHT WITH THEIR EMPLOYES

Open Shop Is Declared In Large Chicago Establishments.

Preliminary Skirmish to Defeat Pro- posed Eight-Hour Day.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Chicago today became the center of the struggle of employing printers throughout the country against the Typographical union to defeat the latter's attempt to secure the eight-hour day. Open shop notices were posted on four of the large printing establishments, members of the Typothetae. The spirit of the independent declaration will be carried out by the employment of non-union printers at once. Other members of the Typothetae have planned to follow suit. Union officials say that the first non-union man to appear in any of the Typothetae establishments will be a signal for a general walkout in every plant controlled by the master printers organization. More than 20,000 job printers throughout the country may be involved eventually in the struggle of the open shop and also the eight-hour day in job printing offices. The nine-hour day prevails at present and the employers contend that they have the right to employ men according to their worth.

THE COMMITTEE MISSED GOVERNOR AND HE WAS MAD

Chicago, Aug. 26.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Peoria, Ill., says: Through a case of striking resemblance Governor LaFollette of Wisconsin was missed by the Chautauquean reception committee yesterday and a traveling man, who resembled him, received a free ride to his hotel. Not until the much surprised traveling man had reached the hotel did he succeed in convincing the committee that he was only a "drummer." Then it was too late. The governor had hired a carriage and unattended took himself to a hotel.

SEE THE PLUNGER. President and Party Witness a Submarine Test.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 26.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt with a party of friends and relatives today witnessed a test of the submarine boat Plunger from the deck of the naval yacht Sylph.

The weather was quite different from that of yesterday when the president himself made a dive in the Plunger and watched at close range, even participating in the maneuvers of the tiny vessel, forty feet below the surface of the Long Island sound.

A stiff northeast wind was blowing, but the rain had ceased and the sun burned away the early morning haze. The test of the Plunger took place in the waters of the sound a short distance outside the entrance to Oyster Bay. The boat operated in about seven fathoms of water.

YELLOW FEVER May Become Source of Worri- ment to San Francisco.

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—Sir Patrick Manson, medical adviser to the British consular office, and recognized authority on tropical diseases, in a speech before the board of directors of the Merchants' association of this city, outlined his theory that yellow fever may yet become a source of worry here in the changed trade conditions which will follow the completion of the Panama canal, urging the necessity of what now passes as quarantine, either in yellow fever or the bubonic plague. Owing to the advantages that San Francisco possesses over London for the study of tropical diseases, an advantage due to the fact that it has a colony of 10,000 Chinese as well as many Japanese, Filipinos and Hawaiians, he suggested that a school should be established here for the study of same.

THE NEGOTIATIONS MAY BE PROLONGED

Russians Are Pliable But Japan Must Change Attitude.

Witte May Possibly Have Another Proposition to Make.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 26.—President Roosevelt's intervention at Peterhof and Tokio has not been successful as yet, but enough progress has been made to insure the prolongation of the negotiations beyond today. A certain result has been achieved at St. Petersburg, but if there is eventually to be peace Japan also must change her attitude. The repurchase of the northern half of Sakhalin island still points the clear road to the only possible compromise, but it must be a purely commercial transaction, not a claim for indemnity in disguise.

There had not been the slightest indication up to 11 o'clock this morning, that Emperor Nicholas would recede from his announced determination not to pay tribute under any form. And in the quarters most competent to judge, there is not the slightest prospect of a change. But if Japan would bend, if she would renounce formally her demand for "reimbursement for the cost of the war," with the withdrawal of the price she sets on the northern half of Sakhalin and thereby make the proposition to sell the island on a commercial basis, it is difficult to see how Emperor Nicholas, having already accepted the other conditions proposed, could refuse.

Japan it is argued, could afford to be magnanimous to avoid wounding the sensibilities of her adversary, and Russia could with dignity come to an accord on such a basis. Japan could not obtain all she desires, perhaps, but the amount she could secure from the sale added to what she could obtain from the Chinese-Eastern railroad and maintenance of the Russian prisoners would certainly cover a considerable portion of the cost of the war. The frank renunciation of the disguised claim for indemnity would greatly strengthen also Mr. Witte's position by enabling him within the letter of his instructions, to present acceptance of such a solution.

There is reason to believe that Mr. Witte himself has some proposition in mind. He is said to have stated to a friend, that he held in reserve a final proposition, and if the Japanese refused to accept he would make it clear to the world that Japan, not Russia, was responsible for the rupture.

Mr. Witte's proposition is said not to be Mr. Roosevelt's. It can also be stated that unless the proposed solution is forthcoming, Mr. Witte does not favor dragging on the negotiations. Better for the cause of peace in his opinion, to bring the conference to an end. Then he believes Japan would come to a full realization of the fact that an indefinite war involving an immense expenditure stares her in the face because she refused to renounce her desire to humiliate Russia by forcing the payment of tribute. As a skilled and trained financier, Mr. Witte evidently counts much on the exchequer argument.

At 12 o'clock one of the Russian attaches was quoted as saying that telegrams had been received from St. Petersburg, but they contained no word which would permit Mr. Witte to offer a counter proposition to the Japanese compromise and that unless the Japanese had a new proposition the conference was doomed and today or Monday would mark the final rupture.

KAISER DENIES He Is Opposed To Roosevelt's Peace Efforts.

Berlin, Aug. 26.—The Associated Press today received the following communication from the foreign office: "The foreign office empowers the Associated Press to declare that all reports of the opposition of the emperor to the mediation of President Roosevelt are absurd. The emperor regards the endeavors of the president with admiration, and takes the greatest interest in the success of the labors for peace, in whose beginnings the emperor personally assisted."

The impression in the foreign office today is that the negotiations at Portsmouth will not end immediately.

PRESIDENT BUSY. In Constant Communication With Russia and Japan.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 26.—Two emperors, the one at St. Petersburg and the other at Tokio, are the determining factors in the pending peace negotiations. Although the negotiations temporarily are suspended at Portsmouth, they are proceeding actively through President Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill. He is in practically constant communication with the St. Petersburg and Tokio governments.

By both the warring nations his good offices have been sought and his efforts to bring their plenipotentiaries into accord and thus prevent a failure of the peace conference are unremitting.

After the departure of Baron Kaneko yesterday, President Roosevelt was engaged with Acting Secretary Barnes for two hours in the consideration of dispatches received and in the preparation of those to be sent. The disclaimer of the Russian foreign office of the statement purporting to have been made by Count Lamsdorff, minister for foreign affairs, declaring that Russia would pay no indemnity to Japan under any guise or make any cession of territory, was received by the president with satisfaction. It indicated no willingness on the part of Russia to accede to Japan's terms as to indemnity, but the disclaimer is regarded as leaving the way open for further discussion of terms that may lead to a satisfactory conclusion of the conference.

Whether the negotiations now being conducted through President Roosevelt will have reached such a stage at the hour at which the conferees are to assemble at Portsmouth as to allow the plenipotentiaries to proceed with important considerations is regarded as doubtful. It appears to be likely that the envoys will meet, and after a perfunctory session, adjourn their deliberations until Monday or possibly until Tuesday. This adjournment will afford them ample time to receive and consider instructions from their respective governments which will be based on exchanges now in progress between Sagamore Hill, St. Petersburg and Tokio.

NO CHANGE In the Situation In Russia at Late Hour.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 26.—Mr. Meyer, the American ambassador, today, received a number of cablegrams from Washington as the result of which he called on Foreign Minister Lamsdorff this afternoon. The foreign office announced at 2 p. m. that the situation was still unchanged and that there had been no developments over night affecting Russia's position.

The Russ says: "It is self evident that Japan is greatly in need of money and that she will not be able to continue war without it, but Russia has no reason to pay an indemnity directly or indirectly and will not do so. It may be that President Roosevelt will be able to find an outlet for the immense American can work miracles in matters of finance."

The Kovzevsky says: "Cannot the fortunes of war come our way? We have learned something in the last eighteen months and have strengthened our army and improved its equipment. If we pay an indemnity Japan will use our money in preparing to deliver a new blow. If the war is a burden to Japan, let her stop it. It would pay her to do so and would ensure a long peace both for Japan and all her benevolent creditors."

FRENCH ARE PASSIVE. Not Taking Much Interest In Peace Negotiations.

Paris, Aug. 26.—Premier Rouvier had a long talk at the foreign office today with M. Jussierand, ambassador to the United States. Its nature has not been disclosed, but it is presumed that it related to American affairs and to the general status of the negotiations at Portsmouth. However, the government is not giving any outward signs of activity in connection with the peace conference owing to the sensitivity of French relations with Russia.

Information from St. Petersburg shows that Ambassador Myers' meeting with the emperor lasted only ten minutes and was not productive of notable results. The brevity of the meeting is looked upon as an unfavorable sign. Nevertheless, government circles believe that Russia's inability to raise more money for war will prove a decisive factor in compelling the conclusion of peace.

COAL LANDS On Queen Charlotte Island Bought By Americans.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 26.—W. F. Borland, representing Montreal and New York capital, has completed the purchase of 30,000 acres of coal lands on Queen Charlotte Island from a local syndicate for $700,000. Development is dependent on this action of the British Columbia government regarding the construction of local railroads and the making of harbors, which is expected to commence next spring.

LA FOLLETTE PRAISES GOVERNOR DENEEN.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 26.—In an interview here, Governor La Follette said of Governor Deneen: "I believe that Governor Deneen is an able man. I believe that he is thoroughly conscientious and when the great struggle comes, as it will; as it must come in every state, I believe that he will be found on the side of the people."

He said he was of the opinion that a period of great political regeneration was now in progress.

Lake Maranacook House Destroyed at an Early Hour.

Readfield, Me., Aug. 26.—Three persons lost their lives early today in a fire which destroyed the Maranacook hotel at Lake Maranacook.

Five other persons were burned or otherwise injured.

The hotel management believe the bodies are those of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Martin and child of Boston, for the reason that all the other guests have been located and the bodies correspond with theirs.

More than four score guests and employees escaped in night attire many of them lying on the windows. That there has been loss of life, was not known until a search of the ruins during the forenoon revealed the charred bodies.

The injured: Robert Bottwell, Malden, Mass., a hotel clerk, burned about the head and hands; Mrs. George H. Hassan, Boston, leg broken, ankle strained and back injured; W. J. Maxwell, Brooklyn, ankle sprained; J. H.

Martin, Dorchester, Mass., internal injuries; ten-year-old son of Mr. Martin, ankle sprained.

The fire which is supposed to have been caused by a defective chimney spread rapidly through the two and one-half stories of the wooden structure. Clerk Bottwell discovered the flames, and rushing through the corridors, aroused all the guests. In doing this, however, he was seriously burned and later, while attending to the guests in the cold air of the early morning, contracted a severe cold which, it is feared, will develop into pneumonia. None of the guests saved their personal effects and many of them were unconscious by the time they had reached the open air. Nearby cottages provided clothing and shelter for the guests and physicians summoned from the town and Readfield attended the burned and injured.

The hotel was built twenty-seven years ago and was owned by the Maine Central railroad.

WELL KNOWN MARINE MAN LOSES LIFE IN ERIE FIRE

Erie, Pa., Aug. 26.—Capt. Patrick MacMahon, of the yacht Mystic, was burned to death and eighteen persons were almost suffocated in a fire which started on the third floor of the Charles Beck block, early today. The flames were seen bursting from the front windows and when the firemen arrived they found the eighteen occupants of the building asleep and almost dead from suffocation. It was with much difficulty that they were finally gotten out of danger. When the room of Capt. MacMahon was entered he was found on the floor dead and his body partially burned. The fire started in MacMahon's room and was probably caused by him leaving a lighted cigar stub on the floor when he retired. Capt. MacMahon was prominent in the marine interests and was recently distinguished by receiving a medal from congress for rescuing a man who was drowning in the harbor.

The monetary loss by the fire was not heavy.

MORE CAPITALISTS INDICTED FOR LAND FRAUDS IN OREGON

Portland, Or., Aug. 26.—The federal grand jury investigating the Oregon land frauds has returned true bills against Claude F. Thayer, the Tillamook capitalist, son of former Governor Thayer, of this state, and against other capitalists indicted with him. The significance of this action is emphasized by the fact that when the indictment was returned there remained but six hours until the law would have been powerless to reach the crime.

In September, 1905, approximately 100 persons made filings at the Oregon City land office to enter timber lands in Tillamook County, the lands being situated in the famous Nehalem valley. It is alleged that Claude Thayer and his associates had secured a purchase and the net profits were to be divided. The allegations of fraud in the affidavits of contest which were subsequently filed led to the order for an investigation. These cases involve more money value in timber lands than all the cases which have been tried so far.

COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED TO NEGOTIATE DISSOLUTION

Stockholm, Aug. 26.—The commissioners appointed to negotiate with regard to the dissolution of the union of Sweden and Norway were today announced as follows:

For Sweden—Christian Lundberg, the premier; Count A. F. Wachtmeister, minister of foreign affairs; M. Stauf, member of the cabinet, without portfolio, and M. Hammarskjöld, minister of ecclesiastical affairs.

For Norway—Premier Michaelsen, Foreign Minister Loeveland, C. C. Ilerner, president of the storting, and M. Vogt, former minister of the interior. The commissioners will hold their first meeting at Carlsbad, Aug. 31.

ANARCHICAL CHARACTER BOY SAVED IN STRUNG UP BY COMPANIONS THE BALTIC PROVINCES Who Were Playing of Late.

Within four months, in towns in the provinces of Courland and Livonia, there have been four attempts on the lives of officials, four attacks on private persons, six attempts against the lives of police officers, three attacks on Cossack patrols, and two cases in which bombs were thrown.

Minneapolis, Aug. 26.—While playing "Indians" yesterday, Raymond Cariofini, a member of a prominent family of this city, 13 years old, was lynched by a rope strung about his neck and drawn off his feet, the rope having been thrown over the limb of a tree. Cries of anguish rent the air in the vicinity of the "hanging," when the spectators of the "lynching" made their escape to their homes leaving the unfortunate boy dangling to his fate, which had it not been for the quick action of Rev. W. Riley of the First Baptist church, this city, there would have been a death. The boy was cut down in the nick of time, his neck being severely cut by the rope, which was steadily growing more tight as each moment passed. Arrests may follow.

INJUNCTION ISSUED.
Crookston, Minn., Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—County Auditor Nels A. Hoffard of this city was yesterday served with an injunction restraining him from letting Rich job No. 55, Louis Larson, C. E. Bjornrud, August Edstrom, Nels Varberg, Jens Quam, W. T. Haman, Sam Sutor and Nathan E. Carver are the plaintiffs in the injunction proceedings and the temporary writ is made returnable before Judge William Watts on Aug. 28.

The nine-hour day prevails at present and the employers contend that they have the right to employ men according to their worth.

A strike of job pressmen may follow, but this has not been determined definitely. None of the daily newspapers is involved in the impending conflict. The Typothetae has been preparing for the contest, having established a school for the purpose of training linotype operators. On the other hand the printers have been contributing one-half of one per cent of their wages to a strike fund.

LaCrosse, Wis., Aug. 26.—Representatives of the employing printers of Chicago have been in the city several days in the search of non-union printers to be sent to Chicago, where it is claimed they are to be held in reserve until needed in the coming fight against the eight-hour work day by the Typothetae.

It indicated no willingness on the part of Russia to accede to Japan's terms as to indemnity, but the disclaimer is regarded as leaving the way open for further discussion of terms that may lead to a satisfactory conclusion of the conference.

Whether the negotiations now being conducted through President Roosevelt will have reached such a stage at the hour at which the conference are to assemble at Portsmouth as to allow the plenipotentiaries to proceed with important considerations is regarded as doubtful. It appears to be likely that the envoys will meet, and after a perfunctory session, adjourn their deliberations until Monday or possibly until Tuesday. This adjournment will afford them ample time to receive and consider instructions from their respective governments which will be based on exchanges now in progress between Sagamore Hill, St. Petersburg and Tokio.

NO CHANGE In the Situation in Russia at Late Hour.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 26.—Mr. Meyer, the American ambassador, today, received a number of cablegrams from Washington as the result of which he called on Foreign Minister Lamsdorff this afternoon. The foreign office announced at 2 p. m. that the situation was still unchanged and that there had been no developments over night affecting Russia's position.

The Russ says: "It is self evident that Japan is greatly in need of money and that she will not be able to continue war without it, but Russia has no reason to pay an indemnity directly or indirectly and will not do so. It may be that President Roosevelt will be able to find an outlet from the impasse. Americans can work miracles in matters of finance."

The Novoe Vremya says: "Cannot the fortunes of war come our way? We have learned something in the last eighteen months and have strengthened our army and improved its equipment. If we pay an indemnity Japan will use our money in preparing to deliver a new blow. If the war is not over, to Japan, let her stop it. It would pay her to do so and would ensure a long peace both for Japan and all her benevolent creditors."

FRENCH ARE PASSIVE. Not Taking Much Interest In Peace Negotiations.

Paris, Aug. 26.—Premier Rouvier had a long talk at the foreign office today with M. Jassrand, ambassador to the United States. His nature has not been disclosed, but it is presumed that it related to American affairs and to the general status of the negotiations at Portsmouth. However, the government is not giving any outward signs of activity in connection with the peace conference owing to the sensitiveness of French relations with Russia.

Information from St. Petersburg shows that Ambassador Meyer's meeting with the emperor lasted only ten minutes and was not productive of notable results. The brevity of the meeting is looked upon as an unfavorable sign. Nevertheless, government circles believe that Russia's inability to raise more money for war will prove a decisive factor in compelling the conclusion of peace.

COAL LANDS On Queen Charlotte Island Bought By Americans.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 26.—W. F. Borden, representing Montreal and New York capital, has completed the purchase of 30,000 acres of coal lands on Queen Charlotte Island from a local syndicate for $700,000. Development is dependent on this action of the British Columbia government regarding the construction of local railroads and the making of harbors, which is expected to commence next spring.

LA FOLLETTE PRAISES GOVERNOR DENEN.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 26.—In an interview here, Governor LaFollette said of Governor Denen: "I believe this Governor Denen is an able man. I believe that he is thoroughly conscientious and when the great struggle comes, as it will, as it must come in every state, I believe that he will be found on the side of the people."

He said he was of the opinion that a period of great political regeneration was now in progress.

OUR PRINCIPLES.

We believe in personal instruction more than in class recitation, that the student may thoroughly understand the subject in hand; this, with constant drilling and actual practice, so familiarizes him or her with the every-day methods of business as to place upon the student the stamp of the highest efficiency. This is why New Era students hold the best-paying positions at the Head of the Lakes, in the Twin Cities, and all over the Northwest—they are proficient.

FATHER ASKS BIG DAMAGES

Robert Johnson Sues Local Wholesale House For $25,000.

Robert C. Johnson has brought suit against the F. A. Patrick Co., in district court, to recover damages in the amount of $25,000 for injuries alleged to have been received by his son, George H. Johnson, in falling into the elevator shaft from the first floor of the company's wholesale house. The accident resulted, it is claimed, by reason of the elevator being removed from the first floor while Johnson was absent. On his return he thought it was still at the first floor, and stepped into the dark shaft, falling a distance of about fifteen feet. In the suit the father claims that his son, as a result of his fall, has lost the use of his left eye, that his right eye is partially blinded, his face being disfigured, and the plaintiff severely injured. The complaint alleges that the young man is totally incapacitated for future work.

ASKS DAMAGES.

Mrs. Lucy Sims Sues Northern Pacific Road.

Claiming that negligence on the part of the company was responsible for the death of her husband, William T. Sims, in the Northern Pacific yards, Mrs. Lucy Sims, as administratrix of his estate, has brought a damage action of $5,000 against the Northern Pacific Railway company.

According to the complaint, Sims was a switchman, employed at the yards, and was attempting to set the brakes to prevent a collision with an engine and another string of cars, when he was thrown from the end of a flat car loaded with slabs and was run over and killed. Mrs. Sims claims her husband was capable of earning $100 per month.

Charged With Forgery.

Lane Sukonich of Hibbing, who has been bound over to the grand jury on the charge of forging a check issued by the Oliver Mining company from $35.97 to $98, was brought to the county jail yesterday, after an examination.

POSTMASTER JAILED.

A. W. Stowell Charged With Defrauding Government.

A. W. Stowell, postmaster at Lake Alice, who is charged by the federal authorities with defrauding the government out of $200 by making false statements concerning his stamp cancellations, was brought to Duluth yesterday, by Deputy United States Marshal George Mallory, and was lodged in the county jail to await the action of the federal grand jury at the January term of United States court. He was committed in default of bail in the amount of $1,500.

Stowell's arrest followed a stamp cancellation investigation by Inspectors Nolle and Drake, and the examination before United States Commissioner Delury, at Lake Alice, was waived. It is claimed that he reported stamp cancellations in the amount of $14.55 at his office in June, when the inspectors found that the total cancellations amounted to only $4.52. The office is fourth class, and the postmaster's salary depends on the amount of business transacted. Stowell is married.

Despite its thirteen years of constant service, "In Old Kentucky" appears to be as popular now as it ever was. Practically everybody who goes to the theater at all has seen the play, and most every one has seen it two or three times. It is like an old friend that a person is glad to see once a year, so long as circumstances will not permit of the meetings occurring more frequently.

At the Lyceum last night the production was greeted by a fair house. A few vacant seats were scattered around, but it was hardly to be expected that any company would draw a capacity house for once.

Each one of the particular scenes of the play, which was staged last evening, was fully up to the standard set in former years. Some new faces were to be seen in the cast. Marion Shirley was very pleasing as Madge Brierly, and did some clever work. She possesses an agreeable voice, and her song in the last act called for an encore.

George Mitchell as Horace Holton, the bad man of the play, is one of the best in the cast. He has been gratifying. Frank Layton was satisfactory as Joe Lorey. The part of Joe Lorey, Alice Walker as Barbara Holton, Harry Bradley as Arthur Layson, and Charles French as Sam, all did well.

French did a fine bit of acting in the part of Sam, the old family servant.

TO THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA

President Roosevelt Goes In the Submarine Boat Plunger.

Was on Board the Little Vessel For Three Hours.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 26.—President Roosevelt, late yesterday afternoon, made a descent in Long Island sound, on board the submarine torpedo boat Plunger. He was aboard the vessel about three hours. At one time the little boat was submerged for fifty minutes, and in that time was put through all of the submarine feats of which she is capable. The president expressed his delight at the novel experience, and said that he was immensely impressed with the boat and the manner in which she was handled. In thus braving the dangers of submarine maneuvering, the president has endeavored to give the naval officers and men the world over, and made Lieut. Charles H. Nelson, commander of the Plunger, the proudest and happiest man in the United States navy.

The president's intention not only to make a personal inspection of the little vessel, but to prove so decisively in naval warfare, but to make a descent in it, was reached after a conference with Lieut. Nelson. The Plunger's commander explained the operations of the boat, and assured him that a trip on her and a descent into the depths of Long Island sound would be as devoid of danger as would be a trip on a New York subway express train.

The president long has desired to watch the operations of a submarine torpedo boat at close range, and before this would have made a trip in the vessel had he not been deterred from taking the risk by the advice of his friends and official associates. Convinced by the logic of Lieut. Nelson, he arranged to take a trip on the Plunger, and to have the little vessel perform all her wonderful feats while he was on board.

The special trial of the boat, with the president on board, took place between 3 and 6 o'clock, in Long Island sound, just off the entrance of Oyster Bay. Shortly after 3 o'clock the president went aboard the Plunger. In one of the launches of the naval yacht Sylph, which he boarded at the J. West Roosevelt pier.

As soon as the president had descended into the boat, the manholes were closed, and the vessel was lowered into the water. The Plunger started for the sound. No maneuvers were attempted until the vessel was well beyond the harbor. A stiff breeze kicked up a heavy sea in the sound, but the Plunger behaved beautifully. The water where the boat was was about 100 feet deep, too shallow in the opinion of Lieut. Nelson and his experts to enable the vessel to do her best work.

While the president was resting on the bottom of the sound, the vessel was kept motionless with the engines stopped and the boat ascended to the surface backwards. Lieut. Nelson made his boat perform the remarkable feat of diving to a depth of twenty feet and while going at full speed at that depth, reversing her course. The complete turn occurred only one minute. Subsequently, the engines were stopped and the vessel was submerged to a depth of twenty feet. There she was kept motionless for a demonstration of her ability to remain in that position for hours while awaiting an opportunity to launch one of her torpedoes at a vessel of a blockading squadron which might be passing or repassing a given point. After many maneuvers had been performed, Lieut. Nelson ordered all lights on board extinguished to demonstrate how the vessel could be kept in the dark.

They worked perfectly in the dark, darkness, evidently with as much skill as in the light. The president remained with the members of the electric light, during the operations of the Plunger, the latter Apache remained with a short distance, prepared to render any assistance that might be necessary. She was not, however, moored without an untoward incident. The president shook hands with all the crew as he left the vessel to return to Sagamore Hill.

In describing his experience last night, President Roosevelt expressed his satisfaction with the manner in which the tiny vessel was managed. He remarked particularly on the excellent manner in which the torpedo boats in actual warfare. He related the details of his experience with evident pleasure. Nobody, not even the president's intention to make a descent in the Plunger excepted, the details of his experience with the vessel were kept secret.

There was scarcely a vessel in sight, all pleasure craft having been driven to shelter by the heavy storm. The Plunger will go out to the sound for another test trip. The president and Mrs. Roosevelt will witness the friendly rivalry of the maneuvers of the vessel from the deck of the Sylph.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It Is In Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most effective disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and entirely safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it cleanses the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in a palatable form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much-improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood. The beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and purer blood, and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

People Killed By Explosion in California Old West Duluthians.

It is believed at West Duluth that the following dispatch, published in last evening's Herald, concerns A. W. McRae, formerly in business in West Duluth:

Bakersfield, Cal., Aug. 24.—By a terrific explosion of giant powder at Bakersfield, today, Mrs. A. W. McRae, wife of a prominent mining man, her son George, and Oscar Ducloux, another mine owner, were instantly killed. Mr. McRae received injuries from which it is feared he will die, and at least three other men were badly hurt by the explosion.

Mr. McRae and his family left West Duluth in 1893 and went to Superior, afterwards leaving there for the West. The last heard of them by people here was to the effect that they had gone down to California somewhere, and that Mr. McRae was in the mining business. While in West Duluth Mr. McRae and Alderman L. A. Barnes were in the painting business together. Mr. Barnes said this morning that he has not heard of the family in years, but believes that the people mentioned in the dispatch are those who formerly lived here.

PLAYED TO THE LIMIT.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton's Unpleasant Experience.

Despite their own reticence in the matter, the details of the rather strenuous wedding journey of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hamilton of West Duluth, from Ellaville this city, over the Iron Range road, are becoming known to their many friends and acquaintances. Mrs. Hamilton, who was previously to her marriage, Miss Marien Seelye of the Iron town, and Mr. Hamilton were joined in wedlock Wednesday noon. They had planned to leave on the train for the Iron Range at 4 o'clock on the day the event took place. They had even their friends to what they supposed to be a secret but from the events that afterward transpired, it appears that there was a Judas who "piped off the whole game."

Mr. Hamilton had his blushing bride boarded the train, as per program, but no sooner had the engineer opened the throttle than they were the recipients of showers of rice from the other occupants of the car. From the amount of the white stuff there can hardly be any left in Ellaville. The first volley was only an eye-opener for what was to follow. At every station where the train stopped, and it was an accommodation, they were pelted with rice. The entire trainload of people rose from their cushions and paraded past the unwilling recipients of their attention, pointing and with such comments as: "Gee, ain't married life great?" "What would ducky do if ducky would die?" and other similar queries. In some instances the rice was thrown so hard as to add to the torture of the already much-abused couple.

Not content with this abuse, the torturers obtained more rice to hurl so that by the time the train had reached the Zenith City the floor of the coach looked like Superior street after a March snow storm. In some manner the tormentors obtained paper hearts and pinned them to the impediments of the Hamiltons. When the train reached the Union station the harassed pair made a dash for liberty, attempting to reach a carriage before their so-called friends could offer further indignities to them. But they were too slow, for the other fellows were too fast, for before the elms could whip up his steeds the pursuers had tied yards of white ribbon on the wheels, whip, harness and every other available point of vantage that lent itself for their fiendish designs. Not until the four-wheeler had reached West Duluth, and they had secreted themselves under their own roof tree, did the victims of cupid count themselves from the mob.

Nothing Serious.

DULUTH'S Grandest Collection and Greatest Sale of ORIENTAL RUGS!

THE WONDERFUL SUCCESS OF THIS SALE proves most conclusively that Duluth people are posted on rugs—they want the best—they know the best when they see it—and they buy the best in preference to the ordinary sorts.

The Freimuth collection of Oriental rugs for the fall of 1905 is now completed—it is a credit to Duluth and an honor to this store. It is remarkable in many ways—not only is it the largest, but it is the choicest ever known in Duluth. The superiority of our stock is due to the fact that every rug shown here is a picked piece—it is selected from dozens because of its individual beauty of color and design—and the stocks of five of the greatest rug importers in New York have been picked over to make up this superb collection.

Less particular houses buy rugs in ready-made collections—in "job" or bale lots—and this fact naturally brings to them many rugs which would not pass muster singly.

In buying picked rugs in this way, we get no "culls" which must be sold at a loss—and we can afford to make closer prices on the choice ones—and for this sale we are making some astonishingly low prices on Oriental rugs of all sorts and sizes.

Oriental Rugs were once looked upon as a costly fad for the very rich—today they are regarded as an absolute necessity to the well-furnished home—and, in fact, they are really a luxurious economy because of their endless wear and unfading beauty.

But there's a wide diversity in Oriental Rugs—for while every tribe or district follows certain general effects peculiar to its rugs—there never will be two Oriental rugs exactly alike, for every rug breathes the individuality of its weaver.

Every painter is not an artist—and all paintings are not works of art. And so it is with weavers and their rugs—and just as it is true that there are more dubs than there are masterpieces, so there are many Oriental rugs which are of little artistic value because of their less talented weavers.

And we have safeguarded your interests by carefully selecting every rug we offer you—and notwithstanding all this, we are making prices for this sale which makes it so that you positively cannot afford to buy elsewhere.

Large Room-size Rugs.

There's a superb selection of these, including several very light ones for parlors. The sizes range from 7x10 feet to 11x14 feet—and the prices range from $80.00 to $500.00.

Hovdahl is the boy arrested for complicity in the theft of a quantity of silk goods which were sold to some colored women on St. Croix avenue. He was represented in court by J. B. Cotton. B. Silberstein, his employer, who took the boy back to work after his escape, appeared and gave strong testimony as to his previous good record and claimed that Hovdahl would have been all right except that he got into the company. Other influences were also brought to bear to show that the boy was not a criminal by nature and the continuance of the case is said to practically mean that he will continue on probation until the period as the court may deem best to pass sentence or to dismiss the action.

IS SENT TO REFORMATORY

Fred Ackerman Pleads Guilty to an Old Crime.

Fred Ackerman, the young man who was arrested last week for breaking into Johnson & Moe's store in the West end, a year ago last March, and stealing something over $20, was this morning given a reformatory sentence by Judge Cant. Ackerman, after his crime, fled the country, not returning until last week, when he was apprehended on the warrant issued over a year ago. He took advantage of the new law permitting him to enter a plea of guilty on information by the county attorney, and received sentence. His examination by the court developed the fact that he had previously served a ninety-day jail sentence for stealing money from his sister.

IS TAKING ROOT

John Pantan's Permanent Carnival Scheme Pleases Business Men.

Company For Its Establishment May Be Launched Soon.

John Pantan's permanent carnival scheme is taking root. He has talked it up, and the article in The Herald, about a week ago, started other business men talking it up, so that as a result, it will not be surprising to see an amusement company formed in a very short time, and arrangements made for the establishment of the carnival next spring. Mr. Pantan said yesterday that there has not been a business man to whom he has talked about it who has objected; every one has thought that it should pay here as well as at other places. Most of them have volunteered to put their money into it.

Among others, C. A. Marshall, manager of the Lyceum theater, has expressed willingness to put money in and superintend the arrangements for a beginning. Mr. Marshall is intimately acquainted with the amusements, and how certain things will draw, so that his faith in the proposition helps mark it as a more than probable success.

Mr. Pantan said yesterday that probably before long he would take action, and go some of the favorable ones together, and if they so desire, would launch an amusement company, and issue stock. F. A. Patrick, the head of the whole sale dry goods house of F. A. Patrick & Co., said yesterday that he is favorable to the idea. Said he: "It strikes me that Mr. Pantan has hit upon one of the things which Duluth needs most of all, and I think it only proper that those who will benefit by the bringing of outside people into town should be the ones to subscribe to the stock of such a company. I am willing to do my share, and I believe the other and the rest of the business men should do the same. One thing which makes me favorable to this idea is the fact that when out-of-town customers come in to buy goods, we have no place to take them for entertainment. I should like just such a place as this idea proposes, for then it would solve that really important problem of how to entertain our customers. It will be a god-send in this way to wholesalers."

J. M. Gidding of the firm of J. M. Gidding & Co. said yesterday that he has long thought that some such scheme should be worked. He said that the time for it is the only thing which creates a doubt in his mind. Said he: "I am afraid that our springs are too rigorous for such an entertainment. The weather here, as we all know, does not settle down much before July 10. But after that it is ideal, and for two or three months I believe such an affair would be a payer. However, whatever the majority of those who go into it think, suits me. The only reason I make this suggestion is that because, if we go into this thing, we should try to make it pay. But we need just some such thing. Another thing I have thought of is that in July, August and September, each year, the city, or the business men, or somebody, should provide band concerts at the pier, say on Saturday afternoons. The government is making a park down there, and I should think a band stand could be erected, and the band used in this way, so that visitors and townspeople, too, could go down there and be entertained."

WEST DULUTH BRIEFS. The baseball teams of the West Duluth Longshoremans and the Superior Longshoremans will contest on the ball grounds at the foot of Fifty-second avenue west tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. This will be the first of a series of three games, the loser paying for a large dance which will be given. The West Duluth batteries will be La Belle and Carey.

SCARCITY OF MEN

General Manager Warren Says It Causes Poorer Service.

Company Short of Usual Extra Help—Some Line Changes.

Referring to the complaints regarding the street car service during the past few weeks, General Manager Warren frankly admits that the service has not been all that he would desire. He says that at this time of the year the business of the company is always much heavier than at any other time, and help is always very scarce. He says it is unfortunate that help should be hardest to obtain at the very season when business is at its height, but it is a condition that he knows of no way to change. While this condition has existed at the same time of year for many years past, it is a little more pronounced this year than usual, as the traffic has been heavier during the last two or three weeks than ever before, and at the same time men have been scarcer, it hits the company hard "both going and coming."

Mr. Warren says: "Our men are paid the same wages the year around, and as good as are paid by any street railway company in the state. Our regular men are comparatively steady, and the extra men that the company has to depend upon for the extra service are not so good as the regular men."

At 6 o'clock every evening, and every day, the company has been tempted away by the high wages being offered for common labor in the city and in the last very long have been scarcer, it hits the company hard "both going and coming."

After being given a suspended sentence for vagrancy, John Elm was almost immediately re-arrested on a petty larceny charge, and after pleading guilty, was sentenced to sixty days in the county jail, by Judge Cutting, this afternoon.

Elm was given until 5 o'clock this evening to leave the city, after pleading guilty to vagrancy, but before he could get away, the police learned of the theft of a watch, or which he was suspected, and although the owner of the watch did not care to prosecute, Elm was again arrested and pleaded guilty the second time in one day.

WANTED

By the Duluth Street Railway Company.

CONDUCTORS and MOTORMEN!

Now is the time for men who desire permanent positions as conductors and motormen. Our extra list is very short and men who apply now will secure regular runs in a much shorter time than if they apply several weeks later. Any honest, able-bodied man, between the ages of 20 and 40 years, with a common school education, and ordinary intelligence, can learn to be a conductor or motorman in a very short time, and if application is made now he will be likely to obtain a regular run very soon.

Conductors and motormen at this season of the year have no trouble to put in good times while they are on the extra list, and when they are promoted to regular runs they will have a permanent job the year around which will last as long as they live. They will receive a salary of $1.50 per week, and if application is made now they will be likely to obtain a regular run very soon.

Apply at the office of the company, Eleventh avenue west and Michigan street at 9 a. m. to Highways and Byways of the Town.

THE black waters of the bay sloped lazily about in the silvery light of the rounded moon. Idly trying to tickle the green point from the sides of a drifting rowboat. Two persons were in the boat. One was a woman—a young woman. She was likewise pretty. The other occupant was a young man. He was a good looking chap. A pale, yellow light from the cabin of a passing steamer flickered across the scene. Above, colored lamps were hung in the rigging. The tug towing the big vessel puffed a loud enjoyment, as of a good cigar. Otherwise all was quiet.

The girl looked at the moon, and the man looked at the girl. The moon smiled at them both and smiled his friendliness. A faint sound of laughter floated over the water from the Point. Further down the shore a bonfire chopped a chunk of blackness from the night and left a ruddy, changing circle. In the circle figures moved about. From their actions one might easily infer that a picnic party was enjoying an outdoor supper. But the man didn't notice these things. He wasn't thinking of picnics or pork chops. He was thinking about the girl.

The girl turned her attention from the moon to her companion.

"George," she said, "did you ever love any other girl?"

"Not that I remember of," said George, smiling tenderly in her direction.

"But you would remember it if you had, wouldn't you?"

"I wouldn't be likely to forget it, would I?"

"That's just what I was saying. Do you remember ever having had such an affair to forget?"

"Why so awfully inquisitive tonight?"

"Oh, I just merely wanted to know."

"I hope you will not think me so curious about my affairs when we are married."

"What if we shouldn't ever get married?"

The young man laughed lightly.

"Why, George, what ever made you "Probably not, under those circumstances, but there is no use in getting foolish over nothing."

"Foolish? Nothing? You calling me foolish, and our marriage day only three weeks off. Oh, if I felt it like this, I would have been a good deal more than a fool."

"Well, what did she say, and about what?"

"You are awfully anxious to know what her opinions are, aren't you?"

"She won't be long. Girls never have long opinions. If you like her so well, I see it all now—you pretending to hate her just so I wouldn't find out how you felt about her. I am glad I learned all this before it was too late."

"And the Superior girl?"

"Another ruse of that cat's. You had it all hatched out between you how you were to deceive me, and she made that up so I wouldn't suspect her love for you."

"She did all the hatching. Darned idiot has a regular nose for trouble. The only good thing she ever did was to introduce us."

"And you talk that way about the girl you love? Oh, I understand. Don't think for a moment that you are deceiving me. You merely want to soft soap it over and blind me to the real facts in the case."

"Grace, your father hasn't got much money, has he?"

"You know perfectly well that he is working on a salary not much larger than you are getting, and that we rent the house we live in."

"Of course I do, and, knowing it, what the devil would be my object in trying to marry you if I loved another girl whose father is known to be worth $40,000?"

"Dead silence for half a minute. Then, softly:

"Don't you really love her, George?"

"Love her? Honestly, dear, she makes me tired. It bores me to have her around at all. I don't even like to go to places where I know she will be going. That's the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help me George."

"And wasn't there any Superior girl?"

"There were and are a lot of them, and some pretty good-looking ones, too, but I never went with any of them two consecutive weeks in my life. Dolly merely wants to try and break off our—well, wants to make trouble, you know."

"You might just as well finish it, now that you have started—wants to break off our engagement. But why should she? Tell me that, Mr. Larry, why should she?"

"How should I know?"

"Yes, you know you do."

"Sure thing, seeing you are so persistent. I know all about it. I mean I think I know."

"I thought so."

"So you said once or twice before."

"You won't you please tell me, George?"

"There isn't anything to tell."

"But you just said you knew me."

"Did I? That must have been a lapse of memory."

"Why won't you tell me?"

"Because my reason was a mere supposition."

"You have just got to tell me or I shall never rest satisfied again."

"Drat the luck. I will tell you. You've shoved me into a hole of your own digging, and the only way I see of getting out is to grab hold of anything that offers and pull myself out. It's plain enough to see you won't help me, but will keep digging down and sinking deeper and deeper. Instead, I know you will think me a conceited ass for saying it, but Dolly wants me herself. At least that is what I judge from her actions for several weeks past. There, now that you have gone and made me make a genuine, undiluted, old-fashioned fool of myself, I hope you are satisfied. I have merely given you my honest, unprejudiced opinion. I don't care a hang for her, and never did. Cat is a good description. It's nearly 11 o'clock. I'm going home."

Dr. Joseph F. Nelson, who had moved to Lebo from Warrensburg, Mo., recently. The two were married in Kansas City.

When Wallace Smith reached Lebo a few days ago, he heard rumors that his fiancée had allowed her affections to stray to Dr. Nelson. Smith went to the girl and demanded that she consent to be married at once, or, as he said, to show that she was true to him.

Miss Smith agreed to the plan, and promised to meet him an hour later at the home of a minister.

Smith left her home and Miss Smith telephoned to Dr. Nelson. Then she started to the minister's home. On the way she met the doctor, who, it chanced, had a horse and buggy. Miss Smith jumped into the vehicle, the doctor whipped up the horse, and away they went across the country to the railroad. All one night they were on the train bound for Kansas City.

In the meantime, was waiting for his promised bride.

"I just could not bear to think of being a Smith any longer," said Mrs. Nelson with a blush. "Then, too, it is unlucky, you know, not to change your name when you marry. I know I'll be happier far than if I had married Mr. Smith. I wonder where he is."

CHILDREN RESTORED.
Three Had Been Kidnaped Six Years Ago.

Norfolk, Neb., Aug. 25.—Butte, Neb., has become this week a mecca for kidnapped children. Three more stolen sons and daughters have been restored to their long-suffering parents at that place yesterday, the one a day or so ago making four in less than that number of days.

The long-lost children who found their home again yesterday, were the two daughters and a son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Simons, who had been missing, with no trace of their whereabouts, for six years. Last night Mr. Simons passed through Norfolk, on route home, after a month's incessant but successful searching.

The oldest child, a girl of 12, was found in Iowa. The other daughter and the son were located in Kansas. It was a month ago that the father got track of his lost children and began following out a clue. During that time he has traveled all over the states of Iowa, Illinois, Missouri and Kansas. For four weeks he has not once had his clothing off his back.

It was a happy mother to whom Mr. Simons restored those three after the long absence.

The first kidnapped child to be restored to Butte this week was Josie Herman Wippen, formerly Miss Josie Schelnost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Schelnost, who had been stolen eighteen years ago by a circus woman and who had never known who were her parents until the circus woman died.

GRAFT FOE DIED POOR

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 25.—Great surprise has been expressed by insurance men in this city at the small estate of Colonel Jacob L. Greene, president of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company, who died recently, and the accounting of whose estate has just been filed with the county clerk. Col. Greene was generally accounted one of the wealthiest men in Hartford and some predicted that his will would dispose of about $1,000,000, but the accounting shows only a little more than $50,000.

Col. Greene was president of the Connecticut Mutual for twenty-seven years, and during his presidency the company grew to have a large business. He was also a director in several other concerns.

He had complete charge of large trusts not only of the company of which he was president but also of the Episcopal church fund of the diocese of Connecticut, Trinity college and a dozen other institutions. He was also executor of many of the estates. He thus wielded much power in the financial world.

Col. Greene, however, declined to exercise his ability of making money for himself at the expense of those who put their property into his hands. He was quick to see and courageous to print out the evil tendencies in the insurance business, and wrote many papers and pamphlets on topics concerning methods which have since become notorious.

He also condemned the costly and extravagant rush for new business.

He hated the shams employed and hesitated not to point out the absurdity of buying insurance policies with a saving bank attachment, when the life insurance companies show a ratio of expense so much higher than the savings banks. He was always active against fallacies in life insurance.

He is supposed to have had a salary of about $25,000 a year for a long time, but he was generous toward the Episcopal church, in which he was active.

He was Bishop Brewster's closest friend and advisor, and the chief supporter of Trinity church here.

Born in Maine, Col. Greene went to Michigan university, where he studied law. He enlisted at the outbreak of the war and became famous as a cavalry leader. He resigned in 1855, and went with the Berkshire Life Insurance company of Pittsburg, Mass. In 1870 he came to the Connecticut Mutual, where he remained.

BRUSH HELD TO BE ELIGIBLE

The report of Arbitrator Waldo of the conference athletic committee for the past year has just been published and includes some very interesting reports on matters pertaining to football that are soon to become of great interest to Western collegians. In several special cases Waldo did not act as arbitrator, as the matters pertained to Purdue.

Perhaps the most important ruling is the one relative to Brush, the big Minnesota tackle. After most careful examination of the Brush case, the arbitrator has decided that the big Gopher is entitled to play on the Minnesota team for three more years. He holds that the participation of Brush against the mighty tackle, as Macalester college did not rank as a college athletically. In speaking of the case Waldo says in his report:

"In regard to the case of Percy Brush, I find that he was a student at Macalester college in '97, '98, '99 and '00. During these four years he played football. The attendance at Macalester for these years was as follows: In '97-8, 54 students; in '98-9, 48 students; in '99-0, 43 students, and in '00-1, 52 students. They had no athletic coach and the athletics in general were intermittent, irregular, weak and without direction. This should give the school a ranking as preparatory school rather than as a college in the athletic sense."

This report has been accepted as final by the conference, and Brush has left his home in Angelus, Minn., to join Coach Williams' team at Minneapolis, and will play this year. The decision of the arbitrator is based solely on whether the school is a college athletically or not. It is interesting to get from this interpretation of what is a college as understood by the conference committee. After consulting different members of the committee, it is learned that in schools where athletics are neglected and no coach for the teams employed the school is not rated as a college, no matter what the standing of the school may be from an academic standpoint.

In the same report several points are passed on which brings out this position of the committee. For instance, Washburn college is decided to be a college because the athletics are well organized and paid coaches kept.

FIRE TUG IN OPERATION

NEW FIRE TUG THROWING GREAT STREAM AGAINST MISSABE ORE DOCK.

The accompanying picture shows the fire tug America, built for the Hand & Johnson tug company. She was afterward taken over by the Great Lakes Towing company, the boat's present owner when the first-named company was absorbed by the Great Lakes company.

During the tests the America threw three streams at one time to the top of the docks, and with little standstill in service alone, an inch and three-quarter stream was thrown twice the height of the highest dock, and to the middle of the slip on the opposite side. The dock is 65 feet high.

The America has been chartered by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company to protect its ore docks from fire, and, when not fighting fire, the tug will be utilized in handling the ore boats in the slips.

Under government regulations a fire tug must carry a larger crew than is ordinarily found on a tug doing simple towing business. The America will have a double crew, eight men, who will be practically on services all the time. The crew comprises two masters, two engineers, two firemen, a deckhand and a cook.

Capt. Harry Ditzel, formerly master of the tug Zenith, and Capt. Edward England have been assigned by the Great Lakes Towing company to service as masters of the America.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 25.—Miss Mattie Smith of Lebo, Kan., says a Kansas City dispatch, was to have been wedded last night at Lebo, to Wallace Y. Smith, who had gone all the way from Bozeman, Mont., to meet her and carry out the engagement he had made with her a year ago. At the last moment, however, exercising the sacred privilege of woman, she changed her mind and ran away with a young dentist.

"The moon looked at them both, and smiled his friendliness."

think of such a thing?"

"About our not getting married, or about the other girl?"

"Well, a little of both, though I refer more particularly to the matrimonial proposition."

"George, how can you speak of so serious a subject so lightly?"

"Serious? Do you know, I don't really believe it is so serious a thing as these old folks would have us believe."

"Not for the man, maybe, but it is for the woman."

"What the deuce are you driving at, anyway?"

"He, driving at, why, how absurd. I am not driving at anything. I just wanted to know."

"Wanted to know what?"

"Whether you had ever loved anyone else."

"Oh!"

"But have you?"

"No, of course not. What made you think I had?"

"Nothing very much, only Dolly said that you used to think an awfully lot about a Superior girl."

"Dolly is a muddering old idiot, and I'd like a chance to tell her so, too."

"Why, George, how terribly you talk. And, besides, she isn't old. She isn't as old as I am."

"Is that so? Well, working so hard looking into other people's business has detracted to a very considerable degree and cuts no ice at all when it comes down to the real thing. The woman says so, and then is supposed to forget all about it. Does the modern man want a woman to trot around after him like a little puppy, and jump through a hoop, or chase a stick when he throws it down the lawn, every time he tells her to? Why, life would be an agony if that part of the avowed taken literally. I never thought you were such a little Puritan."

"George, how you talk, Dolly says—"

"If you don't cut Dolly out of this talk I'll run, or chase a stick when he throws it down the lawn, every time he tells her to? Why, life would be an agony if that part of the avowed taken literally. I never thought you were such a little Puritan."

"It seems to me you ought at least to considerate enough to show some respect to your wife—to my dearest friend."

"I shall, whenever they are deserving of it."

"Why don't you like Dolly?"

"I haven't said I didn't like her, have I?"

"Not exactly in so many words, but it's easy to see that you don't love her."

"That's it; I don't and never did."

"Why, the idea; who ever said you did?"

"I—er—that is, I didn't say any one ever did say such a thing, did I?"

"George, do you know Dolly long before you came here?"

"There you go, driving off on a wild track again. Isn't that moon just the greatest ever?"

"And the weather report said it was going to rain tonight, too."

"I wish you would answer my question."

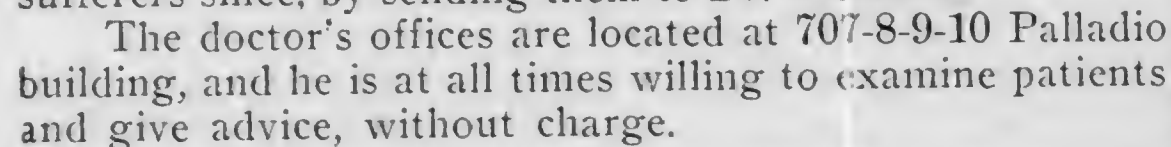

"You never can depend upon those weather reports. I don't see why the government wants to spend the good money of the people for keeping forecasters. Now if I were president—"

"How long did you know Dolly before I met you?"

"Did I say anything about knowing her before you met me?"

"She was the one that introduced us, wasn't she?"

"By Jove, so she was. It was at that picnic up at Fond du Lac. Lord, wasn't the day a scorcher, though? And you were that pretty, light-colored dress, all bugged over with flowers. Say, I have never seen you look prettier than you did that first day."

DR. CAMP'S MISSION FARM ON THE BANKS OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER

Site Formerly Occupied By the "Mission" In Crow Wing County.
Fifteen Hundred Acres of the Finest Land For Farming Purposes.

Brainerd, Aug. 26.—(Special to The Herald.)—One of the historic spots of Northern Minnesota is the site formerly occupied by the "Mission" in Crow Wing county. It is on the west bank of the Father of Waters and not far from the famous Upper and Lower Mission lakes.

Just about 50 years ago, a yellow haired German, named Clater, made his way up the Mississippi and founded a mission. Very little direct information concerning him is obtainable now but he erected buildings, cleared soil and then essayed to improve the condition of the red men. He was independent in his religious belief and, in addition to teaching the children of the wilderness of the white man's God, he attempted to show them how to do things as the white man does them or as their primitive minds and needs never had required. In addition to preaching, teaching and working, the blonde son of the Fatherland did some bartering with the Indians and extending hospitality to white men who occasionally made their way up the river.

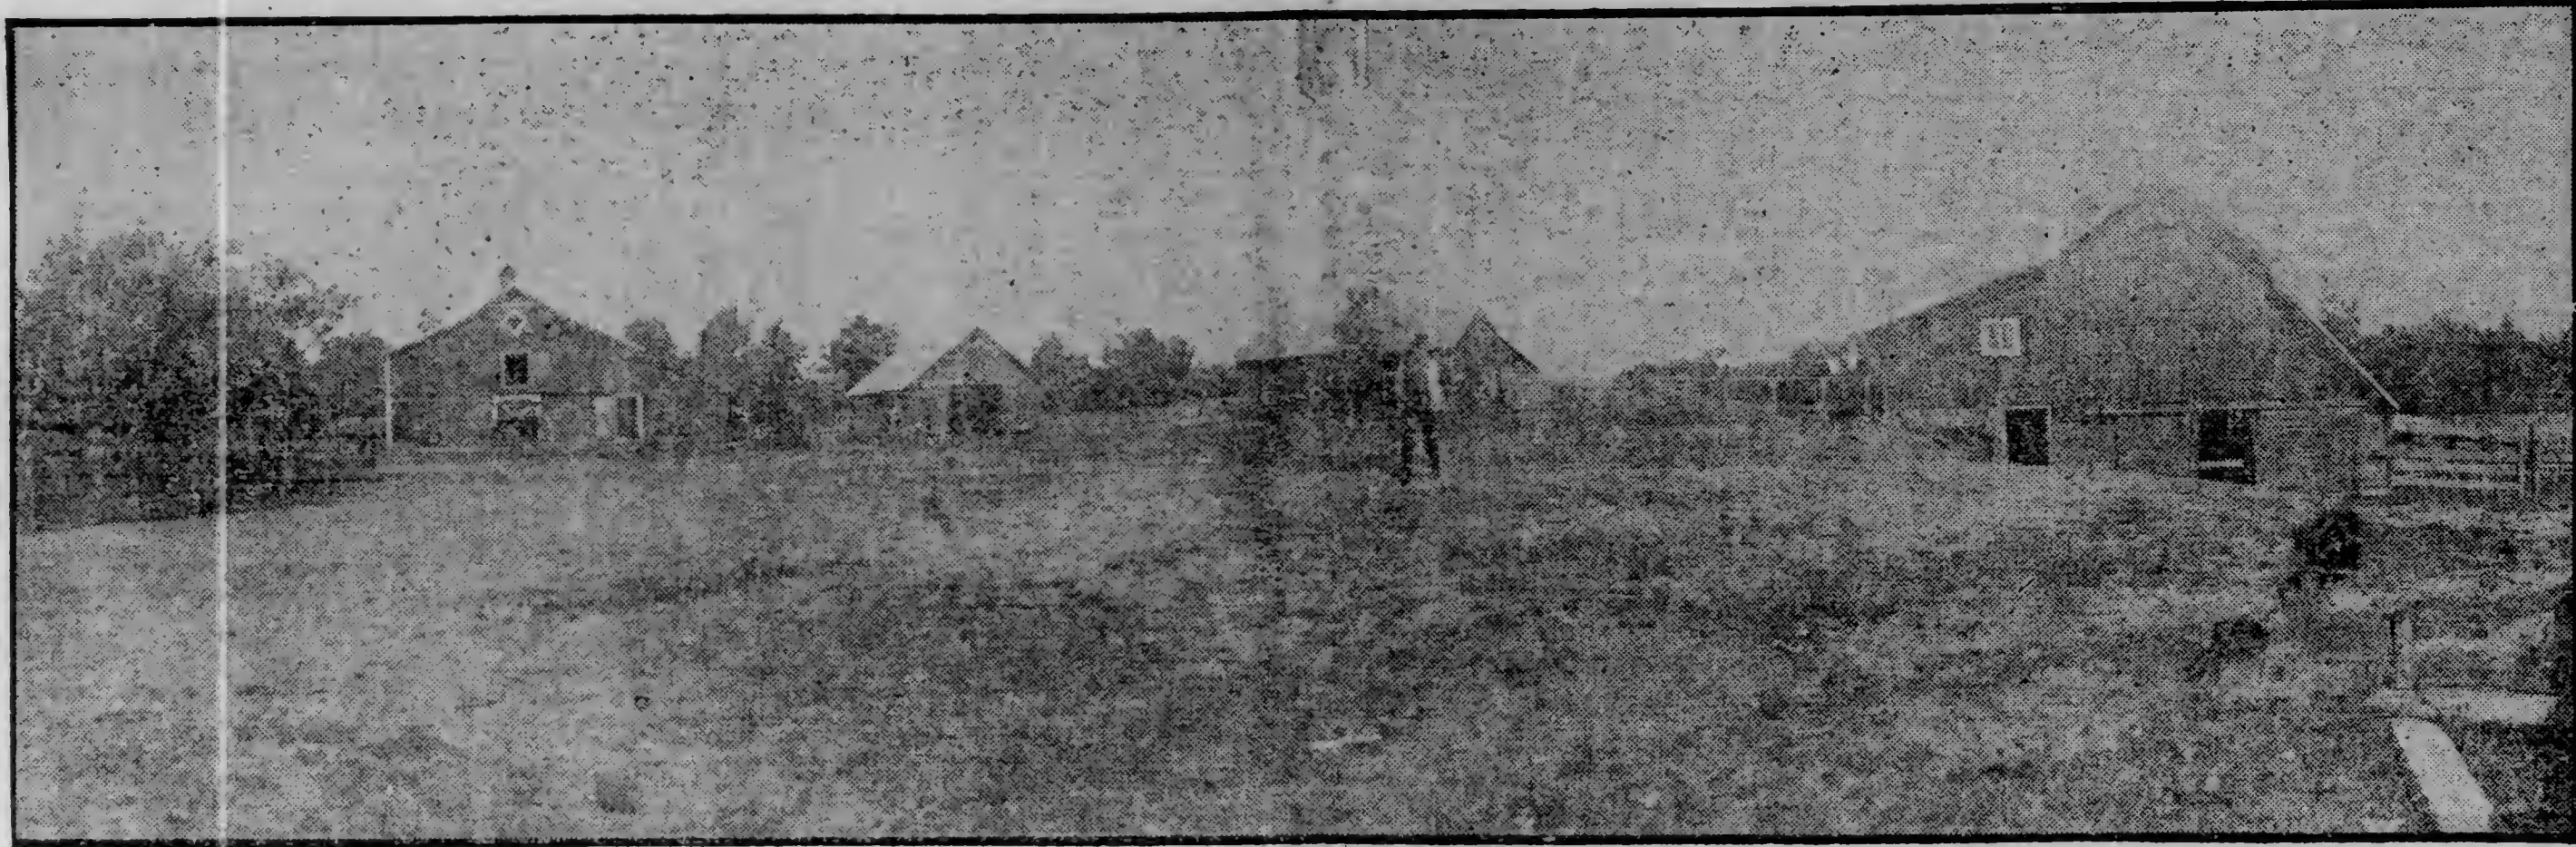

In 1852, when that aggressive old chief Hole-in-the-Day took to the war path, Missionary Clater and the few members of his family, fled down the river to old Fort Ripley and the Indians burned his mission. After the troublous days were over, the man who sought to better the condition of his red brethren failed to return, disappeared from sight and no one here in Brainerd seems to know his final fate.

Long before Missionary Clater paddled his way up the river and long before the white man ever trod on Minnesota soil, a large and prosperous Indian settlement undoubtedly existed in that vicinity. There are mounds of Indian origin. In them have been found pieces of pottery, human bones and charred sticks. One spot on Lower Mission lake undoubtedly was a great workshop for the arrow makers. Immense quantities of flint arrow heads have been picked up there and the soil is filled and strewn with flint chippings made and left by the aboriginal craftsmen.

Investigations by scientists and trained representatives of the Minnesota State Historical society conclusively prove that this locality was occupied by the Sioux Indians, long before they were driven to the open prairie and further westward by the forest dwelling Chippewas, for all the remnants of Indian handiwork are characteristically those of the bloody Sioux.

I have just returned from a pilgrimage to this historic spot. I was fittingly accompanied by Maj. Ruffee, a pioneer and frontiersman who had a hand in making history in the Northwest before the present generation was born. He was contemporaneous with Commodore Klitson, and knew Jim Hill when his muscle exceeded his money. Another member of the party was Henry Jones, a descendant of the brilliant and adventurous French chivaliers who wrestled the wilderness from savage men and conditions by way of the River St. Lawrence. My third companion was Dr. J. L. Camp of Brainerd, courteous gentleman, enthusiastic sportsman, student of early history in the great Northwest, and earnest advocate of Northern Minnesota as a place for farmer, dairyman, stockman and the seeker for an independent life and a happy home.

Dr. Camp believes that faith without works is dead, and has, therefore, backed his judgment by investing in North Star state lands. Ten years ago he bought 1,500 acres from the Northern Pacific railway and the state of Minnesota. With his knowledge of soil, interest in things historical, love Proceeding, rich meadows were passed, which 500 tons of hay are usually cut and for protection from the weather a big hay shed, roofed with steel, has been erected. In the edge of this meadow Dr. Camp killed a big black bear not long since.

Pasture lands showed a large herd of grade and thoroughbred red horn cattle. It made one think of Iowa or Southern Minnesota. Aside from considerable barbed wire fence, the fields and pastures are enclosed with three miles of woven wire fence, hog tight, four feet high and wire fence subdivisions have poles on the top.

On Lower Mission lake Dr. Camp has a hunting lodge and that, with the lake and the surrounding trees, makes one of the prettiest scenes I have ever seen in Minnesota. It was here that the old arrow makers had their work shops and where they once wrought a field of potatoes now grows. Mission lakes was one of the greatest duck passes in the north. For years, Dr. Camp had difficulty in making people from Duluth and Minneapolis understand that the premises were private. Shooting in season still is good.

This pioneer ranch is devoid of hills, stones and the soil is a sandy loam with clay subsoil. It will raise anything that can be grown in Northern Minnesota. I saw a field of oats that will thresh from sixty to seventy-five bushels an acre. Corn, while not like that grown in Iowa or Illinois, shows promising crops this season and will make the finest kind of fodder beyond all doubt. Barley, rye and wheat are heavy and successful crops in this locality. Three hundred and eighty acres are under cultivation.

On the lower ground, redtop makes one hay. Red clover and timothy are highly successful. From two cuttings, red clover has produced five tons of superior hay per acre. Millet is a successful crop in this locality. This year the ranch will produce fully 2,000 bushels of oats and 800 bushels of potatoes. A five-acre garden shows a very strong growth of strawberry and raspberry plants, sweet corn, cabbage, onions, turnips and squashes. Over at Mission postoffice, at the mouth of Pine river, I saw another very fine garden, so I know the magic in the soil in this region is not confined to Dr. Camp's ranch.

I have seen much of the best farming portions of such states as Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Nebraska, Wisconsin, and Southern Minnesota. I know what it is to till the soil, to till on a farm and make life comfortable for hogs, cattle and horses. In all my experience I never saw a farm better supplied with proper buildings and tools and labor-saving devices. The place has fully twenty buildings. The seven-room ranch house has a stone foundation and cellar, fireplace and hardwood floors. It is beautifully situated and a water system is almost ready for use. Aside from windmill and pumphouse, there is an icehouse, henhouse, smokehouse, bunkhouse for the ranch hands and several smaller buildings.

A stock barn, 30 by 76 feet, with accommodations for 120 head of cattle, is very conveniently arranged and kept as neat and clean as possible. It has a hayloft, fitted with hayfork, derrick and tackle, with room for seventy-five tons of hay. There is a stone root cellar adjoining, 25x30 feet in area.

A granary building 30x40 feet, has a basement for hogs, divided into pens. Two horse barns, 25x40 feet and 20x35 feet, respectively, would house the envy of a Pennsylvania Dutchman and those are the chaps who beat the world with big barns.

A double corn crib, 20 feet long, with space for machinery, swells the list. Further up the river from the main collection of farm buildings is a mammoth shed, 30x150 feet, capable of holding 1,000 sheep or 200 head of cattle. There also is a smaller barn with room for six horses.

Among the farm implements you find tools of all kinds, drags, mowers, grain binders, feed cutters and grinders, corn shredders, corn binders, hay rakes, blacksmith's tools and forge, carpenter tools and bench, and 8-ton Fairbanks stock scales and a 12-horse-power threshing machine engine.

Blooded stock has the call on this ranch. There are about eighty head of grade and thoroughbred short-horn Durham cattle of all ages. The dark red calves are as pretty, almost, as fawns. I have had enough experience with cows to satisfy the average man and I never saw any that showed better points and lines than Dr. Camp's thoroughbreds. The papa animal of the herd, Beauty's Victor III, No. 133,687, bred by John Cooper of St. Cloud, is the noblest Roman, so to speak, in the bovine line that I have seen for many moons. He cost his owner $500 and his calves are commanding high prices.

While Angus goats have not been tried, the place has over 200 Shropshire sheep. These are the black-faced fellows, over which there has been so much talk by sheep fanciers around Duluth. Nothing is raised but thoroughbred Poland China hogs. Ten work horses are used on the place and a number of colts are being raised for future contingencies. Gabbling geese waddle around, nipping at things and ducks quack for the river when Mission creek ceases to interest them. The head of the pea fowl flock is minus his blazing tail just now, which causes him to lie low and neither strut nor yell. As to chickens, I wish every reader of The Herald could have shared the huge platters of fried chicken that graced the dinner table. With it, too, I must mention the fresh cucumbers, new sweet corn, fried carrots, young onions, fine potatoes and other edibles right from the ranch garden.

Then, to crown all, there's an odoriferous, cranky, bustling gasoline launch with which to ply up and down the currents of the Father of Waters.

There's ample cordwood for a couple of generations on the place, as well as pine, ash, maple, oak and birch fit for lumber.

When it comes to sport, better shooting cannot be found in Northern Minnesota, with the exception of moose. There are bear, some deer, several smaller animals, ducks, geese, chickens, partridges and quail, in season. When it comes to fishing, you have bass, pike, croppies and even suckers.

Those who wish to hunt from a very popular vocation just now, can do so for the Rabbit Lake belt of the Cuyuna range is only six miles straight east. There are those, too, who always have declared that iron would be found north of the Mission lake country.

Large farms are attracting much attention in Duluth these days, and I have attempted to give some idea of this one, both because it is one of the pioneer farms in the northern country and because many will wish to make comparisons. Among Duluthians interested in stock, fruit, grain and vegetable raising are G. G. Hartley, John G. Williams, C. P. Craig, J. L. Washburn, Ed. Hazen, S. F. Sulvick, Dr. Boyer, B. E. Baker, Davidson & McTae, Al. Kuehn, Sam. Loeb, Fred Reynolds and many others on a smaller scale. Information and comparisons cannot help being interesting and helpful.

REACHED FOR TELEGRAPH KEY And Gave Warning That Maniac Was Attacking Him.

New York, Aug. 25.—Charles Lynch, a tower man in the employ of the New Haven railroad at Rowland, Conn., had a fearful experience with a maniac in his tower and is prostrated from injuries and nervous shock. The first knowledge of his critical plight was given in the dispatcher's office in this city when the following message came from Lynch's station: "A maniac is at my side, threatening my life. What shall I do?" In answer this message was sent back to him: "Stop the first freight and get help. Don't leave your post." Exhausted and wounded in several places, Lynch was still struggling with the madman when he sent the message. He had thrown him to the floor and was standing with his foot on his neck while he managed to reach the telegraph instrument. Luckily for Lynch a freight came along a few minutes later. The train crew battered down the door into the tower and found both Lynch and his insane assailant cowering and exhausted in a corner of the small room. It appeared the maniac was Richard Kennedy, who was released from the United States marine corps, in Brooklyn, July 2, since that time he had been listed and deserted and for five days had been wandering through the woods in a demented condition. He had been drinking heavily, and when he entered the signal tower he shouted that alligators and pythons were following him. Lynch heard him mounting the stairs and attempted to stop him, but Kennedy seemed possessed of superhuman strength and overpowered him. Kennedy weighs 200 and Lynch not more than 125 pounds.

CONGRESSMAN VANDIVER Doffs Hat In Tribute to Missouri Mule.

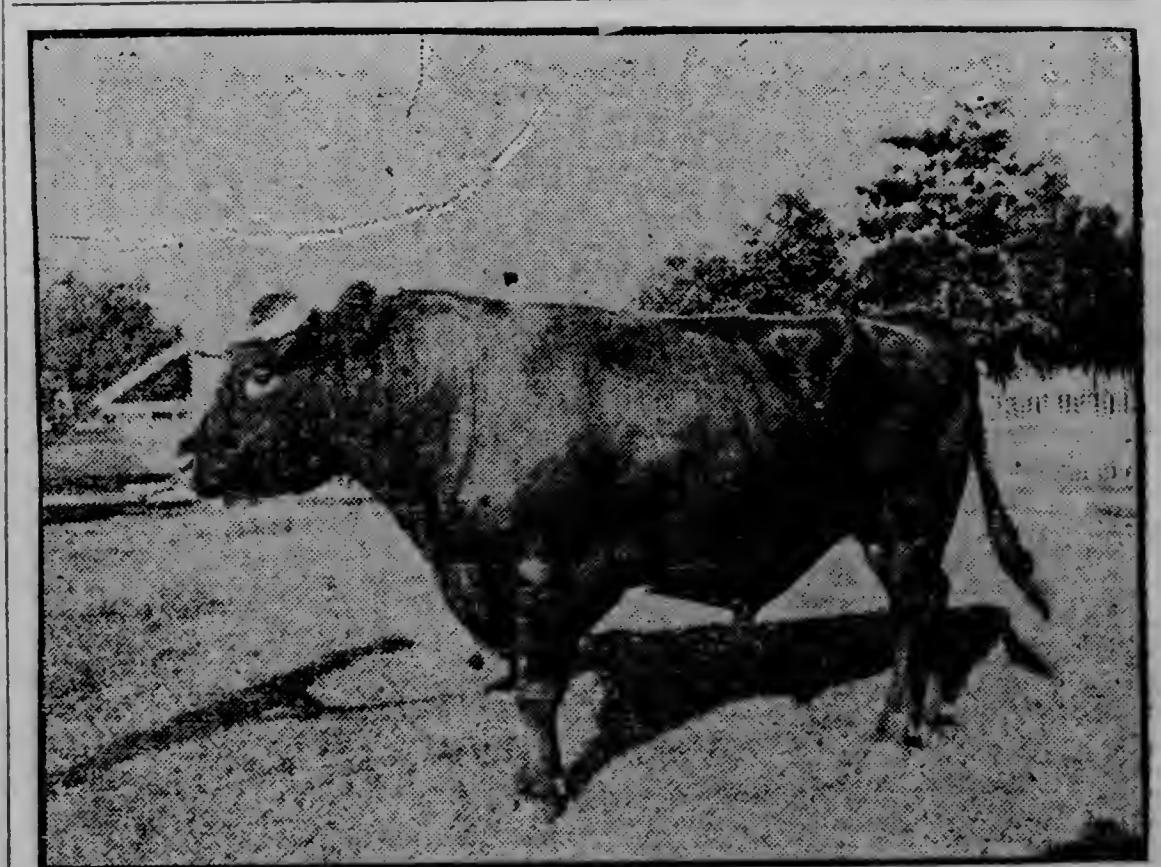

Sedalia, Mo., Aug. 25.—"I take off my hat to the Missouri mule," said former Congressman W. D. Vandiver, in the course of an address at the state fair's celebration of "governor's day."

"Why, there was enough mules in Missouri last year to have paved the whole $15,000,000 originally given for the Louisiana purchase, and then to have paved the cost of the World's fair recently held in St. Louis besides."

"The Missouri mule is known the world over. His fame has spread to the remotest corners of the globe. No nation on earth dares to go to war without first asking Missouri for a sufficient supply of mules. Battleships and 13-inch guns are made on either side of the Atlantic, but the Missouri mule grows only between the Mississippi river and the borders of Kansas."

At his best he is nineteen hands high and weighs 1,900 pounds. I take off my hat to the Missouri mule and stand at a respectful distance. The only animal with no ancestor of his own type and no hope of posterity of any type, he maintains his importance in war and agriculture and demands his price wherever men struggle for supremacy, whether in peace or war."

MINNESOTA STATE FAIR THIS YEAR TO BE BEST EVER HELD

Opens Monday, Sept. 4, With Address By Senator Dolliver.

Great Display of Exhibits In Every Department Promised.

Fine Program of Races and Specialties Afternoon and Evening.

The near approach of the date of the opening of the Minnesota State fair of 1905 makes possible such an estimate of the coming show as to warrant the statement that the officers of the fair will present to the public the best exhibition yet given at the fair grounds. The fair this year will be under the management of much the same group of officers as last year. President C. N. Cosgrove of Le Sueur remains at the head of the board and is assisted by B. F. Nelson of Minneapolis and C. M. Griggs of St. Paul as first and second vice presidents, respectively, while the members of the board are J. M. Underwood of Lake City, L. D. Baird of Austin, W. M. Liggett of St. Anthony Park, William E. Lee of Long Prairie, D. S. Hall of Buffalo Lake and G. W. Patterson of Worthington. The executive management of the fair continues in the hands of Secretary E. W. Randall, who has been in this position during the past decade of the remarkable progress of the institution. In a general way the plans for the fair of 1905 include the development features already familiar to the public, rather than the introduction of startling novelties. Under the direction of G. W. Patterson of Worthington, who has been made superintendent of the horse division, it is expected that this department will show much improvement this year. Col. W. M. Liggett expects to have a stock show superior to anything yet seen at Hamline and all other live stock and agricultural and horticultural exhibits give promise of surpassing even that excellent display made in 1904. Through the liberal and progressive action of the board of managers the premium offers have been so adjusted and so elaborated as to better than ever suit the needs of exhibitors, as well as taking cognizance of the progress made in various directions in agriculture and stock raising. J. M. Underwood of Lake City, who is superintendent of the division of vegetables, grain and farm produce, has secured the addition of several large premium offers, such as $70 for collections of potatoes, $400 for exhibits of market gardeners and numerous increases throughout the detailed premium list. The money offered for county exhibits aggregates $2,000 and for general farm exhibits shown by individual farmers, $125.

One of the entirely new features of the fair will be the exhibit of fat cattle, sheep and swine in car lots. This new departure is fostered by the interests at South St. Paul and was proposed by J. S. Bangs, who is this year the superintendent of the sheep and swine department. The theory of the exhibit is to encourage farmers and breeders to prepare animals for market in the proper way in such quantities as to be profitable. Upwards of $2,000 are offered in premiums for these fat animals. Supt. William E. Lee promises the greatest exhibit of farm implements and farm machinery ever made on any fair ground in the world. The early summer saw machine men at work overhauling their buildings on the fair grounds or constructing new ones. One of the great displays will be that of the J. I. Case Threshing Machine company of Racine, Wis. This concern is making elaborate preparations. The fair will be opened on Monday, Sept. 4, with a great address by Senator Dolliver of Iowa, and in the afternoon Dan Patch, the fastest harness horse in the world, will race against his world's record of 1:56. Each afternoon of the fair there will be a fine amusement program of races and specialties and every evening the specialties will be repeated, the program concluding with Pan's latest pyrotechnic spectacle, the Siege of Port Arthur. The most magnificent display of pyrotechnics ever witnessed in this section of the country is promised in connection with this spectacle. This display is, in fact, the crowning "feature" of the marvelous exhibition, and as Pan has long enjoyed the reputation of "King of Pyrotechnists," in both England and America, it is more than likely something unusually fine in pyrotechnic novelties will be seen on this occasion. Among the most elaborate "set pieces" shown will be a mammoth Revolving Fountain of Fire, "Aladdin's Jeweled Palace," and the beautiful pyramid, the "Blazing Sun," huge Japanese fan, the "Tempest Wheel," the "Shower of Pearls," "Sparkling Carriage," etc. These are only a few of the larger fancy exhibits that will be shown. In addition, there will be the usual beautiful display of Pan's aerial fireworks, huge "floral bombshells," from eight to thirty-six inches in size; scores of various styles of fancy rockets, etc. For the edification of the little folks, there will be a large number of comic fireworks devices, such as "Devil Among the Tailors," "Huge Walking Elephant," the "Flying Pigeons," the "Acrobatic Monkey," the "Flying Fish," etc. There will be comfortable seating arrangements for 10,000 or more people, and with promising weather this capacity promises to be tested. Last year the state fair adopted the plan followed by all large expositions in grouping the amusement features, to which an extra admission was charged, and selected the name of "The Pike," to designate the location. Extreme care was exercised that nothing of a doubtful or questionable nature should be exhibited, and so well did they succeed that the public and the press commended the plan. For the present year the same method has been followed, and a better line of attractions secured. Harold A. Busha has been selected as director of the Pike, and for the past four months he has been constantly traveling over the country securing attractions. Among others which Mr. Busha has engaged is the International Trained Wild Animal exhibition, the Bohemian Glass Blowers, Prof. Wood's Dog and Pony Circus, Gorman's Isle of Ping Pong, Mysterious Zebras, the House of Trouble and Halls of Laughter, Peggy From Paris, the Hindoo Mystery, Roberta and Her Company, Fire and Flame Fancian Vaudeville Hereafter, Palace de la Mort, etc., all of which and a number of others will delight the happy crowd upon the Merry Pike. In addition to the paid attractions, a number of meritorious free attractions will be given at intervals of one half hour, starting at 10:30 each day and lasting until midnight. When the fair opens on Monday, Sept. 4, at 9 a. m., it will be complete in every department. This is no stereotyped announcement—except that it has become proverbial regarding the Minnesota fair. The management takes pride in having the fair in apple-pie order on opening day, and will take the usual pains to see that the exhibitors are in line this year. The announcement is of more than usual importance; however, owing to the fact that the opening day will be a very interesting one this year, and many people will come to town on that day if they are sure the fair will be in order. For Dan Patch, the king of the race track, is to appear on the opening day, and will go against his world's record of 1:56 during the afternoon program. This will be one of the great track events of the year 1905. It is expected that Dan will be in such condition by Sept. 4 that he will easily reach the record of last year, and will make a strenuous endeavor to clip a second or so off the old mark. All the railroads leading to Minneapolis and St. Paul have made a one-fare rate to the state fair. The territory covered is wide, and tickets will be on sale Saturday, Sept. 2—two days before the fair opens—so that all may have opportunity to get into the cities on Sunday or Monday morning and be in time to see Dan Patch on Monday afternoon.

GET WELL — KEEP WELL

Bathe 365 Times a Year—Cold Bath Has No Detrimental Reaction For the Robust—Nervous People Should Avoid the Hot Bath—Warm Water Refreshes When One Is Fatigued—Beneficial Effects of Salt Water, Turkish and Vapor Baths—Bathing as a Preventive of Children's Skin Diseases—Don't Follow a Bath With Vigorous Rubbing or Immediate Dressing.

BY EDWARD B. WARMAN, A. M. (Author of Scientific Physical Training, "Conductor of the 'Get Well-Keep Well' Club.")

(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph B. Bowles.) If you want health, a clear complexion, a system well toned, you should make it an invariable rule to take some kind of a bath not fewer than 365 times a year.

The temperature of the bath? That depends. If you are of a vigorous constitution—or wish to be, I would advise a cold-water bath, providing you have enough vitality for the necessary reaction; if not, begin with lukewarm water, and have it less warm each day, as the body gradually becomes accustomed to the change. The water should be of a temperature to suit the body, rather than the mind.

A certain Chicago doctor claims that bathing of any kind, especially with soap, is detrimental. He further claims that consumption may be cured and also prevented by non-bathing. There are thousands of people (dazy people) that will rise up and call that doctor blessed. His legitimate sphere is among the "Weary Willies."

Bathing, daily bathing, is necessary to obtain the very best bodily condition. Health requires that the four eliminating agents of the body (lungs, kidneys, bowels, skin) should be kept constantly at work. Deep breathing is essential to the first; water, inside and outside, for the three remaining agents.

COLD WATER BATH. A cold bath is always stimulating, and has no detrimental reaction for one who is sufficiently robust to take it. If you are obliged to exercise after bathing for the purpose of getting warm, it is a sure indication that your vitality is too low for such a bath. This applies with equal force to the matter of dressing immediately after bathing.

When the cold water comes in contact with the skin, the superficial blood vessels contract, and the blood is driven to the internal organs, and the temperature there is raised, while the temperature at the surface, the temperature of the skin, is temporarily lowered. Then when the reaction takes place (a healthy reaction), the skin vessels dilate, the blood rushes back to them, and the bath is complete. A cold water bath in a cold room is a positive luxury—for one who is vital plus.

HOT WATER BATH. A hot water bath, as a rule, should be avoided, especially by those that are nervous. While it is a powerful stimulant of the nervous and vascular system, it is usually followed with strong reaction. The fibrous ends of the nerves, extending over the surface of the body, are thrown into a state of excitement, and so-called nervous leakage follows. Should you insist upon taking a hot water bath, it should be taken immediately before retiring. If taken during the day, do not fail to follow it with a plunge, or at least a dash of cold water. Be neither overwarm nor chilled when passing from the bath to the other air. A hot water bath being a reducer, it may be desired by the very obese, but the thin, spare person should avoid it.

WARM WATER BATH. A warm water or tepid bath is highly recommended for those that cannot take a cold bath. The effect is soothing, the blood flowing into the relaxed superficial vessels of the skin, and thereby increasing its functions. As heat facilitates the bodily functions, a warm bath will often do more to freshen a fatigued person than a longer time spent in sleep. If the bath is only moderately warm (tepid), it acts as a sedative to the nervous system. Those who take the cold bath daily should take a warm bath, with soap, at least once a week, for the sake of cleanliness.

SALT WATER BATH. This form of bath may be taken warm, tepid, or cold; preferably the last. It has an exhilarating influence, tones up the entire system, and gives to the skin a healthy glow that amply repays for the time and trouble involved. Bathe the entire body—not omitting the hands, face and neck. As a winter bath it is an excellent preventative of colds, and also an excellent substitute for face cosmetics; no chapping, no no closing of the pores, no roughness of the skin will annoy the person who systematically and regularly takes the salt-water bath. Of course, no soap should be used at the time of using the salt.

If taken in the summer, rinse the body each time with clear water; in winter, only once a week when using warm water and soap. Use table salt, rock salt or sea-salt. The latter contains medicinal properties not found in the other two. Place in the bath tub about two double handfuls of the salt, and mix thoroughly. If a bath tub is not available, place nearly a single handful in a basin or bowl of water. No sponge or cloth is needed—just the hands.

TURKISH BATH. If one would revel in the luxury of health, then he should take, once a week, either a Turkish bath (hot air) or a Russian bath (hot vapor), be moderate in his eating, drink an abundance of water, and, by so doing, he would find some difficulty in becoming ill. The Turkish bath is not only a positive luxury but a wonderful remedial agent for many ailments. Those who have heart trouble of any kind (physical) should consult a physician before indulging in all baths, properly and hygienically taken, stimulate the secretions, energize the entire system and prolong life.

VAPOR CABINET BATH. This very popular mode of bath is also to be commended. It brings the blood to the surface, equalizes the circulation and promotes cutaneous exhalation. All the excretory organs are relieved, and the blood, in consequence, very much purified. Inasmuch as the pores are well opened, great care should be taken to avoid a chill, for, in so doing, the skin capillaries contract, and the temperature of the body surface is lowered and the blood vessels lose their tone for a time.

INTERNAL BATHS. The flushing of the great sewer of the human body is, at times, as essential as the flushing of the sewers of a city. Drink freely of cold water, and occasionally use the hot water in the form of an enema. Do not rely, however, upon the latter. If you do not hinder nature, you will never need to help her. Some persons do not realize how much the health is dependent upon proper bathing. Not long ago a physician was called upon to diagnose a case. After a careful examination of the man he assured him that it was merely a run-down condition. There was nothing he would advise, except, perhaps, it would be a bath. After a few days the man returned and he said: "Why, Doc, if I had known that a bath would make such a difference, I would have taken one forty years ago."

SUN AND AIR BATH. After my cold-water bath in the morning I make it a rule to follow with an air bath, and, when possible, a sun bath. There are no words in the English language sufficiently adequate to express the gratitude felt by the body after bathing, as also after profuse perspiration, is more than an art. I want to enter my protest against two egregious, hygienic errors: viz, (1) the vigorous rub-down after the bath, (2) the immediate dressing after a bath or after violent physical exercise.

If you want a vigorous rub-down, let it occur during, not after, the bath. To rub the body briskly after bathing, and then to dress immediately is not only a sure means of inviting a "cold," it will defeat the very end or aim of the bath. If you get overheated from the rubbing, you are just as liable to a "cold" as when overheated from the bath. It were better for the body to have it wet with the water from the bath when the clothing is put on than to have it wet with perspiration from a vigorous rub-down. When the underclothing is damp, and the body becomes chilled, the vitality of the body is lowered.

Rub the body gently with the towel to absorb the moisture, then rub dry with the hands, then, if sufficiently warm (as you would be), take an air or sun bath (or both at once), if only for a few minutes.

BATH DON'TS. Don't take a hot-water bath if thin-blooded, nervous or neuragic. Don't bathe your hands and face in hard water, if you can get soft. Don't take any kind of bath directly after a hearty meal.

Don't attempt to remove dust from the face with cold water.

Don't take a hot or warm bath in a cold room.

Don't bathe face while warm from exertion.

Don't use cold water on the face while overheated.

Don't wash your face too often when traveling.

Don't forget the alcohol and washcloth when traveling.

Don't use a sponge on the face at any time.

Don't remain long in the bath—hot or cold.

Don't dress immediately after bathing.

Don't neglect the air and sun bath.

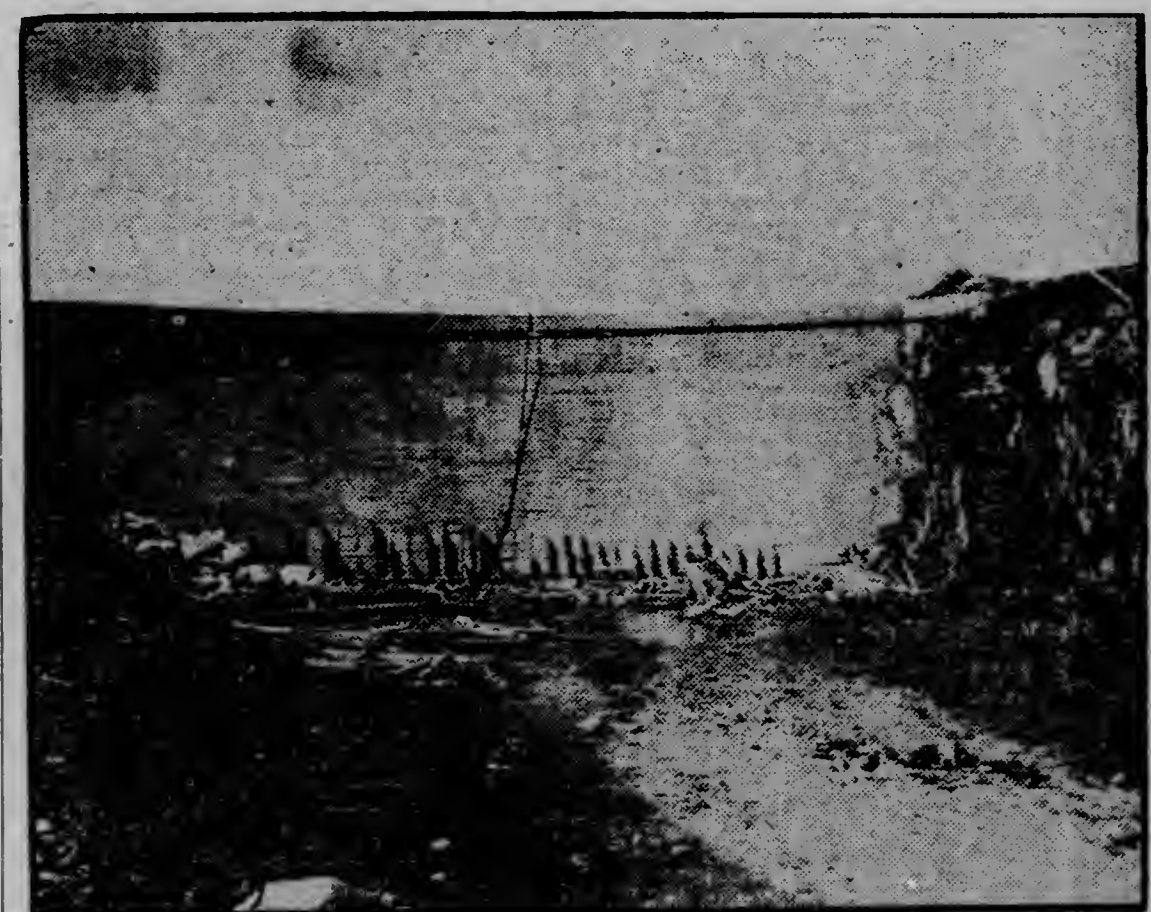

Don't neglect a daily bath of some kind.

Don't take a cold bath when fatigued.

Don't believe that you can get rid of wrinkles by filling in the creases with powder. Just before retiring, bathe your face with very warm water (so warm that you wonder how you can stand it) and then with cold water (so cold that it will be all aglow from the reaction). Then retire with no thought of the morrow, no doubts, no fears, and no worrying over the "have-beens." Care and anxiety will all have, but 'tis worry that cuts the furrows.

Bathing is an art, but the care of the

BIG RETAINING WALL FOR THE WATER POWER COMPANY

ONE OF LARGE RETAINING WALLS NEAR THOMSON FOR THE GREAT NORTHERN POWER COMPANY'S RESERVOIR.

One of the many large pieces of concrete construction in connection with the Great Northern Power company's operations now under way on the upper St. Louis river that has attracted the attention of all who have observed it, is the big wall that has been built across a gap in the rock that forms a portion of the retaining wall of the immense reservoir right at the village of Thomson, above the falls.

This interesting structure, a picture of which is herewith shown, spans an opening in the rock wall about 150 to 175 feet across, and is 55 feet high from the level of the ground beneath. The foundations of this immense wall are built on solid rock about twenty feet below the surface and the wall tapers in thickness from six or eight feet at the bottom to between three and four feet at the top.

The top of the wall forms part of the walk along the retaining wall on the Thomson side of the reservoir, but to those who are inclined to disfigure a trip across is a trying ordeal. The wall is not built straight across the opening, but in accordance with the rules of good engineering it is built on a curve with the curved wall offering a resistance to the pressure of the water in the reservoir when the latter is filled. By reason of such construction the resistance offered by the wall is much greater than if it were constructed straight across.

Great care has been taken in the construction work to put up a wall that will stand the greatest possible strain that may be made against it for the reason that if, when the reservoir is full, the structure should give way, the village of Thomson would be exposed to a flood, the disastrous effects of which could hardly be estimated.

The masonry work at the juncture of the concrete wall with the solid rock on either side is regarded as a fine piece of workmanship by all that have viewed it. This big retaining wall is only one of many that have been and are being constructed by the power company to close all the gaps in the natural rock wall around the reservoir site. Some of the new walls are only a few feet high, but the one at Thomson being among the highest thus far built.

The masonry work at the juncture of the concrete wall with the solid rock on either side is regarded as a fine piece of workmanship by all that have viewed it. This big retaining wall is only one of many that have been and are being constructed by the power company to close all the gaps in the natural rock wall around the reservoir site. Some of the new walls are only a few feet high, but the one at Thomson being among the highest thus far built.

The accompanying picture taken recently at Tobin's harbor, Isle Royale, shows the big catch of lake trout made Aug. 12, by G. D. Simpson, superintendent of the Wolfe-Fargo Express company, at Chicago. Mrs. Simpson and their two sons. In this catch are seventy-one trout of an aggregate weight of over 350 pounds. The two largest fish weighed twenty-four and twenty-five pounds respectively. The entire catch was made in only six hours fishing, with the use of trolling lines and spoon hooks.

Former French Beauty Is Having Divorce Papers Served.

New York, Aug. 25.—Somewhere in Italy once will be served on Julius Caesar Toriello in a suit for absolute divorce begun by his aged wife, Mme. Isabelle Toriello, whose beauty, accomplishments and wealth made her a favorite in Paris, London and Washington half a century ago. As Mme. Toriello is now nearly 80 years old, it is doubtless the closing chapter in a life of unusual vicissitudes.

Daughter of a chamberlain of the court of Louis Napoleon, Mme. Toriello was in her youth one of the distinguished beauties of Paris. As a mere girl she was married to Henry Le Grain, a wealthy merchant who made her a favorite in Paris. an Italian bandmaster, appeared, and although only half as old as the wealthy widow, he had made love to her with extraordinary zeal. Night after night he took his hand under her window and serenaded her, and at last she yielded to his entreaties and they were married.

On the day of the wedding the bandmaster obtained from her power of attorney, and after disposing of her mansion on a twenty-five-year lease, and managing a part of her estate for $10,000, he disappeared. She has never seen him since. For several years the aged woman fought for possession of her property, and defended her house with great dogs. At last she was forced to yield.

Still possessing considerable property, she has recently been traveling in Europe and South America. Three days ago she seized the papers in her divorce suit, drawn up by Smith & Peabody of No. 115 Nassau street. The shade of her recent husband has been discovered in Italy, and service upon him is expected this week. Mme. Toriello said that to be free from him before she died was now the greatest ambition of her life.

Summer Diarrhoea in Children. During the hot weather of the summer months the first unnatural looseness of a child's bowels should have immediate attention, so as to check the disease before it becomes serious. All that is necessary is a few doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy followed by a dose of castor oil to cleanse the system. Rev. M. D. Stockland, pastor of the first M. E. HEART GRAZED By the Bullet But Pek Will Live.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 25.—With a wound at his heart all but mortal, and received through no fault of his, Geyse Pek, aged 20, of 104 Frederick street, who lay three days at the point of death in St. Alexis hospital, was brought out of danger by the sleepless devotion to his profession of a man nurse.

Pek was shot Saturday night while leaving a wedding with his sweetheart, a 22-caliber bullet entering his chest, passing through it and lodging under the skin of his right side. So narrow was his escape from a fatal wound in the heart itself that the bullet passed within a centimeter of the organ, puncturing the pericardium or covering of the heart.

Despite the fact that the wound was pronounced fatal, the nurse worked over the patient all day and night without sleep, giving him ice baths and alcohol rubs. At daylight yesterday the patient's temperature had fallen from 104.2 degrees to 102.4. His pulse had been reduced from 125 to 100, and his respiration from 46 to 28.

Dr. Cheatham, the house surgeon, after an examination, said Pek would live.

You may safely plan vacations for yourself and for every one of your employees—if you do not give your store advertising any vacation.

does not rest at all upon the wheels. The cars are poised on a rod, which fits into a steel pipe run through the stage floor. These cars are moved by small motors beneath the treadmills.

The clouds of dust which apparently are thrown by the horse hoofs come from small boxes beneath the chariots. These boxes have a hollow attachment, which blows the dust into the air.

Complete illusion is that of the apparent backward movement of the track upon which the horses are running.

This moving track is nothing more nor than canvas belts painted gray. They are fastened to the stage floor upon shafts connected by flanged cog wheels with a transverse shaft which turns not only the big wheels, but the panorama as well.

The panorama is formed by three great scenic belts, two of them with a thirty-foot width and one with a forty-foot width of the stage, and one forty feet long sides at the rear. Upon these belts, three hundred feet wide, are painted an interior view of the amphitheater, with its tiers of seats filled with spectators. The panorama moves in the direction opposite to these in which the race is run and gives a complete impression of a grandstand full of people.

To sum up the whole scene, it is the most thrilling stage picture in the amusement parks, and it is the basis of the advancement of American stage mechanism.

New York, Aug. 26, 1915) is only necessary to walk two or three blocks on Upper Broadway these afternoons to realize that the new theatrical season is almost ready to bud. Never before has Broadway, from Third-sixth to Forty-second streets, been so crowded with new plays. In front of the Empire the other afternoon the crowd of Theatlanders was so thick red stood their ground so firmly that Manager Charles Frohman was unable to get through. He was obliged to obligingly sidetrack himself around the corner to the Palace.

In making at these actors whom one sees on Broadway now, the awful thought comes into one's mind that the actors on whom the one-night stands and the smaller cities are dependent for their entertainment are going to be asked not to be wondered at that the enthusiasm for the theater is dying away in so many of the smaller cities. The actors of the stage you scarcely ever see on dlet before it is produced at home. If "Clarice" proves as big a success as Mr. Frohman hopes it will, the play will run for a long time in New York in winter, and New Yorkers will not even before the spring at the earliest, "Clarice" will be played in New York for a long time. She is, in fact, an old negro mammy who has been a favorite character for years. The character of Clarice was to have been created by Miss Ada Dwyer, but since she was unable to do so, the part was referred to another company, and the role was to be played by Miss Lurette Lyle. Very recently, however, she has acquired a considerable reputation on the road, but who can blame her?

The role of the heroine is to be played by Miss Marie Doro, a very young and excellent actress, who has been with both Mr. Frohman and Mr. Gillette seem to have been a favorite character in their other play like the Belasco one, which will have only a very few characters. As the play is a comedy, the characters of the companies and the tremendously expensive productions of serious drama is about gone.

At the present moment the most of them are busy at work rehearsing at the theaters, and the moment they are set free from their labors their one thought is to get away from the city and to the country. The stars, to a man and woman, shun Upper Broadway as they would the plague. They are not to be seen on the street of it now and then from the window of a hansom cab, or the more frugal of them in a taxicab, but they are not to be seen in a face car, in fact, it's out of the unwritten laws of the profession now that they are to be seen in a face car. They usually will an actor or actress of any standing show his or her face on the Rialto. And yet it is not more than fifteen years ago that the Augustin Daly's would come down both execrations and derision on his head by making it a finable offense for any actor or actress to be seen on Upper Broadway. Today there isn't a manager, and there are very few actors, who won't tell you that Mr. Daly was perfectly right.

In the meantime, Frohman has called in the help of the Empire, and the stars of his theaters cheer of actors.

The enormous success of David Warfield and his little handful of actors in "The Sign of the Cross" has made the gold mine there is in a successful play which calls for a very small outfit.

It is not only the success of Mr. Warfield and his great success will reach any of the other cities this winter at all. Sept. 2 and all the theatrical wiseacres declare that he will not have the least chance of doing better than he has in New York. If he does, he will have success. "Adonis" is at the theater, which lasted for some 60-odd performances.

It is not only the success of Mr. Gillette's play near New York, however, these other prominent native playwrights, Mr. Gillette, Mr. Frohman, Mr. Frohman, have had their outings. The new Kildee play, in which Raymond Hitchcock is to play the part of the hero, is to play the same role, is entitled "Easy Dawson," and its metropolitan run will begin at Waldorf.

The Thomas play, "De Lancy," which was originally called "The Rough Rider," was the first of the new drama to be produced on the Empire on Sept. 6. The Pitch play

All indications point to an unusually interesting season. To be sure, the foreign theaters have turned out very few successes during the past year, but the American stage has been able to show a drought abroad, is going to have a bigger chance than ever before. Of the new plays that have been produced, there are unquestionably arousing the greatest interest in advance are William Gillette's Western Hfe, in which Miss Blanche Biehn is engaged, from the Japanese one, Drumming, in which Miss Blanche Biehn plays three seasons and is to be seen in the past as a young American girl. This play has not been advertised, but as Mr. Tolsonu knows it a rule never to advertise a play, and he may say that the actors have adhered to this first rehearsal.

It is to be a small one, but besides Miss Bates it includes such well-known actors as Elliott Hilliard, J. H. Cope and Francis X. Brown. The performance is to take place in Pittsford on Oct. 1 when the Belasco theater, formerly the Belasco, will be thrown open to the public.

Her Great Matin' will be presented by the Belasco on Oct. 10, and after the previous evening, the same night that Bernard Shaw's Man and Superman was given, the Belasco will open on Oct. 11 Charles Frohman will open on Oct. 12, with Two Years Eight Months and Twenty-Five and Caught in the Season, a musical comedy which endured a long voyage in London and which is now being given by the actors are opening thick and fast. By the end of next week nearly all the combinations of the season will be ready to go on Saturday night the Majestic will over with York State Folks, a play which will be given in the city and in the hamlet on the continent, with the Topper and Two Years Eight Months and Twenty-Five.

The Liedler Bros just as present are centering all their energy on the rehearsal of Two Years Eight Months and Twenty-Five, which will be produced in Washington August 28, coming into New York a fortnight later, and the Belasco's production will come in mid-September, when Ned Goodwin opens it with The Beauty and the Beast. The Belasco's production is to be the beauty, but Mr. Goodwin's is to be the beast. The statement that he is to play the beast is a matter of fact he plays the role of an

Mr. Gillette, on the other hand, is going for a tour of the grand old country of rice. He and his company have sailed for Liverpool and will give the first performance of the play in that city on Sept. 10. He will then go on to London and London for a run. This is, we take it, the first time that an American play has been produced in England, and will play abroad to receive a foreign review.

The Merchant of Venice," which he and Miss Julia Marlowe will present this season.

Both are most enthusiastic about the new play which Henry Arthur Jones has just completed for the Lyric Theatre. It is a serious drama of the century, but combining both comedy and strength. Mr. Jones is the best play he has ever written. This play, which is still unnamed, is one of the best of the season and will run for October.

Mr. Carter still limping slightly from her broken ankle, which terminated her season suddenly last May, is at Sheldrake's, where she will continue to come through Harvard with flying colors.

Richard Mansfield, as usual, is living at the Waldorf. He will continue his lectures at New London. Mrs. Fiske and Miss Fiske will continue to give their lectures. James K. Hackett and Miss Julia Marlowe are now on their way home from their tour of the Lyric Theatre, and will be from the folk links at Sinsinnet, Mass., to begin rehearsals of the Education of a Citizen, which Miss Fiske, Mr. Carter and Miss Bertha Galland, who are house-keepers, will be appearing on at this charming, quaint resort.

mere mention of this play is the cue for a Quaker meeting. It being the intention that the piece be a musical comedy subject.

A feature of "Queen of the Highbinders" is a team of fourteen acrobats who represent the police reserve of the Elizabethan period. The acrobats, in the course of the drama they go through a drill which would do credit to West Pointers. The acrobats are trained to do all their own work.

The acrobats are required to raid the stronghold of the highbinders, scale a wall, descend from the roof of a house; form a human pyramid, and smaller portions of the drama, from a second-story room where she has been imprisoned, and many other stunts.

Edwin Arden's New Play Is a Thriller and Its Name Is "Zorah"—Is a Russian Melodrama — New Attractions In "Lifting the Lid."

New York, Aug. 26.—Was it not Dickens' Young Crummies who described the first three acts of the drama as "writing for his own use"? The terrible villain is about to commit some fearful crime, more awful than any in his squalid life. But suddenly he hears a clock strike 12. He stops; he remembers; he has heard a clock strike 12 in his childhood—his happy childhood. He turns away from tears, abandons his criminal intention and becomes a noble, honest citizen.

It would seem that the new play which Edwin Arden has written for himself—and which has started the season of his own company at the Manhattan Trust—must have been written by August—was founded upon Mr. Crummins' story. The play, "Zorah," which has been acted in a few American cities before coming to New York, is a very good thing, and, in fact, more, and with success if it keeps away from the New York market. Where prices are low and emotions high the Crummins-Arden great situation is particularly potent. The story of the czar, has lured a pure and beautiful girl into the arms of a villainous rascal, who is wrongfully suspected of having murdered her father, and who, in the czar. As a matter of fact he is innocent, but he has the darndest luck. Right at the moment when he is about to be executed when he is peacefully cooling his heels in the prison, he is rescued by a woman who has pronounced and gets himself murdered. The man who really does the deed is his brother, who is a very nice fellow, and a hasty escape, leaving the rabbi in the hands of the executioners, who put a corpse with a stick in it.

It is the presentation of the requirements of the audiences at which he aims. Mr. Arden has implicated several

Then Zorah realizes what she has promised. She struggles from a sofa on to a table, and then to the floor, and rushes screaming about the room. At last she falls half fainting against Kirk, and reveals a convenient altar. With a cry she drops a bomb. But the mighty lord is charming and pursues her even there. At that moment the door opens, and a woman enters, saying, "Good night, papa—I have into what seemed very comfortable berth, some kind of old couch. The Duke of Marlborough, who was sitting while Darling was taking his little nap, the baron drifted away to the window, and the sound of the wind. It happened that the king of that fantastic country, the land of the Duke of Marlborough, and his city was invested on all sides, save that on the north, by the Duke of Marlborough, in a rash moment, and to save his priestly head from the knife of the Duke of Marlborough, he had to give a certain time a deliverer should be sent into Wot to rout the king's enemies, and on the day of the triumph the priest was to set the clasp. The high priest is naturally a little nervous about his head, and when a partly-submerged and strange looking craft drifts in on the bay, seeking the opportunity to declare the "heaven-sent one," the promised deliverer, was a passenger therein. As those of his ilk are prone to be, stepped out of the submarine when it touched land, and was hailed as the "heaven-sent one." The king, on the coming was sent out into the city, and the entire populace assembled to greet the deliverer. Among other things which the high priest had to do, was to declare the deliverer should marry the king's sister, the Princess Flirtino, a buxom dame of uncertain age, but not uncertain of her charms.

Ellington is announced as an "Impersonator of society ladies." It is not clear just who the "society ladies" are. He appears in a black dress and with a suggestive "in" in his girlish simplicity of Elaine May and Dorothy Russell. He sings flutishly, and with a "society lady" air, and smiles to the balhazed row. Just who that "society lady" is, is vague, but it is not clear that he is impersonating her. At least the song is the one that the former "Florodora" girl warbles on with a brief "society lady" air. "Society lady, you have heard a dozen or so of the 1,322 songs that I have written for you. Now I have a 'Pleinic For Two.' Ellington winks and ogles as he sings in a rather strained, but not unattractive, voice. He has a fascinating fun. Then he dances, gracefully and with much fro-u-fro of silk and feathers. He is applauded, and he is good applause, and those who dislike Ellington are not in the majority, because the stage is vacated to Fay Templeton, with Virginia Earl and the many others, who follow in merry succession.

Wise folk have informed us that there are, in this world of ours, three women to every man, and the more frivolous added, in song, that, Three wives apiece would be really first Men wouldn't then have to work for the brass.

So Abdul Kader put the idea into practice by bringing his three wives from Constantinople to make a vaudeville tour of America. The idea suggests limitless possibilities. For instance, the next time a manager organizes an "all star" cast for "The Two Orphans" he can save salaries by marrying the Madame Frochard, the good Sister Genevieve and the orphans themselves. The idea is a real one. Then think how, between them, the Rogers brothers could reduce expenses by marrying a complete comic opera chorus.

Abdul Kader was fortunate enough to get into trouble the moment he landed. The foreign vaudeville performer is but hardly introduced to the city and is consulted on the pier, or refused admittance at the Hotel St. Regis in these days of vivid red advertising. Abbie Kader's press agent was pleased to inform us—with tears in his eyes—that the authorities would not permit the Turk to land with three wives. So the several Kaders entered this country as "female relatives" of Abdul.

Of course, with such a successful "trial" entry into New York as that, the question of what Abdul Kader does on the stage is a mere detail. As a matter of fact, the first time he appeared the length of time the astute Mr. Hammerstein allowed him to use, and the first time he met the audience, he really was as impressive a Turk as ever craved a cigarette and coffee. He is a tall, slender, lithe, and altogether a sort of white nightgown, and so majestically impressive that no one is surprised at the large number of ladies who married him. He gets right down to painting a large picture in many minutes, and then goes outside to take walk. The point is not the beauty of the "piece of art," but the beauty of the man who creates it. And it may be noted that Abdul Kader can cover a large space with paint in a few minutes, and that he is married, or triply-wedded—now before the public.

He says the only objection he has to getting a plantation opened up is that it is practically out of the hands of the people from the north, unless they have almost unlimited means, they will be forced to go to a livelihood until the large—large plantations are made.

Some of the families of those who went from the range are now on the island, while the remainder are working until the first crop matures.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twentytwo per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirtyseven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."

Dr. H. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. J. E. Waggoner, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I can most heartily recommend your Castoria to all parents as a remedy for children's complaints. I have tried it and found it of great value."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable remedy for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from local physicians who have used it with the most successful results."

Dr. Norman M. Geor, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "During the last twelve years I have frequently recommended your Castoria as one of the best preparations of the kind, being safe in the hands of parents and very effective in relieving children's disorders, while the ease with which such a pleasant preparation can be administered is a great advantage."

Dr. F. H. Kyle, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "It affords me pleasure to add my name to the long list of those who have used and now endorse your Castoria. In fact of the ingredients being kept known through the printing of the formula on the wrapper is one good and sufficient reason for the recommendation of any physician. Of its good qualities and reputation I cheerfully."

Three jolly froggles,
Quite dandy and gay,
Walked out for a stroll
On a fair summer day.
Their hearts were as light
As the blue thistle's down
As they strutted along Through the streets of Frog Town.

"A story, a story!"
The gay leader spoke;
"Let's each tell the others
Some new-fangled joke."
And the three laughed so hard
They thought their would croak.

their murderous plan developed, and John Davis was brutally stabbed to death and his body thrown into the sea. Many of his officers and the crew shared his dreadful fate.

Thus it was on June 27th, 1694, the life of one of the greatest explorers and navigators was untimely ended. A biographer has this to say of John Davis:

"Davis converted the Arctic regions from a confused myth into a defined area, the physical aspects and conditions of which were understood so far as they were known. He not only described and mapped the extensive tract explored by himself, but he clearly pointed out the work cut out for his successors. He lighted Hudson into his strait, he lighted Baffin into his bay. He lighted Esqede to the scene of his Greenland labors. But he did more, his true-hearted devotion to the cause of Arctic discovery, his patient scientific research, his loyalty to his employers, his dauntless gallantry and enthusiasm, form an example which will be a beacon-light to maritime explorers for all time to come."

But he saw his image there Mirrored in the water clear.
He was frightened so, they say,
That he turned and fled
Through the dying light of day,
Roaring as he sped:
For he thought the water clear
Was a horrid monster's lair.

Among the names of the greatest explorers of Arctic regions is that of John Davis, whose glory of achievement will live forever in the strait that bears his name. John Davis was born at Sandridge, England, "on the left bank of the Dart between Totness and Dartmouth" in the year 1550. One of his boyhood friends was Walter Raleigh who afterward was knighted by Queen Elizabeth. This friendship, begun in youth lasted throughout life.

John Davis was married to Faith Davis, daughter of John Davis, a cooper, in the parish of St. Andrew, on the 20th, 1552. The record of this marriage is still to be seen on the old parish register at Stoke Gabriel.

It was on June 17, 1585, that the small vessel, the Swallow, was sent by the Mayor to go in search of a northwest passage to China and India. These ships were the Swallow and the Golden Hind. The names of these vessels were given to the Sunshine and Moonshine, Davis' command ships. The Sunshine was commanded by the crew consisted of 11 men, one carpenter, four mariners, and three sailors. The Moonshine, of 35 tons, was commanded by William Britton.

On the 17th of June, the mountains of Greenland were sighted. On this lee-coast of Greenland Captain Davis said: "It is the first time that any Englishman has seen the ice and the lathsome view of the shore bred strange conceits among the crew, and they were much troubled." These words proved to be a group of words which were to be repeated in the future. This land now is located the Danish settlement of Godthaab. Here he had the four musicians on land, he bade them play while he, in company with his friends, danced on the shore, and sang the music. This conduct was an overtone of friendship toward the natives. The newly-arrived people of another world, who were so much surprised at the meeting between Davis and the surprised natives, and the great explorer had some tradesmen on board.

After pushing northward as far as 65° 40' N., Captain Davis found that his stock of provisions was low, and he was obliged to turn back. He turned his ships homeward, and the northwest passage was closed with.

It was during a voyage to the East Indies that Davis was killed. He was killed by a mutiny while he was on the beach of Japan.

summon the two runaways. Into the pantry they hurried, and there a sight presented itself to their eyes that froze the blood to their hearts. From the doors of a double trap stuck the dead tails of the two muskies who had gone to eat cheese. They had been unsuspecting like their father, and bit at the bait placed for them.

"Well, back to the cellar crept the poor grief-stricken mice to mourn behead the wine cask for their dear dead ones. The next morning, as soon as it was light, the mourners came forth from the shadow, and looking at one another, they were shocked to behold that each of them had turned snow-white during the night of grief and terror. The shock had been almost too much for their nerves, you see."

"And from that family of suddenly-turned-white mice sprang the white mice in the world."

Mamma Grey Mouse paused, for her story was finished. Black Eye and White Teeth made as if to speak, but their mother held up a warning paw, saying: "No more tale this morning, for don't you see the sun is peeping through the cellar window? Among the names of the greatest explorers of Arctic regions is that of John Davis, whose glory of achievement will live for all time in the annals of exploration. John Davis was born at Sandridge, England, "on the left bank of the River between Trent and Ouse," on July 24, 1550. One of his boyhood friends was Walter Raleigh who afterward was knighted by Queen Elizabeth. This friendship, which in youth lasted throughout life,

On July 20th the rugged mountains of Greenland were sighted. Of this lee-coast of Greenland Davis wrote: "The Land of Desolation. The Iriksone noise of the breaking of the ice, and the blowing of the strange conjets among us."

On July 23rd land was sighted in the 15° 15' north latitude. This was the island of St. John's. Davis found himself on the shores where now is located the Danish settlement of Godthaab. He was the first acquaintance with the Eskimo. That day he and his crew were invited to play while he, in company with his companions of the ship's crew, danced to the accompaniment of the Eskimo. His friendship toward the natives who had just arrived was so great that he was warmly received by a newly-arrived people of another world. His friendly relations soon existed between the Eskimo and the English sailors and the great explorer had some trade with them in furs.

At the end of the northwest coast, as far as 65° 40' N., Captain Davis found that the Eskimo had been driven to the south by a great gust 23rd he turned his ships homeward, entering Dartmouth harbor September 10th.

FATE OF NATIONS DEPENDS ON CONFERENCE BEING HELD BY ELDER STATESMEN OF JAPAN

THE FIFTH WEEK OF YELLOW FEVER OPENS FAVORABLY

It Is Generally Believed That the Crisis Has Been Passed. The Weather In New Orleans Is Now Unseasonably Cool.

New Orleans, Aug. 28.—The fifth week of the fight against yellow fever began today with a continuance of favorable conditions, and with the hope that the crisis had passed, the fact that there are 189 cases under treatment, and many of them of the lightest character being especially significant. In the thirty-one cases in the preceding twenty-four hours, only five were Italians, and there were only three cases reported from the originally infected Italian quarter. The marine hospital service has now a man in touch with every infected point outside of New Orleans, Iberia parish, through which the Southern Pacific runs, had a fresh fright, and has cut off all passenger communication with the rest of the state. Reports of low temperature came from various points in the southwestern section of the state. The weather here was unseasonably cool this morning.

Dr. Warner announced, today, that preparations were being completed for the disinfection of every church meeting place in New Orleans, during the current week.

President Kohnke, president of the city board of health, today, corrected the statement attributed to him in the press, that there was no hope to crush out the fever before frost. Dr. Kohnke said the great danger of yellow fever of ancient times, but to the city's commerce resulting from the panic of outside communities.

TAGGART MARRIAGE A PURE LOVE MATCH

Mrs. Taggart Takes Stand In Own Behalf In Divorce Trial.

Weoster, Ohio, Aug. 28.—Promptly upon the opening of court today, Mrs. Grace Taggart entered the room. In anticipation of her appearance as a witness, the court room filled rapidly, and a large audience was present. Contrary to expectations Mrs. Taggart was not placed on the stand at the opening. A controversy arose between attorneys regarding papers received from the war department by Capt. Taggart's attorneys. Mr. Wertz was put on the stand and asked some questions by ex-Judge Smyser about the letters.

Mrs. Taggart then took the stand in her own behalf. She said she was 33 years old. She stated she was adopted by the Culver family in Chicago when she was 3 or 4 years old; that her adopted father, who at one time was president of the Chicago board of trade, had given her educational advantages. As a result of her marriage with Capt. Taggart, she declared that it had been a pure love match.

CHOLERA IN EAST PRUSSIA

Seven Cases Appear Three of Which Prove Fatal.

Berlin, Aug. 28.—The official Reichsanzeiger today says that since Aug. 16 seven cholera cases, three of which were fatal, have occurred in the Weichsel district, East Prussia. Traffic from Weichsel has been checked under medical and police control.

Dispatches from Danzig says the cholera bacillus appears to have spread further than the local authorities on Saturday supposed possible. A Russian had died of cholera at Danzig. A German, a Hungarian and two laborers of Posen, who drank of Weichsel river water, suddenly became ill. One of them died, another from Gallen have been attacked presumably by cholera at Grauburg. Approaches is felt at Thorn and Bromberg and in the small river towns from the Russian frontier to Danzig, although nothing like a panic can be said to exist. The medical authorities are tightening their disinfection, multiplying the stations along the river to prevent bathing or use of water in any form, examining searching every person complaining of the least illness and are urging all families within the district to use the organized precautions. These measures have been effective so far as Prussian territory is concerned.

UNIVERSITY STATUTES WILL BE AMENDED.

Odesa, Aug. 28.—The ministry of public instruction has notified the officials of the local university and other institutions of its intention to amend the university statutes of 1884 which have been condemned by professors and students all over the country. A meeting of 342 professors decided to continue to abstain from participation in university work until a new order of things is established and the people generally are given all civil rights and the universities are granted full academic autonomy.

WASHERS IN SESSION. Philadelphia, Aug. 28.—The National Laundrymen's association, began a three days' convention in this city, today. Delegates are in attendance from

GUARANTEE OF EIGHT-HOUR DAY DEMANDED

Printers Place an Ultimatum Before Their Employers. Threaten Instant Strike If the Request Is Refused. Strike Will Be General In Large Cities of West.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Having planned to raise enough funds to carry a small army of men on strike indefinitely, officers of the Typographical union here today demanded signed agreements from members of the typographic, guaranteeing the eight-hour day, under threat of instant strike. By aiming to have a general strike of job printers in all the big cities near Chicago, from Ohio to Missouri and Minnesota, local unionists plan to halt the importation of non-union compositors from Minneapolis, St. Paul and other cities where the Chicago typographic has been advertising for men to work under "open shop" rules. With these cities themselves in the throes of a strike, members of the Typographical union, No. 16, believe there would be no surplus of printers to be sent here. In addition to the six shops here, which posted open shop notices Saturday, and came under the ban of the union, twenty-seven other members of the Chicago typographic have threatened, and union officials expect, that about ten of the remaining firms will declare for war.

POLICE SEARCH FOR KIDNAPER

Believed to Have Brought Boy From Buffalo to Beg.

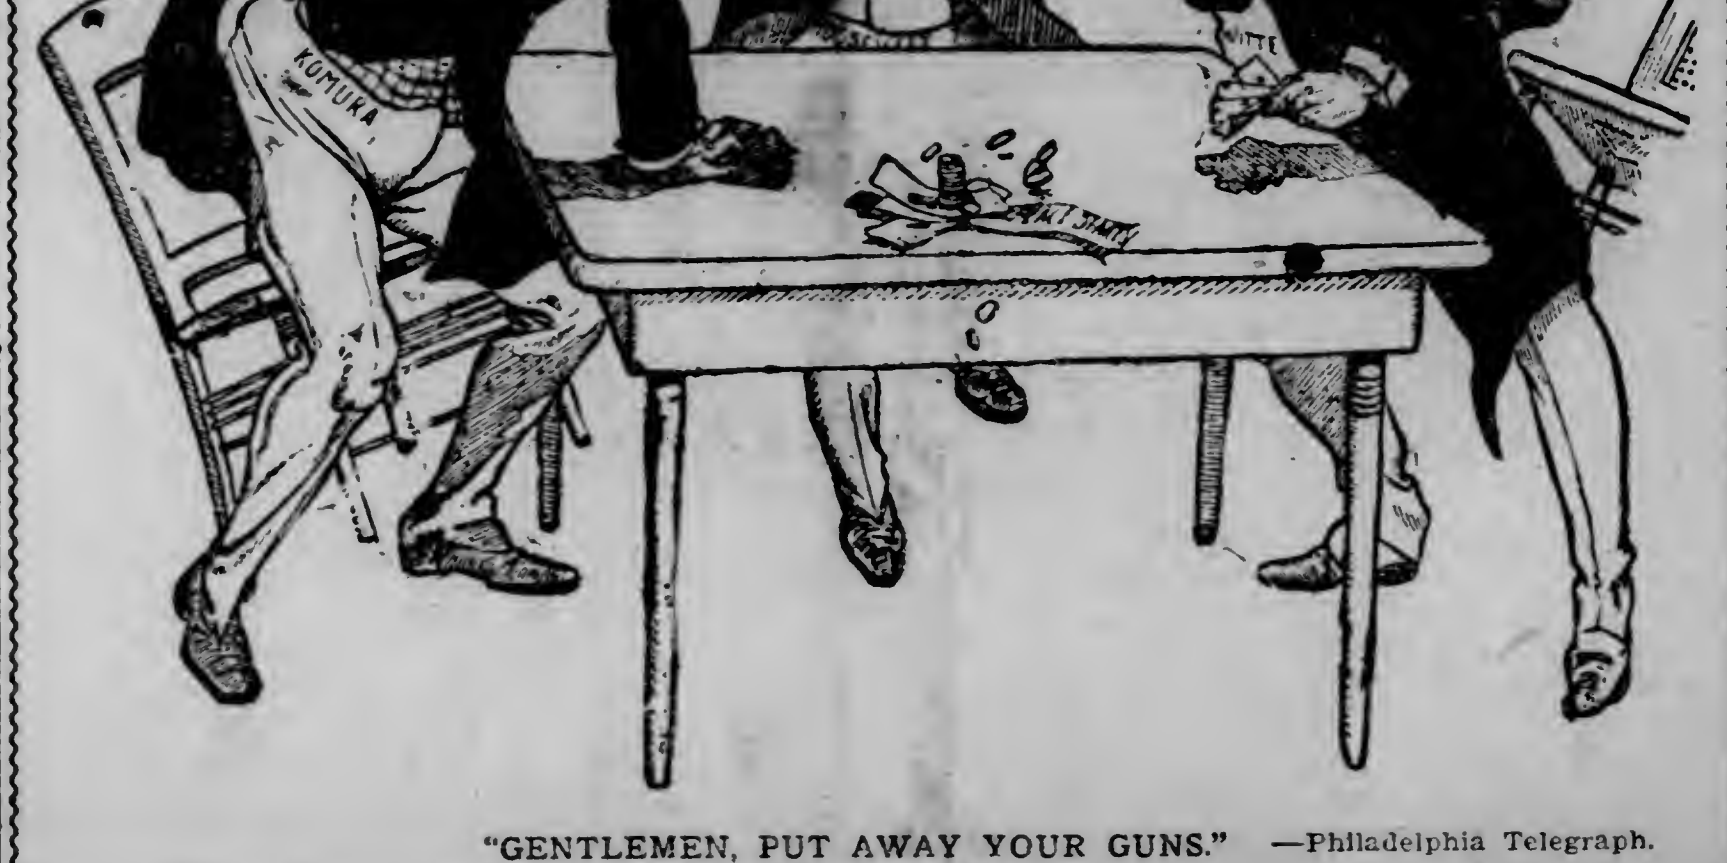

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Detectives today are searching for a man, 23 years old, whose first name is said to be "Joe" and, if found, he will be charged with kidnapping John Busch, 15 years old, who alleges the man forced him to come with him to Chicago from Buffalo. He maintains that he was seized by the man while at play with companions, hurried aboard a train, and forced to come to Chicago. "Joe" told him, he says, he would make a "temporary" trip to Buffalo, and that both of them could make money by preying on the sympathies of pedestrians in the Chicago streets. Young Busch, he said, at the Harrison street station pending investigation of his story and an answer to the messages sent to his parents in Buffalo. The boy was found by the police in a hotel here.

PORTER IS NOTIFIED. Constantinople, Aug. 28.—A collective note from the six embassies, giving notice of the appointment of commissioners to control the finances of Macedonia, was presented to the porte today.

DISCRIMINATION IN RATES IS CHARGED.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Complaint today was filed by the Interstate commerce commission by H. O. Barlow against the Northern Pacific railroad, charging that the defendant discriminated against Gwiner, N. D., in the matter of rates on wheat and potatoes destined for Superior, Wis.

It is charged the hauls from Leeds and Lakon are longer than the hauls from Gwiner and that the discriminations are due solely to the fact that the shipments are less from the latter point.

THEIR DECISION TO SETTLE THINGS

Will Mean Continuance of the War or the Making of Peace. Japanese Willing to Forego the Question of Indemnity.

Tokio, Aug. 28, 2:30 p. m.—The conference of the cabinet officers and elder statesmen adjourned at 2 o'clock this afternoon and the participants proceeded to a place where the deliberations were continued under the presidency of the emperor. It is believed that the decision will mean continuance of the war or peace. The capital continues exceedingly quiet. No manifestations have resulted from the outwardly critical situation.

Portsmouth, Aug. 28.—The Associated Press has definite knowledge that several days ago President Roosevelt was authorized on behalf of Japan to waive all claim for indemnity or reimbursement for the cost of war and to cede back to Russia the north half of Sakhalin island, leaving the "redemption" price of the same to the arbitration of a mixed commission. This statement was transmitted to the Russian emperor through the American ambassador at St. Petersburg. An Associated Press telegram announced that the czar's reply was "partially responsive." There is reason to believe that this proposition on behalf of Japan was not clearly understood at Peterhof, but was supposed to be a revival of the effort of Japan to secure an indemnity under the guise of purchase money for the fraction of Sakhalin.

RUSSIANS DESIRE Great Battle Between Lin-

St. Petersburg, Aug. 28.—The Soviet today says: The Japanese conditions for peace would only be acceptable if a Japanese fleet was threatening St. Petersburg and a Japanese army was occupying Moscow. Russia will not bow to the Japanese joke to fulfill President Roosevelt's desire to guarantee the American creditors of Japan, and to cover himself with glory as a peacemaker. Japan, needing peace, seeks for it through the intermediary of her friend, President Roosevelt, and makes exorbitant demands while the president is striving indirectly to exact the consent of Russia. After long and fruitless negotiations it would seem that we are on the eve of what Russia has long desired—a great battle between Gen. Linewitch and Field Marshal Oyama.

GOES OVER TILL TUESDAY. Envoys Will Not Meet Before That Time.

Portsmouth, Aug. 28.—At 10 o'clock last night, after a conference between Mr. Takahira and Mr. Witte, in the latter's room in the Hotel annex, the announcement of a postponement was made. Mr. Witte explained to the Associated Press that the Russian had reached him from Tokio, and fearing none might be received before the meeting scheduled for this afternoon, he had suggested the propriety of postponing the meeting until Tuesday. To this Mr. Witte said he had readily assented.

Although the public was led to believe that the meeting was definitely adjourned until Tuesday, the Associated Press learned late last night that according to the joint understanding between Mr. Witte and Mr. Takahira, it was agreed that there would be no meeting until Friday night, when the meeting would be held. The meeting, therefore, may not be held until Wednesday or Thursday.

EXPECT A SURPRISE When the Time For Final Answer Arrives.

Paris, Aug. 28.—The diplomats and officials today displayed evident anxiety at conditions at Portsmouth. Nevertheless there was an impression that an agreeable surprise awaits the world when the critical moment arrives for the plenipotentiaries to give their final answer for peace or war. Both of the belligerents are considered to be ardently desirous of peace, even at the expense of sacrifices. The signature of the amended alliance between Great Britain and Japan, three weeks ago is regarded as largely governing Japan's attitude relative to concessions. The exact texts of the new treaty are not known here, but the diplomats are aware that some of the clauses of the original treaty have been greatly modified, and that others have been extended.

JAPS CONFIDENT

Tokio, Aug. 28, 10:30 a. m.—The public here remains uninformed regarding the latest developments at Portsmouth, but seems convinced that peace is hopelless. The market reflected this sentiment. The failure of the peace negotiations would be generally regretted, but the press and all other expressions indicate widespread preference for a continuation of the war rather than the acceptance of unsatisfactory terms. Underlying this popular attitude is deep rooted confidence that Field Marshal Oyama will defeat Gen. Linewitch, and take Harbin, and that the Japanese will completely overrun the coast provinces.

FIFTEENTH ANNUAL OPENING OF DULUTH BUSINESS UNIVERSITY AND COLLEGE OF SHORTHAND.

Diary Record—Duluth Business University.
From March 1 to July 31, 1905.

POSITIONS OFFERED.	POSITIONS FILLED.
March 24	March 18
April 32	April 26
May 37	May 24
June 43	June 23
July 46	July 25
Total 182	Total 121

The above Diary Record shows that during the five months preceding August, in response to 182 calls for Duluth Business University students, 121 were recommended to clerical positions, leaving 61 positions offered for which there were no students to recommend.

Why is the demand for graduates of this school so much greater than its supply, while the graduates of other so-called business colleges cannot procure employment? The answer is simple—This is a high-grade school, one of the very best in the country. The work done here meets precisely the requirements of up-to-date office practice. The motto of the school, which is carried out to the letter, is to prepare young people for clerical positions, and when prepared, to procure for them suitable employment.

The school offers better facilities than ever before for giving a sound, practical business training. Its past record may be considered a pledge for the future.

Call at Office and Make Arrangements.

All intending to enroll at this opening are requested to call at the college office this week and make final arrangements. The office will be open for the reception of visitors and the enrollment of students from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. each week day until the opening. Location: 105-7 West Superior street, third floor.

The Cheap School a Dear School.

You will probably attend a business college but once, and your future success will depend largely on the character and quality of the school you attend. The school that can give you the best possible preparation for business is none too good, and unless a school has the facilities and equipment for so doing, it is not worthy of your consideration, no matter how low its rates may be. Those who go from the cheap, so-called business college into the business world and find themselves unable to do what is required of them, realize that they have paid dearly indeed for the so-called business training, no matter what the price may have been. In getting a business education, get the best—do not be deceived.

College Office Open From 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Each Week Day Until the Opening.

VIRGINIA SILVER CASE IS ON TRIAL

Important Contest Over Mining Valuable Lease Taken Up.

Validity of State Mining Lease Act Is Involved.

The "Virginia silver" case, which bids fair to acquire through litigation the notoriety of the famous section 39 suit, was begun for trial before Judge Dibble, in the district court in one suit for a long time. Outside the preliminary skirmishing on the part of the lawyers little was accomplished at this morning session. An adjournment was taken until 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, after the counsel had been for over two hours unsuccessfully engaged in reaching an agreement as to certain stipulations that it was proposed to make in the action. Before the adjournment, the original cause, the court granted a motion by the defendants Evans, Wilson and Baker for leave to file a supplemental answer to all the pleadings and proceedings.

This action is one that has been brought by the state of Minnesota to have annulled and cancelled the mineral lease and contract for sale entered into between the state as the seller, Mabel Evans, George Plinn, L. C. Patterson, C. S. Wilson and E. Baker as the buyers, of a piece of reputed iron ore property described as lot 1, section 54-17, and comprising 36.5 acres. The state seeks to have the lease and contract annulled on the ground that it was obtained through illegal procedure and with intent to defraud the state out of a valuable compensation, estimated in value to be about $1,000,000. It is alleged by the state that a conspiracy existed between Plinn, Patterson and Mabel Evans, whereby the two men, by using their positions as officials in the office of the state auditor and land commissioner, acquired inside information, and the lease and contract in Mabel Evans' name with the full intent to defraud the state, was entered into.

Since the action was started Pearl H. Smith of Superior, and M. E. Richardson have come in as interested parties, claiming to have made application for a lease for the purpose of exploiting the property but alleges that Plinn and Patterson snatched the lease from them and not subject to lease. Richardson has been exploiting the property for iron ore since December, 1904, and having put in a large expenditure of money and work, stands a show, if the lease is cancelled, of losing all that he has put in, hence his intervention as holder of an option to buy the property for $100,000 given by the parties mentioned as defendants in the action.

According to the records of the case and their own affidavits, Messrs. Wilson and Baker were assigned a five-eighths interest, respectively in the lease and contract, after the same had been obtained by Mabel Evans.

The state alleges that no public sale was ever had of the lease and contract for sale, and that there was, therefore, no competition, the lease and contract being sold for less than one-third their market value. According to the contract the state was to receive $100 per year and a 25-cent royalty on every ton of ore taken out. The state claims that the property is so valuable for its ore that the state should have had a royalty of at least 75 cents per ton, and that it has been defrauded out of about $1,000,000 on the deal.

In the matter of the motion for leave to file a supplemental answer, granted Mabel Evans and others, it is claimed by the defendants named that since the action has begun they have made another annual payment on the lease of $100 for rental under the mineral contract, and have the state treasurer's receipt for the same. It is contended by the parties in the defense, in making the motion for a supplemental answer, that since the mining lease law was passed in 1894 a practical construction has been placed on it, and the law has been universally accepted as valid and constitutional, a vast number of leases having been issued, and vast sums of money paid the state in rentals and royalties, as well as large amounts being expended in exploration and paying taxes. It is claimed that by reason of these payments and expenditures of work and money under the law, the state is estopped from asserting the invalidity of the Evans mineral lease and mineral contract, and that the courts of the state are prohibited from impairing the obligation of contract and similar contracts, and that to declare the contract invalid would be in violation of the constitution of the United States.

Because the question of the validity of the contract has been raised, there are a large number of other iron ore interests watching the outcome anxiously, and some were represented by counsel this morning. Those parties, while not regular intervenors in the silver case, have asked to participate in the argument because of the question raised, that attacks the validity of the mineral leases and contracts issued prior to the Evans lease.

In answer to the complaint of the state, Mabel Evans claims that she fulfilled all the requirements of law in making application for and acquiring the lease and contract. She makes affidavit that Plinn and Patterson had no interest whatever in the acquisition of the lease, and denies absolutely any idea of conspiracy to defraud the state. She sets forth that M. E. Richardson has been given an option on the property, and has been exploring it since December, 1904, but that far the only one that has been shown in is one drill hole in one corner of the property, and that is not determined whether there is there in merchantable quantities. She claims that the state has all that is coming to it for the lease and contract. The contract of Plinn and Patterson sets forth that they did not use their official positions with the state land department to speculate in state mineral leases, by means of their opportunity to get "inside information," and they deny any financial connection with the Evans lease, or any intent on their part to defraud the state.

The answer filed by Wilson and Baker sets forth how they came to acquire their interest in the lease, and denies any knowledge to form belief that the lease and contract was obtained from the state in any other than the usual and legal way.

For the state there appeared this morning Attorney General Edward Young, former Attorney General W. B. Douglas of counsel. Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell appeared for the defendants Evans, Wilson and Baker, and D. G. Cash appeared for Plinn and Patterson.

For the outside interests who are also participating in the argument, Frank B. Kellogg of the firm of Kellogg & Severance, appeared for the United States Steel corporation, Davis & Hollister for another interest, and all other attorneys for other parties. State Auditor Iverson was one of the witnesses subpoenaed to appear, presumably to give testimony as to the records, but his evidence was not called for this morning.

Among the defendants who have personally appeared at the trial are Mabel Evans and George Plinn, from out of the city, and C. S. Wilson of Duluth. The case, by reason of the many interests involved, rather than the evidence that may be introduced, is likely to take several days for trial, one of the attorneys showing a disposition to make an estimate of this time needed.

ACCUSED OF FORGERY

Traveler Brought Back From Minneapolis to Face Charge.

Charged with passing a forged check on Tilton Lewis, clerk at the St. Louis hotel, H. M. Johnson was brought back from Minneapolis this morning, and arraigned in the municipal court before Judge Cutting.

Johnson is claimed to have passed the check last Saturday, and to have gone to Minneapolis, from which city he wrote a letter to Mr. Lewis admitting that the check was worthless. The following is a copy of the letter claimed to have been written by Johnson:

"Friend Tilt: I gave you a check today for $10.25. It is no good. I am sorry. It is the first offense. I had to get away from Duluth. I have a good position in September. Please protect the check for me if you possibly can. I shall write you again inside of a week and tell you how everything is.

"Yours truly,

"H. M. JOHNSON."

The police state that Johnson lost his position several weeks ago, and that he ran up a hotel bill of $200 at the St. Louis, while waiting for other employment.

When arraigned this morning, he asked for a preliminary hearing, which was set for September 1.

RICHARDSON WINS MEDAL

For the Highest Aggregate Score in Rapid Firing.

Sergeant N. J. Aug. 23.—Competition in the national shooting tournament continued today under superb weather conditions. Gen. Hall, U. S. A. executive officer, and Capt. Rhodes, U. S. A. adjutant, were making every effort to start the national team match late this afternoon, and, if possible, have all the teams compete both the slow and rapid fire work at the 200-yard range before night. It was found that was decided to eliminate more than 500 of the competitors from the national individual match after the completion of the first skirmish run by all who are participating. The conditions call for two skirmish runs. By the radical change of plan, however, only the thirty-eight, counting all scores to include the first skirmish run, will be allowed to make the second skirmish run and complete the match.

The indications this afternoon were that Captain Richardson of Ohio had won the gold medal and $20 provided for the competitor making the highest aggregate score in rapid fire in the national individual match. His score was ninety-one out of a possible 100 in rapid fire, and was a grand total of 255 out of a possible 300 in the match to date, making him No. 2 man in the list of competitors.

The national pistol match, in which there are 106 entries, also will be started this afternoon. Then, if all goes well, the national team match will open, and each of the thirty-eight competing teams will be assigned to a target at 200-yard range.

THE WEAK-MINDED.

They Are to Be Helped in Educational Systems.

Probably one of the best qualified men in New York to speak on the subject is Dr. Luther H. Gulick, says the Brooklyn Eagle. As the head of the physical training department of the city of New York, he has carefully noted the mental as well as the physical condition of "This study of the mentally deficient child," said he the other day, "is to be one of the most important problems with which the educational authorities will have to deal in the future. It is being worked by this department to personally examine all those children who do not make the minimum mark in their school studies. This work is being carefully attended to by Dr. Brown and his colleagues. The causes of the deficiencies, the reasons of the failures on the part of school children, are being studied. One of the most important causes is improper feeding. It is not so much that this class of children are underfed as that the proper food is not given to them. And with their poor physical condition a poor mental condition naturally follows. A second cause is a defect in the senses. For instance, a child may be slightly deaf. The teacher has not noticed it and attributes the apparent inability to gain knowledge to lack of intelligence. A fourth may be caused by the use of tea or coffee. I have seen many instances where the mentality of children up to 10 years of age has been dulled by the use of these beverages, and I have known cases where the child has been saved from becoming permanently incapacitated mentally by stopping the use of these drinks. Another cause of mental deficiency among school children is caused by smoking. Many boys from the ages of 8, 10, 12 and upward are habitual smokers. There are the school children who drink. There is a small percentage of these children, but it is in evidence. I have known of children 8 years old coming to school drunk. And the causes of the part of this state-ment is that the beer or the whisky has been given to them by their parents. Now there has been considerable discussion in medical circles during many years past as to the influence of the use of alcohol is injurious to the health. But whatever a physician holds in this regard as to adults, I do not believe he will assert that alcohol is good for a child. The same, I believe, is true of smoking. There is another thing to be considered. There are from 1 to 2 per cent of the school children whose intelligence is sufficiently bad to influence their mental condition. This heredity, however, is not the cause of the deficiency, but it is one of the reasons for the existence of the mentally deficient child. Of course, there are many others due from various causes.

"That the educational authorities should take steps to instruct these children in special schools, no one who has even superficially looked into this subject will deny for a moment. If a child is in a class that is going three times, or two times, or one-half too fast for him he becomes discouraged at his inability to keep up with his comrades. A child better not go to school at all than go under those conditions. It is not fair to the deficient child and it is not fair to the other pupils in the class, as it is continually taking the time of the teacher to explain lessons to the one behind. The only logical thing to do is to place these mentally deficient children together in classes by themselves where they can receive the attention that they need. In these special classes, where there should be grades so that individual cases can be studied, a child low down in the mental grade requires special attention and training. Some years ago a boy was brought under my care. He was a dejected boy and had practically no ambition for either mental or physical activity. When first examined I tried to get him to catch a ball that I tossed to him, but the action startled him and I saw that I had to go slower. Then I began by having him walk to him. After many days of this work I got him to catch it when I was two or three feet away. Finally I got him to run after it and catch it. I then had him catch it when I was about above four or five. After reaching those figures he would ramble. But I decided a means of getting him to concentrate his mind on the subject of counting. I was in the habit of counting with me twenty times a day. He didn't like his exercise, but I told him if he would count up to the fifteenth time around I would allow him to stop at that number. He did it. I told him if he would count up to the twentieth time around I would allow him to stop at that number. He did it. BRINGS ON CHAOS

Russian Liberal Move
Means That Horrors
Will Follow.

Intelligent Class In Empire In Sympathy With Radicals.

New York, Aug. 28.—A special cable from Moscow to the World says: Waldemar Bogoras, known in New York as having once been on the staff of the Natural History museum, has published in English several works on scientific matters and contributes under the pseudonym of Tan to the more liberal press of Russia. I am told that he has produced from his St. Petersburg study not a few additions to the rich, "forbidden literature" that circulates under the guise of consignments of eggs, toys or bicycles in every part of the country.

His visiting card describes him as "member of the North Pacific expedition." He is by descent a "Little Russian," his family having been in the region, Russian is not his native tongue, but that does not prevent him from stirring his audience when he gets on the platform, as he did at the Literary club banquet, to tell with a queer accent (so they say) his experiences and observations gathered in all parts of the country and his passion-ately expressed deductions from them.

Is, of course, almost impossible to meet an authentic "revolutionist," in the current Russian sense of the word, and to know him for what he is. You cannot, even in the Russia of today, put the question point blank to the cultivated gentleman talking Russian with you over the dessert. It would be insulting, because it would often compel a lie; it would be ineffectual for the same reason.

Nor is there any use taking the other way round and hoping that you man, if he is only a moderate liberal, will be made to express disappointment over revolutionary methods. I have asked a good many liberal leaders what they think of bombs and bombists and the policy of assassination. They shrugged their shoulders; it was no affair of theirs; they have no bombs in their cupboards, but they will not condemn.

So I do not know what Waldemar Bogoras thinks of the right of revolution.

But I do not know that he is more outspoken in his deed of what the near future may bring than almost any of the constitutional party I have talked with. This, indeed, he noted, is not consistent with the adoption of revolutionary methods. Many mild-mannered and moderate constitutionalists frankly recognize that their own agitation may have a terrible answer from the people. A terrible issue in blood and honor, yet they persist.

A speaker at the zemstvo banquet who asked his hearers to prepare to give their lives for liberty, told me before the cheering had died that the general result of his talk was that the way to liberty is through revolution will not go out of hand and become universal chaos. It is a pan-Russian chaos that Bogoras thinks is coming. For one reason or another he has traveled from end to end of the country, from Siberia to the Caucasus, from Poland to Turkey.

"Everywhere I find an extraordinary change," he says. "The land is awakened. The spirit of revolt has breathed over all the peoples that are summoned to Russia. The old, blood-stained acceptance has quite gone out from the mass of the people. They question, they dissent, they rebel. This inner circle is the intelligence of the country, a few choice thinkers."

"That was drawn long ago, years ago, before the first Alexander. It is the germ. I draw you a second circle. It represents the educated, the intellectual, the aristocracy, which is not met and charmed away by the one obvious crowd, becomes the idea of the present regime, to its final appeal and strength. Army and navy disaffected in revolt—it is not the end."

"And yet see another circle; shaping, I assure you, with unheard of speed. The idea goes out to the peasant. But a little while and I can draw you that circle, too, complete."

"Then it is a constitution by the will of the czar. He depends upon St. Petersburg to save this immense land from wreck and ruin."

"And what will St. Petersburg do?" I asked. Bogoras shrugged his shoulders. He does not believe in the intelligence of St. Petersburg.

It was said quietly in the plaintive sing-song cadence and the soft voice that belongs to the Little Russian, and the amusing circles were drawn with a match among breadwinners. But the man is imprudent in life's simplicity.

At the table we felt the shudder of great events to come.

The foreigner in Russia can almost be persuaded in his heart that something grand is about to happen here. He is disquieted to find that almost every Russian that thinks at all thinks an unparalleled tragedy is on its way.

PROBABLY FAKE

Police Believe That George
Roberts Was Only Shamming.

Supposed Sick Man Gets Up and Leaves Hospital.

That the reported assault and robbery of George Roberts which was claimed to have taken place on East Michigan street, was a fake, is now the opinion of the police, who are convinced that Roberts was shamming for reasons best known to himself.

Yesterday Roberts, who was in St. Luke's hospital as a county patient, appeared to be so much recovered that the authorities decided to move him from his room to the public ward. Shortly after the change had been made, Roberts disappeared, and as his clothes were also gone it is believed that he dressed and walked out, although nobody saw him leave the hospital.

While the hospital Miss Thornton, the superintendent, wrote to an address in Milwaukee at Roberts' request. He stated that his parents lived at that address, but no answer to the letter has yet been received. In explanation, Roberts is claimed to have said that his parents were probably out at the summer home and did not receive the letter.

The police have also been making some inquiries. The number of his watch case from memory, when seen in the hospital after the alleged robbery. He also gave the address of the jeweler in Milwaukee where he said he had purchased the watch but recently. Chief Troyer wrote to the Milwaukee police and asked them to investigate. A telegram received, this morning, stated that there was no such address in Milwaukee as the one given, and that there was no jeweler of that name in the city.

These facts, together with some suspicious circumstances connected with the affair, lead the police to believe that Roberts was simply shamming, for some unknown reason. When found he was lying flat upon his back, with his coat half pulled off, and resting under his head. The place where he said the men sprang upon him is probably the last one in the city that robbers would choose to lie in wait for a victim. It was in a vacant lot in the rear of the new Bijou theater, where no one would be likely to pass at night. He stated to the police that he had been in the city several days, and had been eating at a Superior street restaurant, but he was unable to tell where he lodged.

There was no blood on his head when he was found, and his clothes were not torn. He would not allow anybody to touch his head, but would scream out every time an attempt was made to examine the alleged wound.

The police have abandoned all efforts to find his alleged assailants, since Roberts himself has disappeared, and they are convinced that his story was a fake from start to finish, although it is difficult to see any reason for playing such a game.

CAUSE OF REVOLT

In Crete Is the Farce of International Government.

Influential Natives Treated Like Schoolboys By Prince George.

Athens, Aug. 28.—The island of Crete has been in the throes of a revolution for four months, and the international troops, whose duty it is to restore order, are in a hopeless position.

Prince George, the high commissioner, has appealed to the insurgents to return from their mountain fastnesses to the barracks; he has threatened them with dire penalties falling their submission, and as a last resort is establishing martial law throughout the island. Instead of checking the revolt, those methods have accelerated its pace, and the high commissioner and the four supervising powers—Great Britain, France, Italy and Russia—are faced by a very difficult and delicate problem.

All messages to the foreign press are being rigorously censored, and the real position of affairs is by this means concealed.

The insurgents number thousands, and although for commissariat reasons the armed forces of the mountains are kept within limits, they have the sympathies, and will have the active support, if need be, of the whole population.

From the resigned members of the ministry downwards there is unanimity in the demand that the regime of Prince George shall come to an end.

The men are encouraged and led by Cretan education and social prominence. They are well-armed with rifles and have plenty of ammunition, and it would take at least twice the 9,000 foreign troops at present in Crete to drive them from the almost inaccessible heights which they have made their strongholds.

Prince George has promised reform, but the insurgents have no faith in his promises. Their only hope is to precipitate the interference of the powers by revolutionary means.

The present deadlock cannot be allowed to continue, and as there are many indications that worse is coming, the knot may have to be, after all, cut by the sword.

It will be remembered that certain members of the international consular corps at Candia, at the time of the outbreak of the present revolt, declared that the movement was only a local one. Unfortunately, they have proved sadly incorrect. The situation is one that may at any moment lead to trouble among the powers of Europe. It might be thought that the Cretans have no cause to be troublesome.

Money's worth or money back.

NOTICE.

Furs made during the rush season cannot receive the care and attention that they should and the quality of the fur used seldom comes up to the standard of the early picking.

A showing of such magnitude and excellence that will astonish even the most conservative women of fashion—A season of success is predicted for this department far in advance of anything in the past—A look through the remarkable display of furs already here speaks volumes—While the winter of 1904-5 was yet with us we were planning for this season—Early, quantity buying enables us to quote prices for guaranteed furs impossible with the small dealer. Buying and selling high-grade furs has always been one of our most important branches—not for one or two years—but for a generation. Herein lies our supremacy—there's no uncertainty about style or quality, combined with the services of an expert furrier who has spent a lifetime in this study. You are invited to inspect our splendid stock during these exhibit days and get acquainted with the authoritative fur modes. Come.

Silberstein & Bondy Company

They have been freed from the bondage of the Turk; a portion of Greece, with full legal powers, has been placed in authority over them, and the necessary "sanctions" placed at his disposal and at the disposal of the island. Europe attempted to wash her hands of the whole affair. There are consuls at Candia, whose business was to watch over the administration of Prince George, but this they have most obviously omitted to do. Prince George has ruled the island in much the same manner as his cousin, the czar, rules Russia.

It is true that the prince placed Greeks from the mainland in all the leading posts, but this the Cretans admitted at the commencement, at least to be only right. But soon Prince George withdrew Greek privilege after another. Any one daring to remonstrate was persecuted, and even imprisoned; deputations of the most influential islanders were abused by the prince as if they were school boys, and he himself superintended the elections.

The result was that the parliament became a farce, the councilors nothing but the creatures of the prince, and every man who dared to remonstrate was branded as a traitor to his country. Privileges such as even the right of the villagers to elect their own headmen, or mayors, enjoyed even under the Turkish rule, were withdrawn.

The loan made to the island by the powers was frittered away and today there are still no roads in the entire island except one of a few miles in length. Where a rocky, barren country like Montenegro has magnificent roads through most of the land, and every village possesses a telegraph station and a school, Crete enjoys none of these, and what is more, they are never completed.

Towards the end it was a common remark of the islanders that they enjoyed more liberty under the Turks than under the autocratic rule of Prince George. As all remonstrances failed, since elections were declared to be "crooked," and popular feeling muzzled, a few "traitors" gathered together and talked matters over. Venizelos, a noted lawyer, and later leader of the now obliterated opposition, was and is still the brains of the movement. A Greek patriot and nobleman, named Monas, a Balliol, Oxford man, by the way, joined him and placed funds at his disposal. Very soon an influential committee was formed.

With great secrecy their plans grew to maturity, though the discontent was widely known; and one evening several hundred men mobilized in the mountains behind Candia. It was there that the leaders busily organized their men, constructed a provisional government and drew up many proclamations.

Some very half-hearted attempts were made to dislodge them by the local authorities, which, however, only resulted in the death of a few unhappy gendarmes. The international troops were called out, and marched in an aimless manner to and fro, to the intense amusement of the "insurgents." The "traitors" were surrounded, isolated and threatened, but still they managed to live heartily, and became the masters of the situation. It is believed that there are only two solutions to the Cretan problem. One plan suggested is the removal of Prince George by the powers. The other is annexation to Greece.

The winter may scatter the revolutionists in all directions, but they are still operating in the mountains, but even this, it is feared, would afford a mere temporary relief, since the armed bands might begin their depredations at the beginning of another spring, and the last state of the island of Crete might be worse than the first.

EXCURSION TO TWO HARBORS

On Steamer America Tomorrow Offers Enjoyable Outing.

In spite of the threatening clouds, the Newberry was comfortably filled this morning on the occasion of the last of The Herald's popular weekly excursions to Fond du Lac. A report from there stated that the weather was ideal, and the large crowd of picnickers were enjoying themselves thoroughly.

Tomorrow the steamer America will leave Booth's dock promptly at 4 p. m. for another delightful lake trip to Two Harbors, returning by moonlight at 9 p. m. These Tuesday excursions have proven thoroughly enjoyable to the large crowds that each week take advantage of them. The hour of leaving and returning being timely and desirable. A full hour is afforded to walk around and have some refreshment.

Two Harbors, though most of the excursionists will take their own lunch baskets. The ride home takes place during the most pleasant hours of the day. The fare for the round trip is only 25 cents. Many parties have been already formed for tomorrow's trip. Tickets may be had at The Herald business office, or at the dock.

MARQUETTE DRUGGIST

KILLED BY FOUL BALL.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 28.—W. F. Franks, a druggist at Sidnaw, was hit by a foul ball at a ball game, yesterday. His skull was fractured and death followed in a few hours.

FIENDISH SUFFERING is often caused by sores, ulcers and cancers, that eat away your skin. Wm. Beall, of Flat Rock, Mich., says: "I have used Bucklen's Acheric Salve, for Ulcers, Sores and Cancers. It is the best healing dressing I ever found." Soothe and heal your sores and ulcers. 25c at all druggists, guaranteed.

TO BE ENTERTAINED BY COMMISSIONER LEGARDO.

Manila, Aug. 28.—Secretary Taft, Miss Roosevelt and Miss Mabel Boardman, during the rest of their stay here, will be the guests of Commissioner Legardo, who will entertain them according to the old, native custom. On Tuesday Mr. Legardo will give a farewell reception to the party and the same night Congressman Bourke Cockran will lecture at the dispensary of St. Paul's hospital on the subject of "The Sole, Un-

UNKNOWN NEW YORK.

There are many streets of New York which are seldom heard of and which are seldom if ever mentioned in print, says the Sun. One of these is Essex Market place. This is one block long, running from Ludlow to Essex street, a short distance north of Grand street. The block bounded by the four streets named is entirely occupied by a public school, which takes one whole side of Essex Market place. On the opposite side, at the corner of Essex street, is the Essex Market court, while at the Ludlow street end is the Ludlow street jail. Between these two is a narrow space where stands a single house, the only one in the street, which bears the number 18.

The house was originally built to be occupied by the keeper of the jail, but it no longer serves this purpose.

ACCOUNTING DEPARTMENT

Of the Northern Pacific Railroad to Be Reorganized.

St. Paul, Aug. 23.—(Special to The Herald.)—A reorganization of the Northern Pacific accounting department, to take effect Sept. 1, is directed in a circular issued today by Comptroller H. A. Gray.

William Richards, now assistant auditor of freight receipts, becomes auditor of freight receipts, in succession to the late Col. E. H. C. Taylor, and the office of assistant auditor of freight receipts is abolished. W. G.
Johnson, now auditor of disbursements, will be promoted to be assistant comptroller.

U. J. Mayer, at present chief clerk in the office of the auditor of disbursements, will succeed to the latter office.
Three of the department chiefs will remain at their present posts. George Sheriff will continue to be auditor of passenger receipts; E. O. Parks will be auditor of supplies and mechanical accounts; W. S. Taylor will still be auditor of agencies.

ON EASTERN MESABA.

Lease of Holdings in $9-14 Is Made.

The Duluth-Mesaba Iron company has leased its holdings in $9-14 to W. A.
Barrows, who is leasing the holdings from Company, and Thomas A. Merritt of Duluth. The company's holdings comprise eighteen tracts, in fees and leases, in sections 1, 11 and 12, several miles east of Mesaba Station on the D.
& G. R., and on the easterly side of the old Malman property.

It is reported that the Mesaba Iron company has fifteen pits in high grade hematite ore and that indications favor the location of a large body of excellent ore.

The Oliver Mining company is drilling in the SW⁴ of the NW⁴ of section 1, in the same township, $9-14.

MAKES COMPLAINT.

Farmer Says He Was Put Off
Superior Street.

Anton Dombrowski, a farmer living on the Hermantown road, complained to the Herald that he had been put off Superior street with a load of hay which he was bringing to town, by one of the police officers. He states that he was to take his load to the lower avenue, and that Michigan street was so badly blocked with teams that it took him nearly half an hour to get through.

There is no ordinance in the city which allows the police to regulate traffic in this manner, but they endeavor to keep such loads as those which would tend to block traffic in the busy part of the city, either on First street or Michigan street. First street has now an excellent pavement, and farmers bringing in loads of hay or produce can make better time along First street than through the crowded parts of Superior street.

HAS WILL FIGHT CASE.
New York, Aug. 28.—Counsel for Moses Hans, who has been indicted in connection with the alleged cotton bank frauds, announced in court today that his client would fight the case at every step and that, if necessary, he would appeal to the supreme court of the United States.
The case today was postponed until

GOVERNMENT YACHT WITH CANADIANS

SPEEDY OF TORONTO, BELONGING TO CANADA, BRINGS PARTY TO DULUTH.

Accompanied by a large party, on board the Canadian government steam yacht Speedy, Hon. C. S. Hyman of Toronto, minister of public works for the Domi-on of Canada, arrived in Duluth yesterday and left this morning by rail for a trip to the ranges. In the party, beside Minister Hyman, are his private secretary, J. B. Hunter of Ottawa; Frank W.
Morse of Montreal, third vice president of the Grand Trunk-Pacific road, which is to be the second Canadian trans-continental line; Duncan Colton of Toronto, general manager of the Bank of Toronto, and his son, Frank Colton; D. D. Main of Toronto, vice president of the Canadian Northern road; and E. J. Chamberlain of Montreal, general manager of the Canada Atlantic railroad.

The party was entertained at luncheon at the North Land country club by A. B.
Volwin, after which, in his steam yacht, they were given a trip about the harbor.
They were entertained by Mr. Volwin, in the yacht, a month or more ago.

The party came up in the government steam yacht Speedy from Toronto, making the trip with stops at Detroit, St.
Paul and other points in seventeen days.
The Speedy is out of the port and has most complete equipment of yachts that have ever been seen in this harbor. She is 125 feet long, 22 feet wide, and has a draught of 12 feet and a depth of twelve feet.
Her net tonnage is 33 and her gross 113.7.

She was built at Lethbridge, Scotland, on the Clyde, for Baron Barrington who afterwards sold her to Congressman Hyman of Louisiana. The congressman got cleaned out in a deal in Wall street and sold the yacht to the Canadian government. The Speedy has two triple expansion engines and is fitted with two Scotch boilers which were put in this year, she having had two water-tube boilers previous to that. Her average speed is about eleven miles an hour, but when pushed she can go better than 14.

The yacht is constructed entirely of steel and there is no lost space in her make-up. Below decks, besides her engines, coal bunkers, etc., she has staterooms for guests, and forward of the collision bulkheads are the crew's quarters.
On her first deck forward are handsome quarters for traveling officials, together with lounging rooms and an office. At the stern of the yacht is a large dining room and a large open deck for loungeing or for promenade. The Speedy is fitted with yards and a naphtha launch built of cedar. Her bow is worked throughout in cabin, staterooms and pilot house is of mahogany. The boat is exquisite and would make an ideal private yacht. She is used as a dispatch boat by the Canadian government.

Waukesha Expert Says That Delays Are Not Serious.

Has Plans For Improvements to the Car Machinery.

"If the people of Duluth will be patient, I am confident that we will get the aerial bridge into shape so that it will be running regularly without these annoying delays for alterations," said
H. L. Horning, the mechanical engineer of the Waukesha company, who arrived in the city yesterday to investigate the latest mishap to the bridge.

"It is always this way with new machinery. Even a little place of approximately a hundred dollars will often cause weeks and months of delay, when it is a new experiment. It took the city three months to get the tar macadam mixing plant in good running order, and that was not the first one of the kind that had been built."

"It is the same way with the bridge.
We expected when it was built, that there would be more or less trouble in getting it to run smoothly, and there will be, but the bridge is all right, and we will prove it to the people before we are through with it."

"I have plans with me for some alterations to be made in the machinery, which I am going to lay before the city. The new plans allow the workmen to get at the interior of the truck without delay, and any substitution of parts that may be necessary can then be made without delay, and even while the bridge is kept running."

"Duplicate parts of the machinery will be kept, and they can be slipped in promptly without even the necessity of stopping the car."

"If these plans are adopted, there is no reason why the bridge should not be kept running continuously."

"Two new tracks of superior construction will be here tomorrow, and they will be put in at once. They contain more metal than the old trucks, and they should have much better lasting qualities."

Sues For Damages.
Alleging that the motorboat was running his car fast and recklessly and was responsible for an accident in which his log was broken, Oscar Johnson has brought suit against the Duluth Street Railway company for damages in the amount of $4,200. Johnson claims that while he was driving at Michigan street and Third street avenue west with a loaded dray the rig was struck by

SAVED BY QUEER ACCIDENT

Indians Pursued Government Wagons and Were Blown Up By Powder Discharged By Spark From Wheels.

A number of years ago, when the Staked Plains was a much wilder country than it is now, the government maintained numerous military camps there. In fact, at the present time, the only place where the government maintains a permanent presence is at Fort Huachuca, where the Los Angeles Times. From the settled country about Fort Huachuca, which is located near the eastern edge of the plains, there was a string of these camps westward, including Camp Charlotte, Crispien's Spring, Fort Stockton and Fort Davis.
The principal duty of the soldiers stationed at these places was to see that no marauding bands of Apaches crossed from the reservations in the North to Mexico, as they were and doing, or molested the few settlers who had the temerity to live in so insecure a country.

The Indians rarely did greater harm than to drive the widely scattered ranchmen, though they were apt to kill what they could not drive away, but if a band of them encountered a government wagon, or even two or three of them together, the whites seldom saw their horns again.

As there was no railroad in this part of Texas, the government camps had to be supplied by wagon, and in the summer of 1877 a train of wagons was carrying supplies to the Indian Spring. There were half a dozen heavy wagons, to each of which were attached four or five mules.
The train was in charge of a lieutenant, and a sergeant, and a number of privates.
The wagons were loaded with food, clothing and everything needed by men who were cut off from communication with their kindred in the east.

With the other things, one wagon, the second from the rear end, was loaded with supplies of arms and ammunition.

The baseball carnival of four games played by the Duluth and Crookston teams Saturday and Sunday, resulted in an even break each team winning and losing on each day.

It was a case of too much Maloney for the Champs on Saturday. The Irish cast-off from the Winnipeg team held the heavy-hitting Champs down to two hits in the first game. One of these was secured by Bennett and the other by McAlbese, and the Sox never came any place near the plate. It was a decided case of whitewash as has been administered this season.

Meanwhile the Crooks were having a merry time at Pott's expense. They collected safe singles and bases on balls in bunches, and when the game was over they had fattened up their averages with fifteen safe ones, good for seventeen bases.

Powell gave a pretty good imitation of low ball should be pitched, for three innings, but the slugging commenced in the fourth, when five of the tail-enders cleared themselves across the plate in rapid succession.

The second game, which lasted only seven innings, was played in a downpour of rain, which kept the players drenched, the ball shiny and the field slippery.

Maloney seemed to twist in this contest also, but he showed signs of weariness, and did not work as hard as in the first game. Erickson pitched shut-out ball for Duluth, and if it had not been for Eddie Neir's error in the first, would have repeated the dose Maloney gave the Champs in the first game.

Baker walked in the first inning for Crookston, Wing hit, and Olsen scored. Neir struck out, and Ludwig sent a fly to left. Neir was wrapped in slumber, and twice just in time to see the ball falling into his mitt. He let it bounce off again, and two men scored.

After Newman and Bennett were down in Duluth's half of the inning, Maloney reached first on Wing's error and O'Brien promptly slammed the ball over the left field fence for a homer.

Nothing but bluffs were then regaled in the winning run in the fifth inning. Three singles in rapid succession were responsible for this last score of the game. The score:

Two-ban hits—Ludwig. First base on balls—O'Brien. Struck out—By Erickson, 6; by Maloney, 5. Left on bases—Duluth, 6; Crookston, 5. Double play—Johnson to Roy, Sacristi to Olson. Stolen bases—Newman, Meneloe.

Sunday's games were of the kind that are played at the brewers' picnic, and the scores looked like the results of a three days' cricket match.

It was a "hot" picnic, however, and once more the leaders and the tail-enders broke even.

In the first game, Miller was well high in the air, and he held the visitors to six hits. McAlbese and Neighbors were both missing from the line-up, the two star players of the Duluth team, having gone to Minneapolis where they joined the Toledo team and played in yesterday's game. Harry Potter climbed into the dugout and played in yesterday's game. He was an easy mark for the Champs. He worried along without serious mishap until the eighth, when O'Brien's men turned the game into a farce by clouting out eight runs when they weren't needed. Many of them came on errors by the Crookston fielders, who were left in a lurch by the muddy field which was still wet from Saturday's rain.

In the second game, Potts, the Duluth cast-off, finally succeeded in shedding the hoodoo which has been chasing him all over the league. He hit for a double, and the team behind him not only gave him good support, but clinched the game for him in the first inning.

Potts' performance was the supreme satisfaction of striking out Captain Baker, who took him away from home with the pennant winners.

These bargain counter bills are hard on a team with three pitchers, and the Champs had to send in "Scamper" Irwin to throw the second game yesterday.

Scamper didn't last long. The first two men were hit by pitched balls, and the third was out. The game was over.

With four runs in and only out, Eddie Neir was brought in from left field to throw six Crookston hits. The first was a single, the second a double, the third a triple, the fourth a home run, and the fifth a double. The sixth was a single, and the seventh a double. LOSES HIS BRIDE

Threat of Violence Led to Marriage of First Cousins.

So Says Bride and Their Separation Quickly Followed.

Fitchburg, Mass., Aug. 28.—Warps and wools in the mills where he has worked never in their craziest mood produced such a vexing and bewildering entanglement as that in which William Knepner of Lewiston, Me., entangled himself when he eloped to Lewiston and married his first cousin, Miss Fannie Winterstein, daughter of John Winterstein, a loomster in mill C of the Parkhill Manufacturing company.

Knepner's was a love as quick in action as the flight of a shuttle. He met Miss Fannie, who is not yet 18, in Lewiston, where he was employed, three weeks ago, and from the first moment of seeing her Cupid began to send metaphors on his tongue, and his words were as sweet in her ears as the odor of patchouli.

He said it in the fall at South Fitchburg, where an angry papa had just died, that he loved Fannie with all his heart and soul, and that when he proposed marriage to her, she was ready to go away with him to the end of the earth. When she told him that she was ready to go away with him to the end of the earth, he said that she was ready to go away with him to the end of the earth.

Knepner is held for a hearing on the charge of swearing falsely regarding the girl's age. She is now only three months this side of 18, but the story goes that Knepner gave her age as nearly 19, when he made application to City Clerk W. A. Davis for a license to marry.

His marriage to her, he has been told by Attorney Thomas L. Wash, who is prosecuting the case, is now only three months this side of 18, but the story goes that Knepner gave her age as nearly 19, when he made application to City Clerk W. A. Davis for a license to marry.

The separation of the pair took place within three hours after the marriage was witnessed by a representative of the city of Lewiston. The girl, who is now only three months this side of 18, but the story goes that Knepner gave her age as nearly 19, when he made application to City Clerk W. A. Davis for a license to marry.

WILL GO ON STAGE

Former Mrs. Roland B. Molinoux to Make Her Debut.

Now the Wife of Prominent Sioux Falls Attorney.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 28.—The former Mrs. Roland B. Molinoux has completed preparations for returning permanently to New York, where she will take advantage of one of the alluring offers that have been made her to appear upon the stage.

She is now the wife of Wallace D. Scott, a prominent Sioux Falls attorney. Mrs. Molinoux-Scott has resided in Sioux Falls for a period of nearly three years. Mr. and Mrs. Scott with their two children, a son and a daughter, are now in the city for the purpose of making their permanent home in Gotham, where Mr. Scott will engage in the practice of law.

Their removal to New York is in accordance with plans formulated some time ago, but the birth of the little son and the disposal of the extensive law practice of Mr. Scott delayed their change of residence until the present time.

Interest was aroused about two years ago when Mrs. Scott secured her divorce and remarried, by the announcement that she had decided to go upon the stage. All preparations for her appearance had been made, but at the last moment Mrs. Scott, who had gone to New York for the purpose of stated, decided to return to her home in this city.

Mr. Scott wrote her to the effect that it would be impossible for him to leave his business and political connections in Sioux Falls for some time, and this was the cause of her sudden decision not to accept of the offer.

The engagement was immediately canceled by Mrs. Scott, and she left for her home in Sioux Falls, leaving behind a disappointed manager and a disappointed public. The keen regret caused by her withdrawal from the stage at the last moment is well remembered.

Tempting offers have been renewed to Mrs. Scott at various times, and in fact she has become a resident of New York city and will appear before the New York public this season. The severance of her connection with her husband, but not until after her arrival in the East will she reveal her plans.

The removal to New York and acceptance of a stage engagement, needless to say, is not due to necessity. Mrs. Scott is a woman of means, and her husband is a successful business man. The removal to New York is due to her own desire to appear upon the stage.

For two years he served as state's attorney of Minnesota county, of which Sioux Falls is the county seat, and during that time he was pointed to with pride by his political and personal friends, and the people of the county in general.

The arrival of Mrs. Molinoux in South Dakota on that November day, nearly three years ago, was a surprise to the community, and aroused the deepest interest throughout the entire country.

Local correspondents of the Eastern newspapers, when the news of Mrs. Molinoux's arrival in Sioux Falls was discovered and announced, were deluged with telegrams for extended stories about her.

No other person who ever became a member of the local divorce colony, not even excepting the host of women of the divorce colony, who from time to time applied to the South Dakota divorce courts for the severance of their matrimonial bonds, attracted near the attention accorded her.

But those urgent instructions could not be complied with, for Mrs. Molinoux, acting under the direction of her attorneys, who had engaged soon after her arrival in Sioux Falls, denied herself to the newspaper men, and those who were in a position to give information concerning her and her plans had the ban of silence placed upon their lips.

This was not because Mrs. Molinoux had anything to conceal, for she did not have, but because she dreaded the sudden and unexpected notoriety which her arrival in the divorce Mecca had given her.

Finally some of the Eastern newspapers, doubting believing there was some chance of securing the desired interview sent special writers all the way from Chicago and New York for the express purpose of procuring some sort of a statement from her.

This was the first time in the history of Sioux Falls that the big papers of the country had accorded the honor of a special interview to a woman. With the arrival of the special writers, the real troubles of Mrs. Molinoux began. She sought the seclusion of the apartment house, and no representative of the newspapers was permitted to appear at her door.

sum for an article written by her. The article was to be any length to suit Mrs. Molinoux and was to be upon any subject she might select, the only condition being that it should bear her signature.

A local photographer was offered $50 for a single snapshot picture of her. These handsome and liberal offers were rejected by her, not because she did not fully appreciate their generosity, but because she dreaded notoriety and wished to be left alone in her seclusion.

During the period that a state of siege existed she was virtually a prisoner. At all times her meals were served in her apartment. She was absolutely isolated from the outside world. Those familiar with the details of the siege have since said that few persons could have "stood" the severe physical and mental strain without becoming hopelessly insane or suffering a complete nervous breakdown.

Finally, satisfying themselves that it was an utter impossibility to secure the desired interview, or even see Mrs. Molinoux at a distance, the special writers became discouraged and one by one departed from the city.

Then Mrs. Molinoux emerged from her seclusion, and in her quiet way made to acquaintances with the outside world. Those familiar with the details of the siege have since said that few persons could have "stood" the severe physical and mental strain without becoming hopelessly insane or suffering a complete nervous breakdown.

When the period of six months residence in the city had terminated, and she had under the law become a legal resident of South Dakota, efforts were made to ascertain where she would institute her divorce action.

It was generally believed the suit would be commenced in some county in Iowa, and Mrs. Scott's steps were taken by her attorneys to suppress and keep from the newspapers all information concerning her divorce proceedings. The place where it had been instituted.

These efforts were so successful that even after it was admitted by her counsel that she had granted a divorce, not the slightest information could be secured as to the place where the decree was granted. Newspaper correspondents offered as much as $100 for copies of the complaint in her divorce proceedings, but to this day, notwithstanding that a persistent search was made, no newspaper man has ever been able to see the papers in her case, or ascertain what county the proceedings were brought.

The physical were successfully suppressed and their contents, doubtless never will be made public.

Immediately after the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Scott, at once moved into the fine residence which Mr. Scott had built in accordance with plans approved by this prospective bride.

No recuse could live in greater retirement than did Mrs. Scott while a resident of Sioux Falls. A few of her friends, however, were permitted to visit her, but she never returned any of the calls.

Her little son, who was born on February 8 of the present year, is a robust and bright little youngster. He has been named Wallace Dutton Scott, Jr., after his father and grandfather.

Mrs. Scott is a woman of means, and her husband is a successful business man. The removal to New York is due to her own desire to appear upon the stage.

The article was written after the author had made a special study of Mrs. Scott.

The accompanying photograph of Mrs. Scott is the first bona fide picture of her ever given to the public, and through her kindness, was posed especially for this article.

ELOPERS FORGIVEN.

Are Welcomed Back Into the Family Fold.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 28.—(Special to The Herald.)—As a sequel to a happy romance, in which Miss Kittie Torikelson of Neillville, a niece of Congressman Stearnson, and George Anderson, a local young man, were married, the young people, who eloped from their homes last December, returned to their parents' home to receive the forgiveness of their parents and to be welcomed back into the family fold.

Congressman Stearnson, while attending a short time in Portland, Me., accidentally encountered the young people, who eloped from their homes last December, and were married a short time later in Seattle, and through his efforts a reconciliation of the young people and their parents was effected and all ended "lovely."

LITTLE DOING AT THE FRONT

Outside of Few Skirmishes

Great Armies Are

Quiet.

Gunsh Pass, Manchuria, Aug. 28.—Intelligence of the constitutional grants to the army, and general information relating to Portsmouth affairs continues to reach here from three to ten days late. Since the Japanese reconnoitered the Russian center about twenty-five or thirty miles on Aug. 10, which resulted in a tactical skirmishing as well as the checking of a wide movement of considerable bodies of troops throughout three days, nothing important has occurred.

During the long quiet there have been reinforcements to both sides, giving the front a much changed appearance. The front has been greatly extended, made possible by the use of the wireless telegraph, and because of the unexampled size of the armies, the character of the third stage of the war, whether it be active hostilities, demobilization or the garbioning of contested territory, will be complicated.

The relative positions of the two armies is comparable to that of a year ago, and the country immediately facing the Japanese is almost identical with which confronted them at Liao-yang. The acquisition of the railway and rivers by the Japanese at Mukden, together with the Fengwangcheng communications and Gen. Kawamura's new line of communication to Kailu, which the occupation of the Changpashan mountain region, makes control of the administration of Manchuria as complete as that achieved in the north by similar organization, and in the rapid consolidation of these connections the destiny of Manchuria is clearly fixed regardless of other influences.

There is a general appreciation throughout of the demonstrations in the United States for M. Witte.

FORMER PASTOR IS ARRESTED IN CHURCH.

Milford, Conn., Aug. 28.—Rev. R. W. Field, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church, was arrested during a service in that church, yesterday, charged with making a disturbance. He was later arraigned and gave bonds for his appearance in court Tuesday.

Mr. Field, it is alleged, was asked to resign the pastorate of the church several weeks ago, but for some time he had insisted on filling the pulpit. Yesterday as Rev. W. A. Herrod of Hartford was about to preach, Mr. Field attempted to force his way into the pulpit. He was requested by the deacons to take a seat in the congregation and upon his refusal to do so, he was ejected.

When the tragedy occurred nearly 200 people were in the church on their way out, and at the report of the revolver many women fainted. The body is now at the county morgue, and an investigation is being made before the authorities at Sublette will be notified.

MOUNTAIN MAY BE PURCHASED

By the City of Glasgow, Scotland, as Public Park.

Glasgow, Aug. 28.—At a meeting of the Glasgow corporation, the lord provost read a letter which he had received from Cameron Cornett, M. P., suggesting the purchase of a mountain for Glasgow as a sort of public park. The letter follows:

"I have just agreed to purchase a part of Ardkinglass estate, with the object of handing over the three best farms lying between Lochlong and Lochgoyl to the corporation of Glasgow. The extent of the land is about 200 acres."

He said that he hoped by that time he would be able to go before George F. Bear, president of the Philadelphia Reading company, and pointing to 150,000 men and boys who are employed in and about the mines, say: "We have fixed the price for our labor. You can take it or leave it."

OLD SORES

ROOTED IN THE BLOOD

Old Sores are the result of a deeply polluted, foul blood supply. The blood is filled with poisons, and as it finds an outlet through the ulcer, the surrounding parts become diseased and the poisons deeper into the tissues and flesh and become a permanent trouble.

Some years ago while at work, I fell over a truck and severely injured both arms. My blood became poisoned and the doctor told me that I would have running sores for life, and that if they were cured up the result would be fatal. Under this discouraging report I left off their treatment and sought to the use of S. S. S. Its effects were prompt and gratifying. It took only a short while for the sores to break out again, and some twelve years have elapsed since what I have described occurred. Having been so signally benefited by its use I can heartily recommend it as the one great blood purifier.

Salves, powders, plasters, etc., do no good, and the sufferer gets disgusted and often despairs of curing an old sore. The trouble is in the blood and until the poisonous matter that is keeping up the ulcer is driven out the place cannot heal. S. S. S. reaches these old sores through the blood by removing every particle of poison or impurity from the circulation and building up the system. It makes the blood healthy so that as it circulates to the diseased parts the diseases are strengthened and the sufferer is cured naturally and permanently. If you have an old sore or ulcer do not waste time with salves, powders, plasters, etc., but write for our book and ask for any medical advice you wish. We make no charge for either.

LITTLE DOING

Great Armies Are

Quiet.

Gunsh Pass, Manchuria, Aug. 28.—Intelligence of the constitutional grants to the army, and general information relating to Portsmouth affairs continues to reach here from three to ten days late. Since the Japanese reconnoitered the Russian center about twenty-five or thirty miles on Aug. 10, which resulted in a tactical skirmishing as well as the checking of a wide movement of considerable bodies of troops throughout three days, nothing important has occurred.

During the long quiet there have been reinforcements to both sides, giving the front a much changed appearance. The front has been greatly extended, made possible by the use of the wireless telegraph, and because of the unexampled size of the armies, the character of the third stage of the war, whether it be active hostilities, demobilization or the garbioning of contested territory, will be complicated.

The relative positions of the two armies is comparable to that of a year ago, and the country immediately facing the Japanese is almost identical with which confronted them at Liao-yang. The acquisition of the railway and rivers by the Japanese at Mukden, together with the Fengwangcheng communications and Gen. Kawamura's new line of communication to Kailu, which the occupation of the Changpashan mountain region, makes control of the administration of Manchuria as complete as that achieved in the north by similar organization, and in the rapid consolidation of these connections the destiny of Manchuria is clearly fixed regardless of other influences.

There is a general appreciation throughout of the demonstrations in the United States for M. Witte.

FORMER PASTOR IS ARRESTED IN CHURCH.

Milford, Conn., Aug. 28.—Rev. R. W. Field, formerly pastor of the First Baptist church, was arrested during a service in that church, yesterday, charged with making a disturbance. He was later arraigned and gave bonds for his appearance in court Tuesday.

Mr. Field, it is alleged, was asked to resign the pastorate of the church several weeks ago, but for some time he had insisted on filling the pulpit. Yesterday as Rev. W. A. Herrod of Hartford was about to preach, Mr. Field attempted to force his way into the pulpit. He was requested by the deacons to take a seat in the congregation and upon his refusal to do so, he was ejected.

Glasgow, Aug. 28.—At a meeting of the Glasgow corporation, the lord provost read a letter which he had received from Cameron Cornett, M. P., suggesting the purchase of a mountain for Glasgow as a sort of public park. The letter follows:

"I have just agreed to purchase a part of Ardkinglass estate, with the object of handing over the three best farms lying between Lochlong and Lochgoyl to the corporation of Glasgow. The extent of the land is about 200 acres."

He said that he hoped by that time he would be able to go before George F. Bear, president of the Philadelphia Reading company, and pointing to 150,000 men and boys who are employed in and about the mines, say: "We have fixed the price for our labor. You can take it or leave it."

AGREE ON PEACE

JAPANESE MAKE GREAT SACRIFICES FOR THE PURPOSE OF BRINGING ABOUT AN AGREEMENT

OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF ENVOYS.

Portsmouth, Aug. 29.—At the session of Aug. 29 the conference arrived at complete accord on all the questions, and it has been decided to proceed to the elaboration of a treaty.

A scene of great excitement followed the receipt of the news in the lobby of hotel Wentworth. The official bulletin was telephoned from the conference room at the navy yard by Mr. Sato and like an electric thrill flooded through the room. There were screams of joy. Men threw their hats aloft, women actually wept. Then there was a rush for the telegraph offices and in an instant the news was speeding to the remotest corners of the earth.

The Japanese practically yielded everything. They accepted the Russian ultimatum, no indemnity and a division of Sakhalin without payment of redemption money. The Japanese also yielded interned warships and limitation of naval power. The delegates will be called in at the afternoon session and the actual work of the formation of the treaty will begin.

AMERICAN IDEAS TOO FAR ADVANCED FOR THE EUROPEANS

Bartholdt's Proposition Is Referred to Committee at Brussels. American Boldness Must Be Combined With European Caution.

Brussels, Aug. 29.—The interparliamentary congress today resumed the discussion of the American proposition for the establishment of a permanent interparliamentary council. Count Albert Apponyi, representing Austria-Hungary, spoke in support of the principle of the American plan, but pointed out that the magnitude of the scheme required mature consideration. "No interparliamentary council," he said, "has any chance of acceptance by European nations if it interferes with the principle of their sovereignty."

"The American idea of an interparliamentary council is a grand and noble movement characteristic of American initiative, but American boldness must be combined with European caution."

Europe hails American participation in the world's work as it gives accession to the marvelous material strength and energy of the United States, but we ask the Americans to consider the present state of Europe and the possibility of contingencies and to deter the project until a committee of international specialists can maturely study it."

Count Apponyi closed his remarks by moving the reference of the proposition to a committee with instructions to report in three months. Messrs. Moon of Pennsylvania and Waldo and Goldstein of New York strongly supported the American project.

Philip Stanhope, M. P., in behalf of the members of the British House of Commons approved the reference of the proposition to a committee, saying that Europe was not sufficiently advanced to accept the American plan without careful consideration. The French deputies also seconded the motion to refer the proposition to a committee. Congressman Bartholdt received an ovation when he accepted the reference of the proposition to a committee, saying that the Americans desired the fullest investigation into the merits of the proposition. Thereupon the proposition was referred to a committee of specialists from the parliaments of the various nations.

Congressman Littlefield of Maine, Burke of South Dakota and other congressmen spent the day on the battlefield of Waterloo.

MEMPHIS IS ANGRY AT SURGEON'S REPORT OF FEVER IN CITY

They Threaten to Make Charges Against Surgeon White. Situation at New Orleans Shows Great Improvement.

New Orleans, Aug. 29.—Considerable interest was manifested here today in dispatches from Memphis announcing that charges would be preferred against Surgeon General Wyman that that city was infected, based on the case of Mrs. Guericke, who developed yellow fever shortly after her arrival here. When shown the dispatch Dr. White said he did not care how many charges were filed and that he intended to report facts whenever he discovered them.

The authorities continue to have a great deal of trouble with the Italians in the parishes just above New Orleans. Extraordinary efforts are made to conceal cases, and report is made of the throwing of the body of a yellow fever victim into a well near Kenner, to prevent discovery of the case.

The local situation steadily grows better. In spite of the cool weather, there has been no increase in the death rate, the small number of fatalities in twenty-four hours having an exceptional effect. On the same date in 1888 there were 57 deaths.

Sister Mary Engelberta, the young religious who fell a victim to the fever in the convent of Perpetual Adoration only entered the place two weeks ago. She was a native of Bavaria and had been in this country three years, making her novitiate. She leaves a sister in the same order and other relatives in Europe.

On the leading New York insurance companies recently asked its local representatives to give the nationality of those who have succumbed to the fever here. The report has been completed and a copy given to Dr. White. It shows the following deaths: Italians, 168; French, 38; German, 25; Russian, 4; Greek, 1; American, 25; negroes, 3. Total 259.

Portsmouth, Aug. 29.—Peace between Russia and Japan was practically concluded at this morning's session of the peace conference. In the final struggle the Russians achieved the victory. For the sake of peace, the Japanese, with a magnanimity worthy of their heroic achievements in this war, met the ultimatum of the czar and abandoned their demands, not only for reimbursement for the cost of the war, but for the repurchase of the northern half of Sakhalin, Russia, at the same time, agreeing to a division of the island. The Japanese also withdrew Articles 10 and 11 of the peace conditions originally proposed (demand for the surrender of the interned warships and limitation of Russian naval power in the Far East). The delegates of the respective missions will be called in at the afternoon session and the actual work of formulating the treaty of peace will begin.

The news that peace had been agreed on caused the most intense excitement at the hotel where the envoys have been staying. Everywhere there was a delirium of jubilation.

An armistice probably will be arranged this afternoon. Mr. Witte, accompanied by Baron De Rosen, came to the hotel for luncheon. There was a wonderful demonstration on their arrival. A great crowd had collected under the porte-cochere of the annex, where the Russians are quartered, and when their automobile drew up the air was torn with frantic cheers. Hats were thrown aloft. Mr. Witte, as he stepped out of the motor car, seemed quite overcome. Too full for utterance, he could only grasp and shake the hands that were extended to him. Baron Rosen also was equally moved and received the congratulations of the crowd in silence. For about five minutes the two envoys were kept on the porch listening to incoherent praises of the hotel guests.

"Do you pay indemnity?" was the universal interrogation. "Pas un sou" (not a cent) was Mr. Witte's response. The two envoys have respectively proposed to their emperors the conclusion of an immediate armistice. The details of the armistice will be discussed at this afternoon's meeting, and immediately after the question of the release of the Russian prisoners.

The Associated Press correspondent accompanied Mr. Witte to his room. Mr. Witte had been quite overcome by the great ovation he had received and the intense strain he had been through. He threw himself into his arm chair and after a few minutes to "pull himself together" he began to speak, slowly and deliberately, almost as if he were talking to himself. "It seems incredible," he said, "I do not believe any other man in my place would have dared to hope for the possibility of peace on conditions to which we have just agreed. From all sides, from President Roosevelt down to my friends in Russia, I received up to the last moment urgent representations that something should be paid to Japan."

At this point Mr. Witte, who was still laboring under excitement, almost lost control of himself. He paused a moment. Then he went on: "The Japanese wanted to take our interned ships, and I have not consented. The Japanese wanted to limit our naval power in the Far East and I have not consented. The Japanese wanted the Chinese Eastern railway south of Harbin, but I gave them only the railroad in the possession of their troops south of Chautauk. The Japanese wanted the island of Sakhalin and I refused it, agreeing, however, at the last moment to cede the southern half and then only because I was commanded by my sovereign to yield and obeyed. Not only do we not pay so much as a kopeck, but we obtain half of Sakhalin now in their possession. At this morning's session I presented my written proposition, which was the Russian ultimatum. It was accepted by the Japanese. I was amazed. Until now in the conference I did not think that would happen. I could not anticipate such a great and happy issue."

FALLS FROM HIGH WINDOW

A Telegraph Operator Plunges to Death at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. J. Mulligan, aged 68, a telegraph operator, fell from a third story window of the Commercial hotel, Third and Sibley streets, at midnight, and was killed.

Mulligan was assigned to a room at 6 o'clock last evening, and was again shown to it about an hour before he fell. It is believed that he sat in the window to get cool and lost his balance. A. J. Hill, a bartender, employed in a saloon directly across from the hotel, heard a cry, and gazing through the window he saw Mulligan's body dart through the glare of the electric light and strike the sidewalk.

FIRE AT PRINCETVILLE, ILL. Peculiar fire broke out today in the hardware store of Finkler & Harrison at Princeton, Ill., destroyed six business houses and caused a property loss of $50,000.

CRASHED THROUGH BRIDGE.

Thresher and Engine Wrecked in Polk County.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 29.—(Special to The Herald.)—A brand new Minneapolis thresher and twenty-five horsepower engine crashed through the Polk county bridge at Climax and into Sand Hill river, Sunday, entailing a loss of $5,000 to Evanson brothers, the owners, and very nearly killing Richard Njoen, engineer of the outfit, who was pitched headfirst into the engine and had two of his ribs broken besides receiving internal injuries which may prove fatal. Hans Evanson, one of the purchasers, was upon the engine when the bridge gave way and his escape is considered miraculous.

The county bridge across Sand Hill river at Climax was erected this summer at the expense of Polk county and had just been accepted. When the big threshing engine with its trailing separator reached the center of the structure the supports gave way with a snap, precipitating the entire load with its human beings into the river.

TO PATCH MRS. ARTHUR PAGET TOGETHER WITH IVORY SCREWS

New York, Aug. 29.—Operations which have succeeded one another through months of pain suffered by Mrs. Arthur Paget, the well-known society leader, have proved in vain, and another most difficult one will be attempted next week, cables the Herald's London correspondent. Mrs. Paget sustained a fractured thigh, and the bones failed to knit sufficiently to support the weight of her body.

PEASANTS DETERMINED TO EXTERMINATE THIEVES.

Warsaw, Aug. 29.—The peasants in the surrounding district are making determined efforts to exterminate bands of thieves who have been committing extensive depredations. On Aug. 26, the inhabitants of the Mionozna district killed eleven thieves and wounded fifty and the thieves of Warsaw fully armed set out to avenge their comrades by setting fire to villages. The peasants, thereupon, organized to resist them and a conflict is imminent. The authorities have not taken any action in the matter.

BANK CLERK CONFESSES.

New York, Aug. 29.—Gallay, the Paris bank clerk, who fled, recently, with an actress, on board a chartered steam yacht and was arrested in Brazil, has confessed that he defrauded his employers, according to a Herald dispatch from Bahia. Gallay at first insisted that he was a native of Belgium and knew nothing of the $200,000 embezzlement committed in Paris. He is said to have admitted committing the frauds by falsifying signatures.

READY FOR SCHOOL

Principal Foster Consulting With Prospective High School Pupils.

First Year Work to Be Taken Up—Opening Sept. 11.

S. A. Foster, principal of the Irving school at West Duluth is preparing for the opening of school, and particularly for the opening of the high school branch of the school, which the board of education voted to establish. It was decided that this year the Irving school should be given a first year course, in order that the graduates of the common school of last year should be given the advantages of high school without having to come up town. It is fully understood that next year, besides the freshman class established this year, a sophomore class will be taught, and the year following a junior class, and the next year a senior, so that by the time the present class develops to its finish of high school, the whole course will have been established in the Irving school.

The new order of things will be of great aid to students, and will enable many pupils to attend high school, who last year they came up town for their lessons, could not attend. It was on that basis that the West Duluthians clamored for a high school course, and they feel much encouraged that they have succeeded thus far. It is figured besides this that the time of the pupils attending high school will be saved by the study of the lessons assigned them, and to the helping of their parents after school hours. And, also, they can then go to go up town to school, would be impossible.

Mr. Foster is at the school every day now to talk over the courses with the prospective pupils of the high school, and is working up considerable enthusiasm among the new graduates to attend the higher grade. He is explaining the various courses of study, and getting arrangements completed for the work. He will, himself, teach bookkeeping, and expects to have a large class in this.

School will start on Sept. 11.

LOGS COMING IN.

Le Sure Mill May Start Sawing This Week.

Logs are coming in every day to the Le Sure mill, which will probably start sawing this week. The first trainload came in on Saturday, and contained about 250,000 feet. Since that there has been a trainload a day, and this is expected to continue for some time. These logs are for the Virginia Lumber company.

The St. Louis mill, leased by Robert Davis, is also sawing for the same company, and that company is sawing logs at its mill in Virginia, and will build at once another mill there. It expects to saw in its own mills and in the two at West Duluth about 300,000 feet of logs before its gets through.

STAR PLAYING

Develops at Longshoremen's Ball Game.

Sunday's ball game between the Longshoremen of West Duluth and of Superior, which was the first account by a score of 9 to 5, was one of the best games amateur or professional—seen here this year. Some extraordinary good fielding was done, and the game was played all around. Hines, O'Brien and Gocho for West Duluth did some star playing, although Hines was a dead end until about the third and he woke up and set the gallery wild. Carey and Gocho got four hits each.

West Duluth's batteries, La Belle and Carey, did some excellent work also. Nicholson, the pitcher for Superior, played well, but his good work did not count for much.

Fall goods arriving daily at Lauer-mann's.

Mrs. Hildora Olson, of 329 North Fifty-eighth avenue west entertained yesterday in honor of Mesdames Benile and Smith of Mapioba. Quite a number of friends were present. The rooms were prettily decorated. Tea was served.

W. Brooks, who was at one time manager of the planing mill in the old car works, has opened a lumber yard in West Duluth.

Vaudeville at Metropolitan.

The bill at the Metropolitan this week is a good one and was appreciated by the large audience last evening. The program is headed by the three comedians, Italian street singers, who render some choice musical selections, both vocal and instrumental. The Markham, Swedish, and the comedians, have a clever little sketch which is very amusing. Mr. Markham has a good voice and sings a couple of songs, which make a hit.

Arthur P. Jackson makes his farewell appearance this week. His illustrated song, "Good Night, Beloved," was given in his usual fine style. The moving pictures are good and decidedly funny.

The program closes with a two-act farce by the Gilmore Stock company, entitled "Family Affair," which gives the members opportunity to display their talents to good advantage.

Attachment Made,

Coming Here.

The first voting machines with the primary election attachment ever manufactured, will be soon in Duluth some time next month, according to the statement of P. J. Sjoblom of Minneapolis today.

Mr. Sjoblom, the agent for the voting machines in Minnesota and was instrumental in placing four of the machines in Duluth for trial. Those city, and will be shipped within a few days.

Next month, Mr. Sjoblom will bring one of the new machines to Duluth for exhibition purposes.

The agreement between the city and the voting machine company expires November 1. The city has paid $250 for the rental of the four machines for one year, and if they decide to purchase any of them, $200 of this amount will apply on the purchase price.

Jail Officials Charged

With Helping Prisoners to Escape.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 28.—After an investigation of fifteen days, following the escape of the second prisoner from the La Crosse county jail, Postal Inspector E. E. Frazer caused the arrest of Turner M. L. Chisholm, the charge of aiding two notorious postoffice robbers and safe-blowers to escape.

While Chisholm has not been charged with accepting a bribe, United States officers will not prove that he accepted $400 for allowing outside friends to smuggle tools to Karl S. Trainer and Arthur Cunningham.

The leading clue which led up to the apprehension of the persons involved in the escape was furnished by the confession of James Crane, the remaining member of the trio confined in jail here on the charge of robbing the postoffice at Stoddard, Wis., two months ago.

Two women claiming to be wives of Trainer and Cunningham live in Chicago. Mrs. Trainer was some years ago a respected resident of a large Northwestern city, where he is a prominent business man. The son admitted that his mother had told him she had arranged for the release of Trainer. She said it was to cost her $500, and that everything was done.

Officers say that $500 was paid for the release of Trainer, and that after his escape the screws were put on Chisholm and he was forced to arrange for the escape of Cunningham, who got out fifteen days later.

Chisholm was immediately arraigned, pleaded not guilty and demanded examination. The hearing was continued until Sept. 5.

The Largest Locomotive.

The largest locomotive ever constructed was on exhibition at the St. Louis fair last year. It is to be used for hauling heavy trains on steep grades, and has the necessary machinery for using extra engines. The best medicine ever compounded for the stomach, liver, kidneys or female organs is Dr. Caldwell's Pink Pills for Pale People. Backed by over 50 years' of cure it ought to appeal to every sick man and woman who want to get well and strong again. Nothing else can take its place in cases of sick headache, insomnia, nervousness, constipation, heartburn, belching, bloating, indigestion, dyspepsia, female disorders, cramps, pains in the back, or malaria, fever and ague. DOINGS IN MICHIGAN

Marine Men Much Interested In Proposed Cut-Off Canal.

Marquette—Portage lake marine men are displaying much interest in the proposition to build a new ship canal across the upper peninsula, east of Marquette, instead of the old one, which was made in those columns several days ago. The project is considered entirely feasible, and it is believed to merit serious attention, especially as it will not be many years, with the continual growth of traffic, before the capacity of the Soo locks will be inadequate to accommodate the shipping. It is figured that with such a cut-off, Chicago and Milwaukee merchants and manufacturers will have an even better gateway to the copper country. That such a canal would prove beneficial, not only to the freight business, but also to passenger traffic, is not to be denied. Thus and so, could be saved by cutting off approximately 200 miles each way.

Newberry—Mary Johnson of Kenosha, Mackinac county, who sued a Newberry saloonkeeper for damages and was defeated in her effort, has appealed the case to the supreme court. It is charged that the saloonkeeper was responsible for Johnson's death, in having sold him intoxicating liquors when advised not to do so.

Sault Ste. Marie—Samuel Cuthbert, treasurer of Soo township, came near losing a valuable steer last week by the canned beef route. The animal stuck its nose into a tin can to investigate the contents, and was unable to remove the can afterwards. It wandered about in this muzzled condition until it was half starved, when a neighbor discovered it, and it was rescued from its unfortunate plight.

James Connors, a well-known lumberman of the Soo, has left for Seattle to engage in business. Last week he disposed of a large timber claim he had taken out in Washington, at a most satisfactory figure, but expects to re-invest in the same region. While he has every confidence in the ultimate upbuilding of the Soo, he feels that conditions promise quicker returns in Seattle. He still holds his Canadian Soo property.

Ironwood—A large creamery is to be erected either in the city or outside the corporate limits of Ironwood. Three or four sites are being considered, and the decision where to build will be reached at a meeting of the shareholders, to be held shortly.

The cost of the building and equipment will amount to about $4,000, most of which has been subscribed by business men of Ironwood, who will become stockholders in the concern. It is the intention to have the creamery ready to begin operations in the spring.

THE PRICE OF MEAT IN GERMANY IS VERY HIGH.

New York, Aug. 28.—The price of meat in Germany is rising—has risen in fact—almost to famine rates, says a Herald dispatch from Berlin. The correspondent declares that the advance is due to regulations closing the meat market.

It is learned that an action has been commenced at Vancouver, B. C., to liquidate the company. While it cannot be verified it is understood that the action is being taken by the creditors of the company, who are seeking to force the liquidation of the company. It is alleged in the application that one faction has sought to "freeze out" the other and eventually gain control of the assets.

The assets, consisting of certain leases, the dredges and other property, are in the hands of the trustees. In the affidavits filed by the faction asking for liquidation, it appears that it has been the victim of a neat bit of strategy.

Both returned Saturday evening and were astonished to learn that in their absence the maid had exhibited their youngest daughter, an infant

THE UTEs ARE NOW BROKEN UP

Once Powerful Tribe Is Forced to Follow Farming.

Grand Junction, Colo., Aug. 29.—History is being made this day in Western Colorado and Eastern Utah. Today the whites are overtaking the Utes. The Utes, who have been crowding the whites out of the country for years, are now being overtaken by the whites. The Utes are being forced to follow farming.

For a quarter of a century the Utes have lived on the Utah lands. But fifteen years ago was the beginning of the end. Now, surrounded by the whites, they must till their forty-acre tracts until the race dies out. Their tribal relations are forever ended.

Western Colorado was the ideal Indian country less than thirty years ago. Today it has become the finest fruit and agricultural section in the United States. It is composed of high mountain ranges and well watered valleys and fields. Thirty decades ago it abounded in wild game and its waters were literally alive with fish. It was the land of the Utes, and was untouched by any railroad.

In this great state lived the Utes, divided into seven tribes. The Yampais had their homes along the Grand and the White rivers. The Uteapahs camped along the banks of the stream while the Weeminettes, the Shoshones and the Capotines lived in the southern part of the state along the border of New Mexico. These five tribes were the most numerous, but they were not the only ones.

Madisonville, Tenn., Aug. 29.—Upon application, Judge Quarles of the United States district court has issued an order, returnable Sept. 12, to show cause why the trustee of the Bigelow estate should not be permitted to sell all of the insurance policies on the life of Frank G. Bigelow, ex-president of the First National bank. The policies are twenty in number and have a total face value of about $335,000. All are made payable to Bigelow's estate, and as such are claimed liable for his debts. The cash surrender value of the policies is estimated by experts at $30,000. There are three claimants for the policies, including the First National bank, to whom they were assigned by Bigelow, after the discovery of his embezzlement; the ex-bankers' family, who served notice on the trustee that they stood ready to pay the cash surrender value; and the trustee, who is acting for the creditors, and who makes the application.

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish form after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

FAITHFUL DOG

Avenge the Murder of His Master In Arkansas.

Dooms the Slayer to Death on the Gallows.

Pocahontas, Ark., Aug. 29.—Through the love of a dog for his master a man has been sentenced to be hanged for murder and a woman has been indicted and will be tried as accessory to the crime at the November term of the Randolph county criminal court, which will sit at Pocahontas.

The dog, which is only an ordinary little black and white cur, rejoicing in the commonplace name of "Jim," was the only witness to the murder of W. P. Burns, a well-to-do farmer and ferryman on Spring river, on the morning of June 30, 1905. Ed Hubbard, a woodsman, being the convicted principal in the deed, and a woman known as Willie Roberts, who was Burns' housekeeper, being charged as accessory to the crime.

The motive alleged was the desire of Hubbard and Willie Roberts to come into possession of the property of Burns through a will made at the instance of the woman.

But for "Jim," the crime would possibly never have been discovered, for it was his love for his master which sent him to the house of a neighbor, where his whines and actions, which were almost human, suggested to the neighbor that something unusual had happened. As a result, the neighbor made a search, which resulted in the finding of the body at the bottom of the river and the ultimate unraveling of the deep plot which ended in murder.

And "Jim," the little black and white companion of "Ples" Burns, did not stop with notifying the neighbors of the crime, but appeared at the court room at the trial, and when Hubbard was arraigned gave testimony of his hatred by showing his teeth and growls when the accused man was brought in—testimony barred by the law, but effective in the eyes of the jury when the evidence was presented.

Some time last year it was suggested to Willie Roberts that "Ples" Burns, who had been separated from his second wife for some time, wanted a housekeeper, and that a scheme might be carried out whereby she might come into possession of Burns' farm and a considerable sum of money he was supposed to have.

Burns and the Roberts woman were brought together by mutual acquaintances, and she was engaged as a housekeeper, and a verbal arrangement being entered into at the time to the effect that if she took good care of the old man during his illness, she was to receive his property at his death.

Shortly afterward it was suggested to Willie Roberts that she would do well to have the agreement put into writing. With some reluctance on the part of Burns, this was done, and a will was regularly drawn in favor of Willie Roberts.

It was then, according to the evidence produced at the trial of Ed Hubbard, that the plot against the life of Burns began. According to a confession made by Hubbard, which he later retracted, it seemed too long to wait for the old man to die, and plans were made to end his life by drowning.

Various means were suggested, according to Hubbard, and put aside as being too risky.

It came then in this evidence that Burns was in the habit of going in his boat in the early morning to set his fishing line.

On the evening of June 29 Hubbard went to the Burns house, he claimed in his confession, in response to a letter from Willie Roberts. After the old man was asleep, so Hubbard stated, the woman went to the "shanty-down" where he was sleeping and aroused him and told him to wake Burns early, with the excuse that he wanted to cross the river to catch a train for Mexico, so that he could get some whiskey.

At daybreak Hubbard aroused the old man and the two went to the river bank, unlocked the ferryboat and started to embark on what was "Ples" Burns' last ride on the craft he had piloted across the river so many times.

Here it was that "Jim," just the "curry" little black and white cur with a cur's loyalty to the one who feeds him, came into the case.

As the two were getting into the ferry, "Jim" sprang from under the steps, where he slept, barking a good morning greeting, he ran to the river bank where they were embarking and started to jump into the boat, to make the trip across, as he had done hundreds of times before with his master.

"Don't let's take the dog," said Hubbard, as he gave "Jim" a kick which sent him back to the bank. "He might follow me after we get across and get lost."

So "Jim" did not take the trip, but stood on the bank, whining and telling in the plainest dog language that he belonged with his master. Twice he started to swim across, to be driven back by Hubbard, who seemed to have some intuition that the dog might frustrate his plans.

Nearing the middle of the river, Burns was pulling the boat by the ferry line. His back was turned to his side of the river and Hubbard was behind him. As the old man reached forward to take a fresh pull on the rope, Hubbard sprang upon him and gave him a push forward. Burns fell forward and partly into the water.

Realizing then the plot against his life, the old man struggled to regain his footing, but the relentless Hubbard took him by the heels and threw him overboard.

Thus the old man's face appeared at the surface only to sink again, the last time not to rise again.

No one saw the deed—that is, no one but "Jim."

When Hubbard saw that "Ples" Burns was at the bottom of the river, he paddled the boat back to the shore, went to the house and told Willie Roberts that he had "fixed the old man." There he changed his undershirt, as the one he wore in the boat had become wet and muddy during the scuffle, and made his way back to the Black River boat house after having turned the boat

ROOSEVELT IS PRAISED By Interparliamentary Congress For His Peace Efforts.

Brussels, Aug. 29.—The opening of the interparliamentary congress in the national palace here yesterday was the occasion for a notable demonstration in behalf of President Roosevelt and the cause of the peace conference at Portsmouth. The session was held in the senate chamber of the palace. Large delegations, representing practically all the leading parliaments were present. The welcoming address, delivered by Minister of State Bernadotte, aroused applause when he referred to President Roosevelt's conspicuous movements in behalf of peace, in first calling a meeting of The Hague conference, and, secondly, in bringing together the envoys of Russia and Japan. Baron De Favoreux, the Belgian minister for foreign affairs, added flattering tributes to the president's efforts. The congress then adjourned, amid enthusiasm, resolutions of thanks to President Roosevelt, and the secretary was authorized to cable them to Oyster Bay.

The congress afterward discussed the American proposition for a model arbitration treaty. Congressman Richard Bartholdt spoke in favor of it. Herr Von Plessner, president of the Austrian upper house, opposed the action owing to the magnitude of the subject.

Mr. Bartholdt also presented the report in behalf of the United States. The status of our common cause in the United States never justified a more favorable report than it does at the present time. Two causes have mainly contributed towards this revival of interest in the peace movement: the meeting of the interparliamentary conference on American soil, and the deep-going disgust with that barbarous war in the Orient. Over 200 members of the American congress have now joined the interparliamentary group. Mass meetings have been held in nearly all large American cities during the year, which declared in favor of the arbitration treaties then pending in the senate. Those treaties failed, it is true, not, however, because of any objection to the principle of arbitration, but because of their ineffectiveness, which finally compelled the president to abandon the treaties. Under The Hague convention, he already enjoys a larger measure of discretion than the new treaties, in their amended form, would have conferred upon him. The failure of these treaties may prove a blessing in disguise. It justifies the hope that the outcome will be the approval, by The Hague conference, of a treaty wider in scope, and yet more definite in details.

It is with pardonable pride we Americans point to the historical fact that it was left to an American president, not only to again open the doors of The Hague, but also to stop, in the interests of both the belligerents and humanity, the war between Russia and Japan.

The delegates continue to be intensely interested in the conference at Portsmouth.

FOUNTAIN HERE

Handsome Structure to Be Erected in East End.

First Public Ornament Ever Presented to the City.

The erection of the handsome memorial fountain donated to the city by Mrs. T. L. Blood in memory of her father, George Stone, will be commenced within a few days, and it should be in position before cold weather arrives.

It will be a most imposing structure, and in the position chosen for it at the intersection of London Road and Superior street, will be a conspicuous landmark in the east end of the city.

Granite blocks will compose the foundation, and the body of the fountain will be constructed of ornamental iron work.

There will be a drinking fountain provided with cups for people, a drinking trough for horses, and underneath, a basin for dogs.

The plan for the fountain, as presented to the city by Mrs. Blood, is a most beautiful one, and it is expected that the fountain will be a most valuable addition to the city.

Perhaps you don't realize it, but this is the first ornament that has been donated to the city by private persons.

It will be a very useful gift, as well as being ornamental.

STARTLING TALKS OF SCHOOL EGGS

Minot Newspaper Reports J. F. Dacey as Manufacturing Them.

Publishes Letter From Duluth Man Wanting to Interest Capital.

According to the Daily Optic of Minot, N. D., James F. Dacey, the well-known boiler-maker of Duluth, has been manufacturing a wonderful artificial egg, the manufacture of which he wants to go into on a large scale.

The North Dakota newspaper he is desirous of interesting capital there to go into the manufacture of this product, which is designed to put the old-fashioned hen out of business.

According to the Optic, the egg which Mr. Dacey has developed is a wonderful thing. He has found the secret of life, for the egg will hatch.

Not only will it hatch out a number of chickens, but it will hatch out a number of eggs, and these eggs will hatch out a number of chickens, and so on.

Further details of Mr. Dacey's wonderful discovery will be of interest, and the article in the Minot is reproduced in full.

James F. Dacey, a wealthy boiler-maker of Duluth and one of the best known and most prosperous business men in the Northwest, has addressed a letter to The Optic, in which he asks for information regarding Minot and the possibility of interesting local capital in the formation of a stock company for the manufacture of artificial eggs. Mr. Dacey prepared the formula for the manufacture of eggs, a number of years ago to such a degree of perfection, by persistent experiments, that he defies the most expert to detect the difference between the manufactured product and the real thing fresh from the hen. Mr. Dacey is at present conducting an egg factory in Chicago, and he has a number of eggs a day, the greater portion of which are shipped to Alaska, as, says Mr. Dacey in his letter, the eggs are not affected in the least by heat and they will not freeze in the most frigid climates.

A lady friend of mine in Duluth, who is well versed in food products, continues the letter, was slightly skeptical regarding the claimed merits of my eggs, and I sent her a case that she might examine them in detail with them. A few weeks later I called at her house. She said that she had tried the eggs in every way possible, and that they were equal in every way to the natural product.

She carried the eggs to her kitchen, and they were equal in every way to the natural product.

SECRETARY OF NAVY SEVERELY CONDEMNS GUNBOAT'S OFFICERS

Disapproves Part of the Board's Findings on Bennington Wreck.

Orders Commander Young to Appear Before Court-Martial.

Ensign Wade Must Also Answer to Board's Charges.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Secretary Bonaparte, today, acted on the findings of the court of inquiry in the case of the Bennington explosion. He disapproved of such of the findings as declare that the Bennington "was in an excellent state of discipline and good and efficient condition" at the time of the explosion and is particularly severe in his comment on the failure of the officers to look after the safety valves. He further says that the court of inquiry's failure to make any finding respecting the captain of the ship, Lucien Young, does not meet his approval and he therefore declares that to clear himself, Capt. Young must appear before a court-martial. Ensign Charles T. Wade, who was in charge of the machinery is also ordered before a court-martial.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE

Reports a Basis For Consolidation of Fraternal Organizations.

Milwaukee, Aug. 30.—Although the leading question before the convention of the Associated Fraternities of America today was that of consolidation with the National Fraternal congress, there were many other matters of importance. The convention, held at the Hotel Milwaukee, was the largest ever held in the city. The delegates, including reports of committees, addresses by prominent men in the fraternal world, and the presentation of the joint conference committee of the two great fraternal organizations, which was expected to report the results of its deliberations, held a long session, and after mutual concessions, agreed on a basis whereby consolidation is expected to be brought about. It was agreed that the name of the new federation shall be "The International Fraternal Congress." The basis of representation shall be one representative for a society having 50,000 members and less. Two representatives for a society of 100,000 members, and an additional representative for each 100,000 members, but no society shall have more than four votes in the congress. The governing body, it was agreed, shall consist of an executive committee of seven members, and its power shall be fully executive. The different bureaus formed permanent organizations and elected officers. H. L. Howard of Waverly, N. Y., heads the legal bureau as president, while David Wright of Ellingham, Iowa, and M. L. Campbell of Neenah, Wis., were elected respectively vice president and secretary-treasurer. Officers of the secretariat bureau were chosen, with G. M. Stratton of Clay Center, Kas., as president. The medical bureau is headed by W. M. Hilton of New York, president, and Dr. Quigg of Chicago, secretary-treasurer.

Wheeling, Minn., Aug. 30.—After an almost miraculous escape from death in an attempt at suicide, Miss Clara Meyer, aged 21, made a second and successful attempt.

FIREMEN'S ASSOCIATION MEETS AT KANSAS CITY.

Kansas City, Aug. 30.—Today's session of the National Firemen's association, now holding its annual convention here, was taken up, principally, in listening to papers and in discussions. Chief J. R. Canterbury of Minneapolis read a paper on "What is the part of firemen in the science of fire fighting?" and Chief Charles E. Swingley, St. Louis, spoke on the subject, "How to abolish a fireman's cover." The American theater holocaust.

GENERAL STRIKE AT LIBAU.

Libau, Russia, Aug. 30.—A general strike has been brought about here by the order for the mobilization of troops. No factories are running, port loading has been discontinued and the street railroads have stopped operations. The situation is growing tense and many soldiers are patrolling the streets.

MOROCCO'S SULTAN REFUSES TO GRANT FRANCE'S DEMANDS

Considers French-Algerian Merchant a Moroccan Subject.

France Will Probably Soon Make a Naval Demonstration.

Tangier, Aug. 30.—The sultan has replied by letter to the French minister, St. René Taillandier, that he continues to regard the recently arrested French-Algerian merchant, Bouzain, as a Moroccan subject, and will refuse to comply with the demand of the French government for his liberation. The minister at the same time will advise the Moroccan government of his intention to leave Fez if the demand for the release of Bouzain and redress for his arrest be not complied with. M. Taillandier will be instructed to reach Tangier by the surest route, and to take such steps as may be deemed necessary after his arrival there, if, in the meantime, the demands remain unsatisfied.

THE FILIPINOS ARE TOTALLY UNFIT FOR SELF GOVERNMENT

Manila, Aug. 30.—The last session of the conference with the agitators for the independence of the Philippine islands developed the fact, according to a consensus of opinion among the congressmen present, that the Filipinos are altogether unfit for immediate independence. Apart from the problems presented in the civilization of the Igorots, the Moros, Misamis, and other tribes, it would be cruel, it is believed, to the people at large to turn them loose upon the mercies of their own savagery. They would then experience the worst kind of exploitation. The statements of the speakers at the meeting were widely divergent, the mercenary faction being in contrast with the native agitators.

KOREANS TO DISMISS THEIR AMERICAN CUSTOMS OFFICER

Seoul, Aug. 30.—John McLeavy Brown, who for twelve years past has been at the head of the Korean customs, is to be dismissed. This is probably due to the fact that the customs administration has been undertaken by M. Megata, the Japanese adviser of the Korean government, and is part of his general plan to reorganize Korean finance. Under the new arrangements the customs service will cease to exist as a separate organization, but will be arranged on a plan similar to that of the Chinese maritime customs. In 1901 Russia attempted to oust

PUBLIC HEALTH BETTER. CARD GAME IN STREETS.

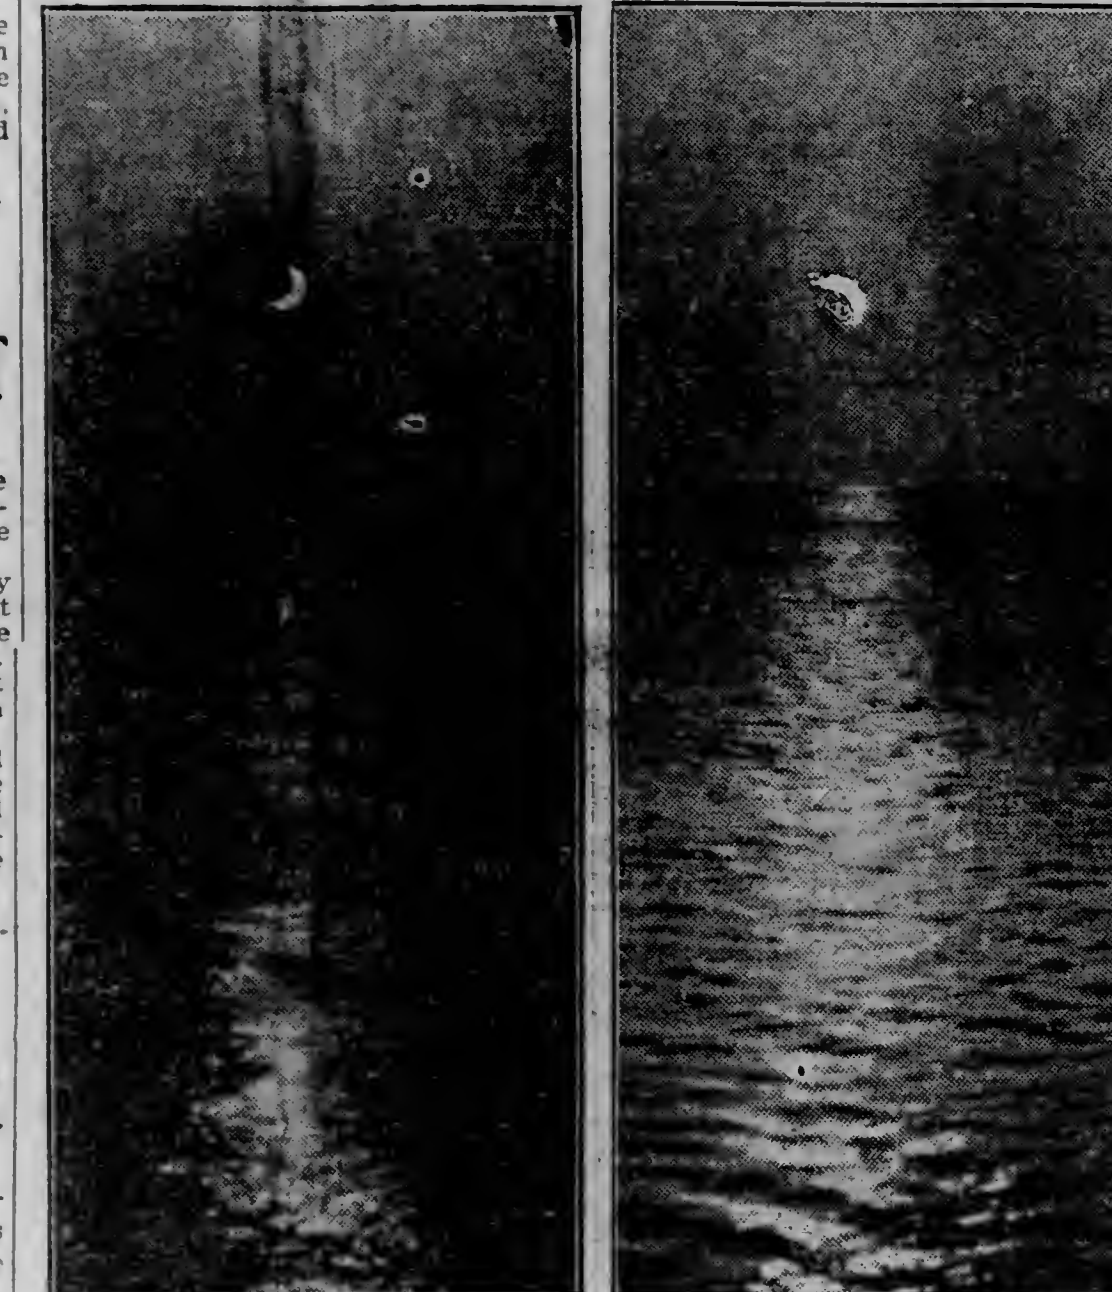

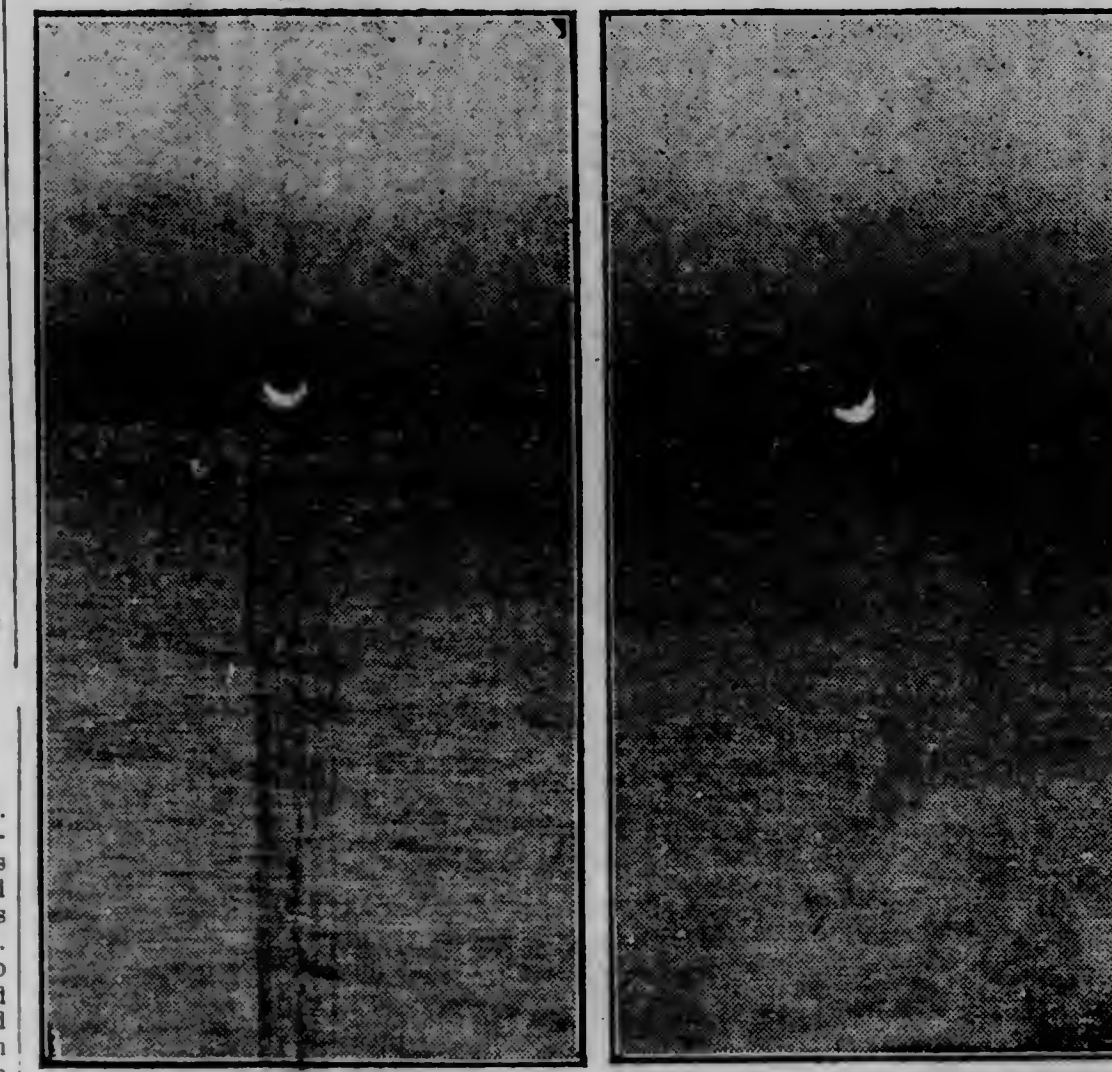

London, Aug. 30.—In the current number of the Practitioner, a somewhat startling statement is made by a fashionable doctor in the West end and practically ignored by one of the leading professional medical journals. The West end practice, it is stated, is not so lucrative as it was, and the West end doctor is feeling the pinch of hard times. One reason advanced by the West end physician is that the upper and middle classes lead healthier lives. Sanitary conditions, and improved athletic sports are believed to be partly responsible for this.

EXPLORER FIALA REACHES NEW YORK.

New York, Aug. 30.—Anthony Fiala, commander of the Ziegler Polar expedition, arrived in New York today, on the steamer Oceanic from Liverpool. The expedition under Fiala consisting of two ships left Norway in June, 1905, and was rescued by the Teranova under command of W. S. Champ, whose ship arrived at Honningsvaag, Norway, on Aug. 10.

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 30.—Observations of the sun eclipse at Harvard observatory were impossible because of the clouds.

St. Louis, Aug. 30.—A clear sky enabled a fine view of the partial eclipse of the sun today.

EXPERTS ARE FAST FRAMING DOCUMENT

Envoys Will Not Meet Until It Is Ready For Signatures.

The Whole World Congratulates President Roosevelt.

Portsmouth, Aug. 30.—The great strain under which the envoys, attaches, correspondents and summer guests have been laboring for three weeks is over. Peace is concluded. Only the actual framing of the treaty, and the formalities of its signature remain. It has been decided that the room in the conference building, where the envoys yesterday came to an agreement, shall be the scene of the final act in the "Treaty of Portsmouth," which is to put an end to this historic war.

The envoys yesterday adjourned, subject to call, and unless some unexpected dispute arises there will not be another formal meeting until the draft of the treaty is complete. And even should a controversy occur, it would not necessarily compel a formal meeting, as the envoys living under the same roof are in a position to consult freely, either in person or by letter. Mr. De Martens and Mr. Demmler, acting respectively for Russia and Japan, have already begun the work of drafting the treaty, and their first meeting will be held this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the navy yard.

Mr. De Martens is receiving valuable assistance from Mr. Pokotiloff, on account of his thorough familiarity with the whole Far Eastern situation. When the signatures are attached the exchange of ratifications by the emperors of Russia and Japan alone will remain. Emperor Nicholas, in the ceremonial given to Mr. Witte, formally pledged his word to approve any treaty his envoy would sign. While the credentials of Baron Komura, and regular Japanese procedure, reserved to the Mikado the right to sanction the treaty, that is regarded as a mere formality.

The Russians continue to regard the agreement reached as a wonderful victory. The highest Russian authority, speaking of what would have happened if peace had not been made, said: "Consider the military situation from the Russian standpoint in the most favorable light. Assume that the Russian arms would have been successful. Linnvitch's victorious army would force Gyama, Liaoyang, possibly to Hsiching. But with the Russian fleet destroyed, he could never venture in the Liao-tung peninsula. We could not have recovered the Yalu into Korea. We could never have retaken Sakhalin. Practically we obtain in this treaty what we would have had by any other means. Our defeats come—who knows what else we should in the end have been obliged to yield."

Much interesting history behind the conference remains to be written. No one yet knows exactly what considerations induced the Tokyo government to waive a part of its claims. While it is known that President Roosevelt was continuing his labors to the last, it is not possible to make any definite statement as to whether, at the end, he advised Japan to forego entirely punitive demands. It can be stated, however, on the authority of the Japanese minister, that he was originally of the opinion that Japan should not demand indemnity, and it is, therefore, possible that he may have urged this view at Tokyo when he found that Russia was obdurate. In his communication to Emperor Nicholas, through Ambassador Meyer, last week, the Japanese were insisting on indirect remuneration for the cost of the war, it is known, as previously stated in these columns, that the north half of Sakhalin should be determined by some sort of impartial board or commission.

All the senseless gossip about Emperor William throwing his influence against peace is now completely exploded. In addition to the authorized denial sent by Prince Von Buelow to the Associated Press, the British envoys have received information direct from Peterhof, showing that Emperor William was urging peace on the czar with as much earnestness as the president.

No final arrangements about an armistice have yet been agreed to. Mr. Takahira said today that as soon as the treaty was signed he and Baron Komura would go to Oyster Bay to thank personally the president. The members of the Japanese colony today are getting over their disappointment, recognizing that peace even without money remuneration, is better than a continuation of the war.

Unless there is a change of program, the treaty of peace between Russia and Japan will be signed in the navy general store at the navy yard, where all the sessions of the conference have been held. In this case it will go down in history as the "treaty of Portsmouth."

The reports that the envoys have formally agreed that such shall be its name is, however, incorrect. The name of a treaty has rarely ever been the subject of an official agreement. The treaty takes its title from the place where it is signed. Still so mindful are the envoys of the president's part in the work of yesterday that it is the belief here, that he may be consulted informally before a final decision is reached regarding the place of signature. Deference undoubtedly will be given to such preference if any, as the president may have in the matter.

NEWS OF PEACE
Received With Satisfaction All Over the World.
Marianbad, Aug. 30.—King Edward immediately upon receipt of the peace news telegraphed his thanks to the emperors of Japan and Russia and to President Roosevelt.
Copenhagen, Aug. 30.—General expressions of satisfaction are heard here, in court and official circles over the peace news.
Berlin, Aug. 30.—Chancellor Von Buelow, in acknowledgment of the cable dispatch from the Associated Press announcing the conclusion of peace and the outline of the terms says: "In the reception of this fortunate result, the German advocates of peace are in full agreement with the Americans."
Saratoff, Russia, Aug. 30.—The people here received the press announcement of peace with Japan with joy. The extra editions of the newspapers were bought with avidity and the newspaper offices were in constant receipt of telephone messages asking for details.

CONGRATULATIONS
Pour In on the President From All Quarters.
Oyster Bay, Aug. 30.—Crowned heads of the world unite with distinguished statesmen of America and Europe in according the glory of peace between Russia and Japan to President Roosevelt. Throughout last night and today telegrams of congratulation poured on the president in a great flood. They came from persons of high degree and of low, and from all quarters of the civilized world.
Among the first messages received was one from the king of England, as follows:
"Marianbad, Aug. 29.—The President: Let me be one of the first to congratulate you on the success of the peace conference to which you have so greatly contributed."
"EDWARD, R. I."
Soon afterward a cordial cablegram was received from Emperor William of Germany. It read:
"Neus Palais, Aug. 29.—President Roosevelt: Just received cable from America announcing agreement of peace conference on preliminary of peace. I am overjoyed; express most sincere congratulations at the success due to your untiring efforts. The whole of mankind must unite, and will do so, in thanking you for the great boon you have given it."
"WILLIAM, I. R."
Ambassador Jusserand of France sent this cablegram: "London, Aug. 30.—President Roosevelt: Heartiest, warmest congratulations."
"JUSSERAND."
Telegrams were received from diplomatic representatives of the foreign governments to this government from Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador; from Mayer Desplanches, ambassador of Italy, and from Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, the Chinese minister.

JAPANESE SUPREMACY
In the Far East Is Now Practically Impregnable.
London, Aug. 30.—The news of the conclusion of peace at Portsmouth reached London so late last evening that with the exception of official and diplomatic circles and those who were in the city at a late hour the announcement in the morning papers came as a complete surprise. Even many cabinet officers and other higher officials were ignorant of the momentous event until today, as those who compose the official and social circles in England are now gathered around the moors, some of them out of reach of the telegraph, for grouse shooting. With the general public, the news was received with the greatest satisfaction and admiration for Japan's "sacrifices in the cause of peace."
The announcement that peace had been arranged caused the stock markets to open with a somewhat buoyant tendency, today, and prices established a smart advance, particularly in the case of Russian bonds which gained points. Japanese bonds were also affected, but not to such a great extent. Consols advanced a 1/4 point and American generally stronger. There was moderate excitement at the opening of the markets.
The evening papers follow the lead of the morning newspapers in bestowing unstinted praise on President Roosevelt to whom they give the fullest credit for the outcome of the conference whose decision was entirely at variance with their daily predictions since the open-

GOPHER GIRL Makes Second and Successful Attempt at Suicide.

Wheeling, Mon., Aug. 26.—After an almost miraculous escape from death in an attempt at suicide, Miss Clara Meyer, aged 21, made a second and successful attempt.

She threw herself upon a bed with a stick pinned to her chest and a gun sending a bullet through her breast about five minutes.

In her first attempt to end her life, which was about five weeks ago, she jumped from a train going at forty miles an hour, near McGregor, Iowa. She was not hurt.

Paris, Aug. 30.—The foreign office has issued an announcement to the effect that today or tomorrow the French minister at Fez, St. Rene Taillandier, will be able to address a final summons to the Moroccan foreign office relating to the release of the French-Algerian merchant, Bouzain. The minister at the same time will advise the Moroccan government of his intention to leave Fez if the demand for the release of Bouzain and redress for his arrest be not complied with. Mr. Taillandier will be instructed to reach Tangier by the shortest route, and to take such steps as may be deemed necessary after his arrival there, if, in the meantime, the demands remain unmet.

Dispatches from Toulon to the French newspapers announce that in view of the trouble with Morocco, the cruisers Chanier, Bruix, Pothuau, Chanzy, La Touche-Treville and Requin are being held in readiness.

THE FILIPINOS ARE TOTALLY UNFIT FOR SELF GOVERNMENT

Manila, Aug. 30.—The last session of the conference with the agitators for the independence of the Philippine islands developed the fact, according to a consensus of opinion among the congressmen present, that the Filipinos are altogether unfit for immediate independence. Apart from the problems presented in the civilization of the Igorotes, the Moros, Macabees and other tribes, it would be cruel, it is believed, to the people at large to turn them over to the mercies of theologists and demagogues. They would then experience the worst kind of exploitation. The statements of the speakers at the meeting were widely divergent, the mercenary faction being in contrast with the native agitators.

The provincial governors when they were heard, emphatically declared that the whole people of the islands were unfit for independence for many years. It developed during the session that the two principal agitators had been under sentence for various crimes.

Secretary Taft, Miss Roosevelt and Bourke Cockran visited several of the Catholic colleges, which conferred honors on the gentlemen and presented souvenirs to the ladies of the party.

KOREANS TO DISMISS THEIR AMERICAN CUSTOMS OFFICER

Seoul, Aug. 30.—John McLeavy Brown, who for twelve years past has been at the head of the Korean customs, is to be dismissed. This is probably due to the fact that the customs administration has been undertaken by M. In 1901 Russia attempted to oust Brown, who was retained, however, owing to the support of the governments of Great Britain and America. Since the Japanese influence has predominated at the Korean court, it has been expected that they would take over the control of the customs, but it was recently reported that they had arrested, when they explained that they intended to dismiss Mr. Brown, who was retained, however, owing to the support of the governments of Great Britain and America. EXPERTS ARE FAST FRAMING DOCUMENT

While the credentials of Baron Komura, under regular Japanese procedure, reserved to the Mikado the right to sanction the treaty, that is regarded as a mere formality.

The Russians continue to regard the agreement reached as a wonderful victory. The highest Russian authority, speaking of what would have happened if peace had not been made, said: "Consider the military situation from the Russian standpoint in the most favorable light. Assume that the Russian arms would have been successful. Lincolnton's victorious army would force Oyama to Liangyang, possibly to Hsicheng. Practically we obtain in this treaty what we would have had to buy with victories. Had defeat come—who knows what else we should in the end have been obliged to yield."

Much interesting history behind the conference remains to be written. No one yet knows exactly what considerations induced the Tokyo government to waive all demands for cash. While it is known that President Roosevelt was continuing his labors to the last, it is not possible to make any definite statement as to whether, at the end, he advised Japan to forego entirely punitive demands. It can be stated, however, the authority of the Japanese mission that he was originally of the opinion that Japan should not demand indemnity, and it is, therefore, possible that he may have urged this view at Tokyo when he found that Russia was obdurate. In his communication to Emperor Nicholas, through Ambassador Meyer, last week while the Japanese were insisting on indirect remuneration for the cost of the war, it is beyond question that he stated in the Associated Press dispatches, that he urged on the czar the expediency of accepting a compromise, by which there was a cession price of the north half of Sakhalin should be determined by some sort of impartial board or commission.

All the senseless gossip about Emperor William throwing his influence against peace is now completely exploded. In addition to the authorized denial sent by Prince Von Buelow to the Associated Press, the Russian envoys have received information direct from Peterhof, showing that Bismarck-Willman was urging peace on the czar with as much earnestness as the president.

No final arrangements about an armistice have yet been agreed to. Mr. Takahira said today that as soon as the treaty was signed he and Baron Komura would go to Oyster Bay to thank personally the president. The members of the Japanese colony today are getting over their disappointment, recognizing that peace even without money remuneration, is better than a continuation of the war.

Unless there is a change of program, the treaty of peace between Russia and Japan will be signed in the navy general store at Oyster Bay, where all the sessions of the conference have been held. In this case it will go down in history as the "treaty of Portsmouth."

The reports that the envoys have formally agreed that such shall be its name is, however, incorrect.

The name of a treaty has rarely been the subject of an official agreement. The treaty takes its title from the place where it is signed. Still, so mindful are the envoys of the president's part in the work of yesterday that it is the belief here that he may be consulted informally before a final decision is reached regarding the place of signature. Deference undoubtedly will be given to such preference if any, as the president may have in the matter.

NEWS OF PEACE Received With Satisfaction All Over the World.

Marinebad, Aug. 30.—King Edward immediately upon receipt of the peace news telegraphed his thanks to the emperors of Japan and Russia and to President Roosevelt.

Copenhagen, Aug. 30.—General expressions of satisfaction are heard here, in court and official circles over the peace news.

Berlin, Aug. 30.—Chancellor von Buelow, in acknowledgment of the cable dispatch from the Associated Press announcing the conclusion of peace and the outline of the terms says: "In the reception of this fortunate result the German advocates of peace are in full agreement with the Americans."

Saratoff, Russia, Aug. 30.—The people here received the press announcement of peace with Japan with joy. The extra editions of the newspapers were bought with avidity and the newspaper offices were in constant receipt of telephone messages asking for details.

CONGRATULATIONS

Pour In on the President From All Quarters.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 30.—Crowned heads of the world unite with distinguished statesmen of America and Europe in according the glory of peace between Russia and Japan to President Roosevelt. Throughout last night and today, telegrams of congratulation poured in on the president in a great flood. They came from persons of high degree and of low, and from all quarters of the civilized world.

Among the first messages received, was one from the king of England, as follows: "Marinebad, Aug. 29.—The President: Let me be one of the first to congratulate you on the success of the peace conference to which you have so greatly contributed."

"EDWARD, R. I."

Soon afterward a cordial cablegram was received from Emperor William of Germany. It read:

"Neus Palais, Aug. 29.—President Roosevelt: Just received cable from America announcing agreement of peace. I am overjoyed; express most sincere congratulations at the success due to your untiring efforts. The whole of mankind must unite, and will do so, in thanking you for the great boon you have given it."

"WILLIAM, I. R."

Ambassador Jusserand of France sent this cablegram: "London, Aug. 30.—President Roosevelt: Heartiest, warmest congratulations."

"JUSSERAND."

Telegrams were received from diplomatic representatives of the foreign governments in this government from Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador; from Mayer Desplanches, ambassador of Italy; and from Sir Chen Wang, Chinese minister.

JAPANESE SUPREMACY

In the Far East Is Now Practically Impregnable.

London, Aug. 30.—The news of the conclusion of peace at Portsmouth reached London so late last evening that with the exception of official and diplomatic circles and those who were in the city at a late hour the announcement in the morning papers came as a complete surprise. Even many cabinet officers and other higher officials were ignorant of the momentous event until today, as those who compose the official and social circles in England are now gathered around the moors, some of them out of reach of the telegraph, for grouse shooting. With the general public, the news was received with the greatest satisfaction and admiration for Japan's "sacrifices in the cause of peace."

The announcement that peace had been arranged caused the stock markets to open with a somewhat buoyant tendency, today, and prices established a smart advance, particularly in the case of Russian bonds which gained points. Japanese bonds were also affected, but not to such a great extent, they opening at 1 1/2 points higher. Consols advanced a 1/4 point and Americans generally stronger. There was moderate excitement at the opening of the markets.

The evening papers follow the lead of the morning newspapers in bestowing unstinted praise on President Roosevelt to whom they give the fullest credit for the outcome of the conference whose decision was entirely at variance with their daily predictions since the open-

Two Farmers Almost Gored to Death By Ugly Bull.

Stephenson—Gored to death by a bull was the fate which came within a narrow margin of overtaking Fred Crane, Jr., a young farmer. He escaped only after a thrilling encounter with a vicious animal and the timely intervention of a neighbor.

Crane was attacked by the animal while crossing a field, and the fact that he was armed with a pitchfork proved decidedly fortunate. Man and bull fought for fifteen minutes, and the farmer was rapidly becoming exhausted when Addison Clark, who had witnessed the encounter from a distance, also carrying a pitchfork. The bull then turned upon Clark, who also came near being gored, when Crane, having recovered sufficiently, joined in the battle. Between them they managed to hold the animal at bay until they could scramble over a nearby fence.

Beecher—Fat Walker and Jack Williams were struck by a passenger train last night. Walker had his back severely injured and both legs broken. He will probably recover. Williams was not hurt.

Newberry—John H. Foster & Sons of Milwaukee have been awarded the contract for the construction of the new cottage to be added to the buildings at the state insane asylum here.

Manistique—Frank Lavigne, baggage-master at the Soo line station at Manistique, is congratulating himself as a fortunate man. After an absence of over twenty years, during which time she was supposed to be dead, he has discovered the whereabouts of his sister, now Mrs. A. O. Bergin of Fair Maple, Ala.

Ishteping—The sawmill of F. W. Road & Co., at Michigamme, has been closed for the season, due to a shortage of logs, the result of the heavy snow, which badly hampered logging operations last winter.

Manistique—Frank Lavigne, baggage-master at the Soo line station at Manistique, is congratulating himself as a fortunate man. After an absence of over twenty years, during which time she was supposed to be dead, he has discovered the whereabouts of his sister, now Mrs. A. O. Bergin of Fair Maple, Ala.

The most important factor which has contributed to the decline of the overcoat is the great improvement in transit, says the journal. The man who invented the electric tramway did a great deal to kill the heavy overcoat, and the issue of workmen's tickets has completed the thing. GREAT CROWD ON EXCURSION

Herald's Lake Trip Especially Pleasant—Another to Be Given.

With the citizens of Duluth enduring 91 degrees of heat, The Herald lake excursion was more than ever attractive yesterday afternoon, and at 4 o'clock, when the boat left the dock, many number of people who were unable to go thought longingly of the cool trip on Superior.

A large crowd, but one that was comfortably accommodated by the America, enjoyed the trip to Two Harbors, where the excursionists enjoyed their supper, some on the boat, others on the lake shore and others at the hotel. The boat remained in port an hour, and at 7 o'clock the return trip was begun.

The night was a beautiful one in any place, but the beauty of the night was always more appealing and more greatly appreciated on the water. The excursion boat was the North West coming from the lower lake.

A large number of visitors to the city were present at yesterday's excursion, enjoying to the utmost the short outing on the lake.

The last of The Herald excursions will be given on Tuesday, September 12th, at the usual time, 4 o'clock in the afternoon, returning at 9 o'clock.

BOW BELLS TO RING AGAIN.

Chime May Bring Another Whittington to London.

London, Aug. 30.—Bow Bells are once more to ring out in chimes about the noise of London's traffic. This is chiefly due to the keen interest taken in a historic church by the rector, the Rev. A. W. Huton, who holds a curious record. He was early in life ordained an English clergyman, but then became a Roman Catholic, leaving that church after seven years. He was at one time familiar as the keeper of the Gladstone library at the National Liberal club, which he successfully succeeded in the incumbent at the City church in Chesapeake.

No peal of bells in England is more familiar than that of Bow church. The famous story of Dick Whittington centers around them, and it is the old chime of "Turn Again, Whittington, Lord Mayor of London," which is to ring out on the full set of twelve bells. These were rehung two years ago. They have now been seen to once more the very first who cast the first of them as far back as 1663. That was after the great fire, when Wren had rebuilt the church as it is now known, and there is no doubt in the minds of antiquarians that the metal used was from the old bells which had melted in that outbreak. The firm was then Lester & Pack, and their records show that the tenor bell was cast in 1663. It was recast by them in 1728, and in 1752 nine more were added. Two more, making a dozen, were hung in 1881. The tenor weighs 5,800 pounds.

For the purposes of the new chimes an automatic apparatus is being fitted to the clock by a Clerkenwell firm, and the bells will ring at the quarters. Mr. Hughes, who is an expert in these matters and himself not only a bell founder but an expert bell ringer, has the work in hand of rehanging the peal. They were rung for the first time this week. Mr. Hughes belongs to the firm of Messrs. N. & S. Bank, and he says that automatic apparatus for chiming are very few in this country.

Fall Colonists' Rates.

The Great Northern has announced that its annual fall one-way colonist to Western points will go into effect Sept. 15. The low-price tickets to points in Idaho, Washington, Oregon, British Columbia and California will be on sale daily from that date until Oct. 31, sixteen days longer than was the case last year. The rates will remain unchanged from those of last year.

The same road has also announced that special rates for "Ben Hur" to be at the Lyceum in Duluth the week of Sept. 11, will be in effect Sept. 11 and 12 from all points east of Bemidji, north of Hineley and points on the range branch.

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

Workman on Ziner Ranch Killed By the Proprietor.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Dickinson—Count K. Clemie was Tuesday shot and killed by Charles Hartwell, at the Ziner ranch, northwest of here. Hartwell was the principal witness for the defense in the trial of Clemie for the alleged murder of Ole P. Ziner. Ziner was shot and instantly killed by Clemie in May, 1904. Clemie claimed self-defense, and on his trial was acquitted. Afterward he bought Ziner's ranch, and Hartwell since has been working for him. Hartwell gave himself up, and claims the shooting was accidental.

Fargo—The appeal of the Western Express company, which operates on the Soo road through this state, will be heard before the United States court of appeals at Cheyenne, Wyo., next week. Assistant United States District Attorney Townsend of this city will represent the government.

Some months ago Judge Amidon of this district held that the express company would have to take out a liquor license for every station in the state as it was conducting a c. o. d. liquor business by delivering original packages of "booze" to anyone who would pay the charges, after the packages had been shipped under fictitious names. The company appealed and will carry it up to the supreme court if it loses before the court of appeals.

Valley City—There was a head-on collision in the Northern Pacific yards in this city Monday. A stock train from the West ran into the rear end of a freight that was pulling out for the East. On account of the heavy grade, pushing engines have to be used out of this city, and one of these engines, headed toward the West, was helping the freight out of town. Fortunately nobody was injured.

The tender of Engine 141 of the stock train was forced off its tracks and backed through a stock car, tearing the car to pieces and releasing a carload of Montana cattle. The caboose on the freight was badly damaged, and both engines lost their pilots. A wrecker was sent from Jamestown to right things.

SOUTH DAKOTA.

Pierre—While digging under an old building for the purpose of leveling it, a human skeleton was unearthed just below the surface. The skull was not found, so it was impossible to say whether the bones were those of a white man or an Indian. It is recalled that in early days the site was one of the toughest gambling joints in the old town, and it is believed that the bones are those of one of the victims of the gang which made its headquarters around the place.

As an echo of the fight on C. A. Kelly, Huron, Governor Elrod has canceled the notarial commission granted to Kelly.

The price being paid for sheep in this section is too low to be a temptation for many of the owners to resist, and they are closing out their herds. It is estimated that over 10,000 head of sheep will be shipped from here this fall.

Bath—The village schools will open next Monday. The principal, J. Jorgensen, is principal and the Misses Ethel Hickman and Evenson are the assistants.

The farmers' elevator, sold under mortgage a year ago, and bought by some of the old stockholders, has just been reopened. Mr. Ray of Andover has been appointed buyer.

Miller—While Mrs. George Dixon of Canning was picking beans she took hold of a rattlesnake which she let go. She so quickly that it did not bite her. She then went to the potato row and discovered another rattler. Both snakes were killed.

Andover—The artesian well outfit arrived today and Andover will soon have a new four-and-a-half-inch well. A new sewer is being put in on Third avenue.

Aberdeen—The annual flower show will be held at A. W. Voedsch's store on Wednesday and Thursday. There are many entries and the show promises to be a great success. Exhibits are limited to Aberdeen outdoor-grown flowers. Valuable prizes are offered in the different classes.

Milbank—The Milwaukee company is investigating the idea of a new station between Summit and Waubesa. The farmers in that vicinity have been working for a station for many years, and have appealed to the railroad company for an order to have a sidetrack put in at Sand Cut, seven miles west of Summit. Webster citizens have at last interested the railroad company and a new town will be started if the country tributary warrants it.

West Duluth.

Miss Mary Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson of New Duluth will be married this evening at the home of her parents to Elmer J. Schweizer of Selma, Ala. The ceremony, which will take place at 8 o'clock, will be performed by Rev. Peter Knudsen, pastor of the New Duluth Presbyterian church. The bride will be attended by Miss Florence White and the best man will be Mr. Gooch.

Tomorrow evening the young couple will leave on a lake steamer for Cleveland and will visit there, at Cincinnati and other points before going to their home at Selma, Ala.

Wade's Fish Story.

Frank H. Wade is telling a story that is the prize one of the fishing season. He, Frank Porceny and others were up the St. Louis river a few days ago fishing and according to Mr. Wade, Mr. Porceny hooked a bass. Just as Wade was about to land the fish, a large pickerel seized the bass and was almost pulled out of the water in its attempt to secure its victim. When Mr. Wade tells this story he is looked Street Car Delays.

Now that the paving work on West Superior street is going on and the tracks are being torn up to be replaced by new rails, considerable inconvenience is being experienced by people riding on the cars between West Duluth and the city proper. There are several switches necessary and the transferring of cars from track to track makes considerable delay.

PRIEST WAS BURIED ALIVE

Thrown Into Grave With a Corpse By Russian Peasants.

Odessa, Aug. 30.—A pope, or Russian village priest, has been buried alive by a mob of peasants at Svinio Kriviza in the Crimea.

The pope had ascribed the prolonged drought which had ruined their crops this season to the death of a certain old man who had been regarded as an "opry" or wizard, no rain having fallen since his burial in March last.

According to the popular superstition, it was necessary, in order to appease the sorcerer's spirit, that his remains should be exhumed at midnight and after being sprinkled with holy water by a priest, be placed in the grave.

Accordingly, on Sunday night a procession of villagers, headed by boys and girls carrying torches and accompanied by fidlers and flutists playing dismal dirges, set out for the cemetery.

The body of the dead wizard was duly exhumed and placed in a sitting posture

This business was sold out four years ago to the Weyerhaeuser syndicate. Mr. Johnson then took a job in California, finally locating in the latter state. With several Eastern men, such as the Lambs, Carpenters and Hixons, they secured a contract for a mill with mills on the McCloud river near Mount Shasta. In a year's time they had a saw mill capable of cutting 100,000 feet of lumber annually. The McCloud River Lumber company with $5,000,000 capital and cutting 100,000,000 feet of lumber annually. These figures indicate the size of the lumber business. Mr. Johnson was president and manager.

Mr. Johnson was well-known in Duluth, being a frequent visitor to this city, and his removal to the Pacific Coast.

Railroads.

NEED LONG FALL

Railroad Contractors Are Hoping For Continuance of Good Weather.

Last Day For Sale of Special Harvest Tickets.

A long fall and a dry one is now hoped for and prayed for by the railroad contractors in Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin and the Dakotas. Where several railroad jobs have been in progress during the summer there has been so much rain that the work has been interfered with to a considerable extent, and nothing but a very favorable fall will allow the proper completion of several of the new Wisconsin Central lines, and of the new road being built northwest from Akeley for logging purposes by the Red River Lumber company. This concern has telegraphed the local office of the National Employment company to the effect that all the men who can be sent forward will be given employment. The wages offered are the highest paid for common railroad work this year, $2.50 a day, with free fare. As an additional inducement the latter concern guarantees all the men work at good wages in the woods when the other job is finished.

Announcement of the letting of the contract for the construction of the Lake Superior & Southern, the new Wisconsin Central line, from Ladysmith to Duluth, will be made within the next few days, it is expected. This contract will call for several hundred men. Contractors are also calling for men of the railroad work near McIntosh, Stanley and Taylor, Wis. At Peppard & Co. have quite an extensive contract for changing the grade of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic road between Elbow, Wis. and Saxon.

Aside from delaying the work in other ways, the spells of wet weather have had a tendency to make the men leave their positions to seek work where they would be sure of steady employment. After they have once hired out the men do not like the idea of having to go off frequently on account of wet weather.

THE HARVEST TICKETS.

Last Day of Sale—2,500 Disposed of.

This is the last day on which the special harvest rates to Western points can be taken advantage of. The low-rate tickets were on sale for two weeks of the month, and a total of about 2,500 have been sold by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern roads. The Great Northern disposed of 1,400 for the greater number of these, for its lines tap more of the grain country than do those of the other road.

be taken advantage of. The low-rate tickets were on sale for two weeks of the month, and a total of about 2,500 have been sold by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern roads. The Great Northern disposed of 1,400 for the greater number of these, for its lines tap more of the grain country than do those of the other road.

WESTERN PACIFIC.

New Line From Oakland to Salt Lake City.

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—The directors of the Western Pacific have awarded contracts for the building of practically the entire line from Oakland to Salt Lake City. The names of the successful bidders, as well as the details and terms of the contracts have not been made public. It is understood that the aggregate amount of the several contracts for construction is between $5,000,000 and $5,500,000.

Home-seekers' Rates.

The Northern Pacific and Great Northern roads are announcing a series of home-seekers' rates that will apply from Duluth, among other points to places in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Western Ontario, Saskatchewan and Assiniboia, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and British Columbia. The rate made for the round trip is one fare plus 25 cents with the first return limit of twenty-one days. The series cover certain dates from the last of August to and including Nov. 28. The Great Northern will also sell tickets on the same basis to South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska points on Dec. 5 and 19.

L. R. Robinson Appointed.

Langston R. Robinson, formerly of Duluth, has been appointed general travel agent of the Lehigh & Wabash Dispatch. Mr. Robinson was formerly general agent of the Union Transit Co. in Duluth, and left for the Pacific coast when the company went out of business two years ago.

Praise For Line.

Honore M. Allen, retiring American minister from Korea, who passed through Duluth a short time ago on his way East, has written the Great Northern officials expressing the pleasure his trip through Duluth and down the lakes on the steamship North West gave him. He speaks particularly of the Pacific ocean steamer Minnesota, saying it is the best vessel he was ever able to ride on without becoming seasick.

A Complete Trunk and Bag Store!

You don't know what a complete trunk store is until you have seen the new Trunk Department on our second floor.

It is complete, from the cheap $3.50 trunk to the most expensive, satin-lined leather trunk and wardrobe trunk for ladies.

We venture to say that no such stock of suit cases and bags was ever before under one roof in Duluth.

OUR SPECIAL $5 SUIT CASE, in sizes 22, 24 and 26, is made of sole leather and with seamless handle. We think it is better than the case sold at other stores for $6—in fact, we know this to be the case.

West Duluth. YOUNG MAN KILLED

Son of Mrs. S. G. Briggs Meets Death at Goodland.

Particulars of Accident Are Unknown—Cholera Infantum Victims.

Mrs. S. G. Briggs, wife of the pastor of Merritt Memorial church received the sad news this morning that her son, B. B. Ferguson, was killed at Goodland yesterday. The young man who was 27 years of age was married and had one child. He was working at Goodland and had lived there about a year and a half. Just what he was doing or how he was killed is not yet known.

Goodland is a small station on the Great Northern road about twenty miles from Duluth, among other points to places in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Western Ontario, Saskatchewan and Assiniboia, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and British Columbia. The rate made for the round trip is one fare plus 25 cents with the first return limit of twenty-one days. The series cover certain dates from the last of August to and including Nov. 28. The Great Northern will also sell tickets on the same basis to South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska points on Dec. 5 and 19.

CHOLERA INFANTUM.

Many Babies Are Dying of This Complaint.

Of late quite a number of infants have died in West Duluth, the greater number being from cholera infantum. That dread malady of babies claimed another victim today, Dorothy Grampp, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Grampp of 104 Thirty-ninth avenue west died this morning. The child was born on the 10th of July, and was 15 months old. She was taken to the hospital on the 29th of August, and died on the 30th. The cause of death was cholera infantum, a disease which is most prevalent in the summer months. The child was born at the home of her mother, and was taken to the hospital on the 29th of August, and died on the 30th.

FOR STEALING ROWBOAT

Four West Duluth Boys Are Placed Under Arrest.

Accused of stealing a rowboat from Johnson at Fortieth avenue west, four boys, none of whom are over 17 years of age, were arrested by Officers Stewart and Toewe this morning and locked up. The boys, who are all from West Duluth, gave their names as Arthur Conway, Edward Anderson, Charles Kennerly and Peter Allard. It is claimed that they took the boat Sunday night from the boat house near the Murray & Jones mill, and rowed to the Alger & Smith dock. The following morning they took it on to a boat house in West Duluth, and it is claimed, were planning to return it in order to avoid detection, when the police learned of its whereabouts. The four boys will be arraigned on a petty larceny charge this afternoon.

DEAD UNCLE'S WEALTH.

Fortune From South America Comes to Laborers.

Lyons, Aug. 31.—Simon Hasselbach and Fred and Henry Creager are relatives of Henry Hasselbach, who went to Brazil years ago. The latter died recently and left an immense fortune. The local heirs have received notice to prove their claims to the estate. Simon Hasselbach, a watchmaker at the Lyons Beet Sugar Refining company plant, will receive $20,000, while the shares of the Creager brothers, to whom Henry Hasselbach is a great uncle, will be about $5,000 each. Mr. Hasselbach made his fortune in the mining district of South America, having fallen in with prospectors soon after arriving there.

VULCAN'S WORKSHOP

Where Mighty Smithy Forges Lightning Bolts.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 31.—A mysterious magnetic field in the southwestern part of Lake county is attracting no little attention among local scientific minds and arousing much interest because of the strange and unusual phenomena which are being observed. The territory covered by the strange and weird electrical manifestations embraces only a few square miles in West Creek township, one of the southern townships, and is located a few miles north of the great Kankakee marshes.

GOODWIN OUT OF DANGER.

Friends Are Permitted to Call Upon Him.

Cambridge, Minn., Aug. 31.—County Attorney C. G. Goodwin, who has a bullet in his breast, fired by himself when in a frenzy, is pronounced out of danger by his physician. Friends are permitted to call upon him, but he does not like to talk about the sensational affair. He remarked yesterday to a friend that it was the constant nagging of his mother, who was jealous of him, that drove him to make the attempt upon his life. Goodwin's mother is delighted with the improvement in his condition. She declared that if he died she also wanted to die and be buried with him.

The Largest Locomotive.

The largest locomotive ever constructed was on exhibition at the St. Louis fair last year. It is to be used for hauling heavy trains in the grades, thus removing the necessity for using extra engines. The best motive power ever compounded for the locomotive is the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Backed by over 50 years of the most scientific and successful treatment, it is the only remedy for every sick man and woman who want to get well and strong again. Nothing else can take its place in cases of sick headache, insomnia, nervousness, constiveness, heartburn, belching, bloating, indigestion, dyspepsia, female disorders, cramps, pains in the back, or malaria, fever and ague. Get a bottle of the Bitters from your drugist today and give it a chance to cure you and make you well again.

HOLD LAW GOOD Wholesale Liquor Sales- man Remanded to Sheriff's Custody.

Court Rules on Intent Not Wording of Law.

Louis Patterson, salesman for the California Wine House of St. Paul, who was arrested, with a view to testing the new state law prohibiting the sale of liquor in certain quantities to other than those holding liquor licenses, has had his application for a writ of habeas corpus denied by Judge Cant and remanded to the custody of Sheriff Bates.

In rendering the court places a liberal construction on the law and contends that it is the intent and not always the wording of a law that should be considered. The court cites instances where words may be omitted, added or even substituted in a law to carry out its intent, and this ruling says that the new law cannot be held as meaningless and a dead letter.

With the order the court files the following memorandum:

"Section 346, law of 1905, which prohibits anyone, not licensed in accordance with section 2, from soliciting any one not having a license to keep a saloon, to buy or contract for the future delivery of spirituous or vinous liquor in any less quantity than five gallons."

"Sec. 2 provides for a license for soliciting any one not having a license to keep a saloon, in quantities not less than five gallons, to others than such as are licensed to keep a saloon."

"The inconsistency as to the number of gallons in section 2 and section 3 is the only matter of importance."

"The contention of counsel for relator is that the statute intends to make unlawful a sale in quantities not less than five gallons, but that it does not make lawful a sale in quantities less than five gallons; and his contention, therefore, is that the statute is so inconsistent that it must be held entirely meaningless and of no effect whatever."

"In construing a statute it is the purpose of the court to reach the true intent of the legislature. When by any reasonable interpretation it may be ascertained that the legislature intended to make a law, it is the duty of the court to give effect to the intent of the legislature."

"It is not the duty of the court to disregard the intent of the legislature, but to give effect to it. If the legislature intended to make a law, it is the duty of the court to give effect to it. If the legislature intended to make a law, it is the duty of the court to give effect to it."

"The court is of the opinion that the legislature intended to make a law, and that the court should give effect to the intent of the legislature."

NOT CITY'S TURN

Claimed That School Board and County Should Retrench.

The City Alone Decreased Its Levy Last Year

That it is now the turn of the county and the school board to lower their tax rates, is the opinion of the city officials, and it is likely that when the conference committee meets on September 15 to fix the levy for city purposes, the figures decided upon will be practically the same as last year.

A raise in the rate will be avoided if possible, but with the many expenditures to which the city is already committed, it is difficult to see how the levy can be reduced any considerable amount, and it will probably be fixed at approximately the same figure as last year.

"The city has lowered its tax rate for two years in succession now," said one of the city officials this morning. "The rate for city purposes was cut from 17 mills to 15 and then to 14. All this time the city has been growing and increasing expenditures are necessary from year to year."

"But the city officers have not had much encouragement to lower their rates, as whatever is lowered by the city is apparently added on by the county and the school board. Last year the board of education raised its rate two mills, when it was already very high. It may have been necessary, but when it was done the citizens did not pay much attention to it, and when the time came to pay taxes there was a howl about the city administration being extravagant."

"The county also raised its levy a trifle last year, and the city levy is the only one of the three to be reduced."

"Now it seems to me that it is the turn of the county and the school board to make reductions in their estimates, if the demands of the taxpayers for a lower rate are to be complied with. With the city already pledged to a garbage crematory, and with more money needed in the police and fire departments, and the street improvements that are necessary, it is hard to see how very much can be taken off the city's tax levy. Some of the estimates from the heads of the departments are going to be sliced down by the conference committee, and I do not believe any raise in the tax levy for city purposes will be allowed, but any material reduction cannot be expected."

The exact levy for city purposes cannot be estimated until the state board completes its review of the assessment rolls, but it is not likely that that will vary more than half a mill from last year's figures, which were 14.8 mills.

The levy is fixed by the conference committee, which is composed of the mayor, the city treasurer, the city comptroller, the city engineer, the president of the council, the president of the board of public works, the president of the fire board, the president of the water board, the president of the library board, and the president of the park board.

The meeting for the purpose will be held on Sept. 15, and the figures will be sent to the council for approval. The council has power to change the appropriations for the different departments, but cannot increase the gross amount of the levy.

GLAD TO BE ARRESTED.
Gus Bobbs Who Stole $10,000 in Chicago.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—"I took $3,500 in gold intrusted to me by Charles A. Stevens & Brothers of Chicago and fled from the city. I am guilty and am anxious to return to Chicago and face the charges that have been preferred against me."

This statement was made in the Seattle city jail by Gus Bobbs, wanted in Chicago for embezzlement. Bobbs was arrested at the Washington hotel Monday by Special Officer Clark of the police department, upon information furnished by S. S. Anderson, a hotel clerk.

Bobbs made a complete confession of the crime and related in detail his wanderings since he fled from Chicago ten days ago.

"No one was implicated with me in the theft," he said. "I was alone and the crime on the spur of the moment. I was entrusted with the package containing the $3,500 in gold and $500 in checks. A desire to possess the wealth caused me to take the money and leave the city."

"I purchased a ticket to New York city to throw off my pursuers and then boarded a train for Milwaukee. I secured a ticket to Minneapolis, where I remained three days. Then I bought a ticket to Portland, but got off the train in Seattle, and I have been here ever since."

"I would give anything in the world to undo what I have done. I have spent about $700 of the money I took, but I got no enjoyment out of it. I drank a little wine, but I couldn't sleep. I couldn't eat."

He was 45 years of age before he had any idea of grammars, and then, for a short time, in a desultory manner, he took up the study of Turkish grammar. He knows no foreign languages, and he never reads any newspapers. His intellect is far below the plane of other members of the Osman family.

WOMEN'S SOCIAL MUSICAL CLUB

"I was so hoping," said a young woman the other day, that when fall came, and the first nip of frost was suggested in the air, that the price of lingerie waists would come down. But my dear! Have you been to see them lately, at all? No? Well, all I can say is, unless you've got your heart well protected from shock by a well-filled pocketbook, I went in the other day to look at lingerie waists, and I had a sort of an idea what I wanted. Well, I looked and loved them, they were so perfect, so adorable, with all those dear little tucks and lovely hand embroidery, and maybe a bit of lace and a cunning pearl button or two, and I felt that I must have one, and I decided to take it. As a mere matter of fact I asked the price, and it was $15.75. I gasped, and only said I guessed I didn't want one today, and the lady behind the counter smiled audibly and put the dear thing away with an air that was unspeakable, but which nevertheless conveyed the meaning that life was so bare when one had to waste one's time waiting upon a poverty-stricken individual. But when she closed that waist into its speckled glass case my mental attitude was that of the small boy who presses his nose flat against the pane of glass that shuts him out from some good candy. But think of the price of that waist of lingerie, a thing which, no matter how expensive it becomes, is only a little old waist for all that. They had them at $25, mere morsels of marvelous daintiness, but when one employs one's self for several things, lingerie waists of this type are rather prohibitive.

Lingerie waists are attracting a great share of attention at this time, and it seems that they will continue to do so the entire winter season. During the summer they have received much attention and admiration, but the woman who has neglected them thus far must, if she be in the fashion at all, turn her eye and attention, and incidentally her pocket, to lingerie waists. Beside deep red and heavy brocade, and beautiful, shimmering tulle, the fore-runners of the fall and winter season of waists, the beauty of the waist is, of course, destroyed if underneath there is a suggestion of heavy undergarments, but in Duluth's climate, after October, whether the heavens are suggested in appearance or not, it is absolutely necessary to have, unless one is planning to leave this world suddenly by the pneumonia route. So one of the enterprising Duluth merchants is showing in connection with his lingerie waists, little soft slips of china silk. They are made of the softest and daintiest of silks, very simply, with a few tucks over the shoulders for fullness, large, full sleeves, and a little straight collar. They are shown in white, lavender, pink and blue, so that they make the lingerie waist a possible thing in this northern climate, even in the winter months. The girl who is not busy yet with her fall wardrobe will be wise to fashion one or two of these dainty waists, with a corresponding underslip of white or dainty color, for during the entire season they will be quite correct for theater wear.

Visitors Entertained.

Mrs. H. F. Greene of Washington and Miss Clarke of Sarina, Ont., were the guests of honor at a pretty affair, given yesterday afternoon, at which Mrs. J. R. McGilfert of 15 East Third street was hostess. The rooms were prettily decorated in the morning garden flowers, and a number of the Duluth friends of the guests of honor called during the afternoon. Mrs. Greene is well known here, having formerly made her home in this city.

ART AND ECONOMY BLENDED IN THE KIMBALL SYSTEM OF PIANO SELLING!

Art, in the popular and proper sense, means everything which we distinguish from nature. Art consists in doing Science consists in knowing. The KIMBALL PIANO factory contains a greater number of expert workmen and a greater amount of scientific piano knowledge than any piano factory in the world.

Therefore the finished product—KIMBALL PIANOS—represents the very best of the piano makers' art, as is fully evidenced by the hearty endorsement given KIMBALL PIANOS by the world's greatest musicians.

SYSTEM THAT SAVES YOU MONEY.

The Kimball system of piano manufacturing and selling is a perfect blending of science, art and economy. It is a plan; a system whereby you get the best possible musical value at a minimum price.

When you start out to buy a piano, a painting or piece of statuary, you not only want to know something of the artistic and scientific bent of the producer, but you want to know the ability and facilities of the seller to make you the right price.

Investigate the Kimball System; you'll find it saves you a considerable sum of money in your purchase of either a piano, reed or pipe organ, or a piano player.

We have just received a carload of Pianos at our Duluth store. Very best selection for the early purchasers.

ELMQUIST CALLED

Bethany Lutheran Church Asks Old Pastor to Come Back.

Congregation Offers Raise in Salary and Other Inducements.

The congregation of Bethany Lutheran church at Twenty-third avenue west and Third street last night voted to recall the former pastor, Rev. A. F. Elmquist. Dr. Elmquist left the church in June to take the pastorate of St. John's English Lutheran church of Minneapolis and it is not known what his attitude will be toward this recall. The congregation offers a raise of $300 a year, a free parsonage and a Christmas offering.

The vote at last night's meeting stood 116 votes to recall and 40 votes against it. As the majority had seven votes over the required two-thirds the recall side won and Mr. Elmquist will be asked to return.

It is claimed that the congregation realizes that it was a grievous mistake never to have allowed Mr. Elmquist to leave, but they let the matter drift along in the belief that he would not be so soon to get him back. The large majority of the congregation wants him back however, and claims that his pastorate has been a success. The church council and advisory board is supposed to first recommend to the congregation a clergyman for pastor and the congregation then votes on him. This time, however, there was an exception. The council and advisory board could not decide upon the Rev. A. F. Elmquist, and his name was voted being a tie. Dr. Elmquist's name was presented to the congregation at the request of a large number of the congregation itself, with the result stated.

A committee will go to Minneapolis today to ask Rev. Mr. Elmquist to accept the call and his answer will be known in a few days.

SHE REGRETS

HE RETURNED

Iowa Man Comes Back to

Wife After Thirty

Years.

Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 31.—Like Enoch Arden, whose example he emulated, it was written of Edward Mundy, the Dickinson county man, who rejoined his family three weeks ago after an absence of thirty years, during which he was believed dead, that he "lived happy ever after."

Although he found his wife still free to permit him to resume his life, she was not so disposed. As a matter of fact, she says she had been married to him for thirty years.

That there is some method in her madness is obvious when it is known that which Mundy served his country like a true patriot. Mundy scarcely knows his own family, and his wife, who is now a widow for a quarter of a century, she has been married to him for thirty years.

Then, too, it is equally true that Mrs. Mundy has just returned to her home, and that Mundy has just returned to his home.

And a burden it was to Mundy to account for his prolonged absence during which he had been married to her for thirty years.

And a burden it was to Mundy to account for his prolonged absence during which he had been married to her for thirty years.

SCHOOL IS READY

New Washburn Building at Hunter's Park Is Completed.

Tax Levy For School Purposes to Be Considered.

The new J. L. Washburn school at Hunter's Park is now practically complete, and ready for the seats.

It is expected that the new building will be completed and ready for use when the school year commences a week from Monday. The seats have been ordered and will be placed in position during the coming week. Some minor details in the interior finishing will be completed before the building is otherwise ready for occupancy.

The regular monthly meeting of the school board will be held tomorrow evening. Outside of the regular routine business, there is little of special interest to the school matter to be disposed of.

The committee on buildings and grounds will submit a report on the repairs to be made to the school building during the summer months, and preparations will be made for opening the building a week from Monday for the regular school year.

Whether or not the board will fix its tax levy at tomorrow's meeting, is doubtful. The matter can be postponed until the next meeting, but it is believed that it will be fixed before Oct. 10, and the board may require a longer time to consider the matter.

The regular monthly meeting of the school board will be held tomorrow evening. Outside of the regular routine business, there is little of special interest to the school matter to be disposed of.

The committee on buildings and grounds will submit a report on the repairs to be made to the school building during the summer months, and preparations will be made for opening the building a week from Monday for the regular school year.

Whether or not the board will fix its tax levy at tomorrow's meeting, is doubtful. The matter can be postponed until the next meeting, but it is believed that it will be fixed before Oct. 10, and the board may require a longer time to consider the matter.

GET SNAPSHOT OF A ROBBER

Philadelphia Girls Photograph Man Holding Up a Stage.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 31.—When Miss Helen and Miss Anna Wilkinson and their mother, Mrs. James Wilkinson, return to their home in West Philadelphia they will be able to show to their friends a snapshot picture of the highwayman who held up the stage coach in which they were riding to Mariposa Grove, Cal., a few days ago and robbed them of $200.

From all accounts he was an unusually polite robber. After he had taken all the passengers got down from the coach, threatening to "shoot them off" if they didn't move quickly, he took everything they had.

Then Miss Anna Wilkinson, the younger and more daring of the two sisters, said:

"Please Mr. Robber, would you let me take a snapshot of you for my collection?"

The robber scratched his head. This was a new one on him, but he did not like to be cheerful to a pretty girl, especially after he had taken as he supposed, all the money she had. As a matter of fact he didn't get all of it by $200. If he had known that he might not have been so economical.

"I reckon I wouldn't mind being 'I've got the mask on,' he said. 'But I am going to keep this revolver on you, and if any of you try to come any funny business on me I'll blow you full of holes. I'm working under a handicap here, because I ought to have a partner, and you'd better not try to try to take any unfair advantage of me.'"

Miss Wilkinson assured the highwayman that she wouldn't think of playing unfair with anyone who had been so exceedingly courteous and fair to her, so he passed the camera to her. She took a snapshot of the robber, and then she insisted upon keeping the ugly blue-steel revolver, the kind that the cowboys use, very much in the foreground. In the picture it is said to look about the size of a cannon.

So the picture was taken and the robber, carrying his plunder in a sack, made his exit backward, like a polite man leaving a parlor, except of course, for his revolver. Dispatches have told the story of the robbery, but the photograph episode has just reached Philadelphia in letters to friends of the young woman.

Among the passengers were Anton Veith, Austrian consul at Milwaukee. The watch that the highwayman took from him was a beautiful one. Mr. Veith explained the circumstances and asked if he might have the watch back. Without a word the robber returned the watch and the other jewelry that had been dropped into his hat.

In the stage coach there were two blacksmiths. The highwayman winked to accept their money, saying that they had to work too hard for it and needed it as badly as he did. It was only the two blacksmiths who were on the stage. They could afford to be generous, he said.

The Misses Wilkinson affected to be very awkward in getting out of the stage coach, and while they were doing it, Miss Anna Wilkinson succeeded in concealing $200 in her clothing.

She feels that she has saved the $200 and procured a snapshot of the highwayman for $10, she got the best of the bargain.

Miss Helen Wilkinson is 25 years old and teaches in the Hoffman school, Fifty-fifth street and Haverford avenue. She also has class in the Sunday school of the Princeton Presbyterian church, Saunders and Powell avenues. Her sister, Anna, is 23 years old and teaches in the school at Nineteenth and Reed streets.

The Wilkinsons live at 649 North Union street, West Philadelphia, and are well-to-do. The girls spend their salaries in traveling. This year they decided to take in the Portland exposition and the Yellowstone, and were on their way to Mariposa Grove when the holdup occurred.

MONEY ON BUSHES

Was Part of Swampy Rural Carrier's Pack.

Vernon, Ind., Aug. 31.—Wilbur McClure, carrier on rural route No. 2, out of this city, had a narrow escape from being drowned. ARRESTED USING THE ROCK AGAIN

Michael Riley, Wanted Point of Rocks Being for Forgery, Caught Chopped Up For Pavements.

On Former Occasion Escaped From International Falls Marshal. Good Progress Being Made on West Superior Street.

After escaping from the custody of the marshal of International Falls, Michael Riley was arrested at Winnipeg at the request of the Duluth police, and brought back to the city to face his trial for forgery.

The jail at International Falls was flooded with water when Riley was captured, and he had to be locked up in an out-house while the marshal went to send a telegram to the Duluth police.

When arrested, Riley was carrying a bag of rocks, which he had taken from the property of the city.

Good progress is being made on the West Superior street job, and the contractor will commence rolling the concrete over the street.

The city has received a large quantity of rocks, which will be used for the purpose of paving the street.

The city's tar macadam mixer is also being used on the work, the usual result being paid by the contractor.

BIG CALENDAR FOR SEPTEMBER

District Court—Has 127 Cases Noted For Trial.

The September term of district court will open next Wednesday morning with a calendar of 127 cases, which number is slightly above the usual average for that term. Out of this total of 127 cases 10 are new and 25 are continued from the previous term.

The new calendar will also show twenty-one divorce cases, which is also close to the usual average for that term.

DICK'S DECISION

By Crittenden Marriott.

(Copyright, 1905, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

There was no doubt at all that Fred Williams owed everything to Dick Rogers. For seven years he had stood to her in the place of a parent, making a far more satisfactory father than her real happy-go-lucky father had been.

But Dick Rogers was not a man who had shuffled off this life as easily as he had shuffled off most other obligations, leaving his only child to the care of his mother.

He had been fond of her father, chiefly because he had been so good to her, and he had been fond of her mother, chiefly because she had been so good to her.

It was easy to decide what this chance should be, as the child was a born actress, a minute to her finger tips, and the possessor of many wily ways which Dick was sure would win her fame in due time if given proper chance for their display.

But first she must be educated. Without this Dick felt sure she would be huddled up, so that even her native talent would not bring her to the fore. So he had decided to send her to a boarding school in a galaxy alone to provide the wherewithal.

At the end of the five years—hard years, when Dick was seldom certain of his dinner, when his mother was that he might fail him and be unable to keep up the payments that stood between her and her father's debt—she had been educated.

She had been educated in the best of ways, and she had been educated in the best of ways, and she had been educated in the best of ways.

She had been educated in the best of ways, and she had been educated in the best of ways, and she had been educated in the best of ways.

"Boost for the benefit game Sunday, and for a central ball park next year," is the cry of the Duluth fans at the present time.

If the fans want a ball park nearer to the central part of the city and a faster and better ball team next year, now is the time to show their attitude. The management has made a special appeal for the fans to turn out to next Sunday's game, which will be the last Sunday game of the season, and with the exception of the Duluth fans, the last opportunity to see the team perform, and on the response of the fans will depend largely the plans for next year. It is something in the nature of a popular vote by the baseball lovers of the city. If they want the team managers to go ahead with their plans for bettering the team, and putting the game on a sounder basis in the city, Sunday is the day for them to turn out and show themselves.

The management, as well as the support of the fans next Sunday. The club is still a considerable sum short of playing even on the last two years, although it has made some money this season, and a packed grand stand next Sunday would come very close to bringing the backers of the club out even on the two years' play.

The Champs now have the pennant clinched, and even if they should lose the remaining games, and the Tigers should win all, O'Dea's men would still have the "rag."

Sunday will therefore be a good opportunity to give the pennant winners a fitting send-off as well as to show the sentiment in regard to next year's plans, and there should be 2,000 people in the stands for the occasion.

Defeat Fargo on Fargo Day at Fair.

Grand Forks, Aug. 31.—(Special to The Herald).—Yesterday was Fargo Day at the state fair, and a large crowd of Fargo fans turned out to the ball game and watched their favorites meet defeat at the hands of the Grand Forks team.

The game was a close one for six innings, but the home team landed on Finnigan in the seventh and hammered out five runs, clinching the game.

FARICAL GAME.

Superior Wins Wonderful Contest From Crookston.

The merry race for the Northern league subway championship, now in progress in Superior, assumed a farical aspect yesterday, when the Suburbanites went into yesterday's game and hammered out six runs in the first three innings, off the assortment of pitchers served up by the Crookston team.

Potts started for him for five runs in the first inning, and they had hammered out three more in the second, and Harris was swatted even harder than Potts, and Johnson tried his hand in the third inning. The second baseman allowed six hits and four runs in quick succession, and then Capt. Brierley pitched good ball, or else the Superior batters had enough to satisfy them, as only three more runs were scored in the remaining five innings.

Several pitched good ball, most of the hits off him being made after the side should have been out. Kelley had four safe hits to his credit, while French had three safe ones, two bases on balls and five runs.

There were three distinct shocks, and in each instance the tremor was accompanied by a sound like a distant rumble. The first impression was that the powder magazine at the navy yard had exploded, and hundreds of queries along this line were received at the yard. There had been no explosion, however, and the shocks were felt along the entire New Hampshire coast line. The first shock was felt a little before 5:05 p. m., and the other shocks followed soon after. In the business section of the city shoppers and employees of the stores rushed out into the street believing the buildings were about to collapse. Each of the three shocks continued for several seconds.

RAIN IN NORTHWEST CAUSES ADVANCES.

Rain in Northwest Causes Covering and Wheat Advances.

Flax Offerings Also Drop Off and the Price Rises.

Duluth Board of Trade, Aug. 31.—The Northwest had a little rain today and there was a short of shorts in wheat in consequence. The market opened considerably higher in the Northwest and held the advance very well, the closing being at practically the opening prices, which showed a gain of 1/2c in the new September option and 1/4c in the old at Duluth and 1c gain in Minneapolis. Chicago and Southwestern markets were not so strong and a wire from a Minneapolis dealer showed a gain of 1/2c in the new September option and 1/4c in the old at Duluth and 1c gain in Minneapolis. Chicago and Southwestern markets were not so strong and a wire from a Minneapolis dealer showed a gain of 1/2c in the new September option and 1/4c in the old at Duluth and 1c gain in Minneapolis.

The Liverpool market was unchanged to 1/2c higher, but 1/2c lower, Antwerp unchanged to 1/2c lower, Berlin 1/2c higher and Budapest 1/2c higher. Reports of Northwestern yields that are coming show even better results than have been predicted. A wire from a Manitoba point this morning said that in a district where there were more than fifteen bushels was looked for, twenty-six bushels are being threshed out.

Broomhull of Liverpool says the German official report on wheat and rye shows an unsatisfactory condition. Car receipts at Duluth were 4, against 12 last year, and at Minneapolis 30, against 220 last year, making a total for the Northwest of 30, against 242 last year. Chicago received 40, against 80 last year.

Primary receipts of wheat were 57,000 bushels, last year 70,000 bushels, 41,000 bushels, last year 48,000 bushels. Clearances of wheat and flour were 335,000 bushels.

Corn in the Liverpool market closed 1/2c higher. In the Chicago market December closed 1/2c higher. Primary receipts of corn were 67,000 bushels, last year 62,000 bushels. Shipments of corn were 57,000 bushels, last year 57,000 bushels. Clearances were 204,000 bushels.

Trading in wheat in the Duluth market was very dull, but the price was firmer. The opening was 1/2c higher at 82 1/2c, reacted to 82 1/2c at 10:15, and then pulled back to 82 1/2c at 11:45. At that point it steadied and then sold back to 82 1/2c at 12:30, and closed at 82 1/2c. The new September option opened 1/2c higher at 79 1/2c, and closed at 79 1/2c.

On the 31st, the market was unchanged. Following are the closing prices: Wheat—No. 1 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 2 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 3 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 4 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 5 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 6 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 7 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 8 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 9 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 10 northern, 84 1/2c.

Receipts—Wheat, 17,811 cwt.; 5,240; oats, 1,077; barley, 17,343; rye, 1,564. Shipments—Wheat, 20,000; oats, 5,000; barley, 40,000.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.
Wet Weather Gives Wheat an Early Strengthen.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Wet weather in the Northwest started active covering by shorts in the wheat pit here today resulting in a strong market. Offerings were comparatively light. September opened 1/2c higher at 82 1/2c, and closed at 82 1/2c. The new September option opened 1/2c higher at 79 1/2c, and closed at 79 1/2c.

Receipts—Wheat, 17,811 cwt.; 5,240; oats, 1,077; barley, 17,343; rye, 1,564. Shipments—Wheat, 20,000; oats, 5,000; barley, 40,000.

Strength of wheat had a bullish effect on the market. The opening was 1/2c higher at 82 1/2c, reacted to 82 1/2c at 10:15, and then pulled back to 82 1/2c at 11:45. At that point it steadied and then sold back to 82 1/2c at 12:30, and closed at 82 1/2c.

On the 31st, the market was unchanged. Following are the closing prices: Wheat—No. 1 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 2 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 3 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 4 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 5 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 6 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 7 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 8 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 9 northern, 84 1/2c; No. 10 northern, 84 1/2c.

Receipts—Wheat, 17,811 cwt.; 5,240; oats, 1,077; barley, 17,343; rye, 1,564. Shipments—Wheat, 20,000; oats, 5,000; barley, 40,000.

Amendment to Articles of Incorporation of Hibbing Water, Light & Power Company.

We, the undersigned President and Secretary of Hibbing Water, Light & Power Company do hereby certify that at a meeting of the Board of Directors of said Company duly held at the office of the Company on the first day of June, 1905, at which meeting all of the stockholders holding all of the stock of the Company were present, the following Articles of Incorporation of the Company were amended by resolution duly passed, which resolution was adopted by a vote of the stockholders of the Company under and by virtue of which resolution Article I of the Articles of Incorporation of the Company was amended so as to read as follows:

The name of this corporation shall be "Crowley Electric Company."

The general nature of the business of this corporation shall be the manufacture and sale of electricity for light and power purposes, the pumping, storing and distributing of water for public and private uses; the buying, selling and disposing of electrical appliances, machinery and fixtures; the construction and operation of waterworks and electric light plants;
the fitting, repairing, altering and building of electrical machinery and machinery used in the pumping, storing and distributing of water; the buying and selling of machinery used in waterworks plants and the doing of all other work.
The corporation shall also have the right to buy, own and lease any and all real estate, personal and mixed property, that it may deem necessary or expedient in the conduct of its business, to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of the same.

The principal place of transacting business of this corporation shall be Duluth, Minnesota.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hand and seals on this 1st day of June, A. D. 1905.
